FAMOUS HANDS

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

Peggy Rotzell of Philadelphia, who has been winning more than her fair share of tournaments these past couple of years, found herself in four spades doubled in a recent championship event.

East had decided to take a fling at high life, after noting the vulnerability, and opened with three diamonds. When Mrs. Rotzell overcalled with three spades, West, with admirable restraint, managed to pass, but when over North's three notrump bid, South bid four hearts, West could contain himself no longer and doubled—pianissimo.

Realizing the dancer of playing in a four-card suit, Mrs. Rotzell ran to four spades, but West doubled this contract accrescendo, appassionato, and fortissimo, and pretty loud at that.

The ace of diamonds was led and ruffed. A low club to the ace caught West's king. Another diamond was ruffed.

Declarer decided, from both the vigor of the double and West's apparent shortage in the minor suits that West had all five trumps. Having arrived at this conclusion, Mrs. Rotzell put into action a plan to combat West's five trump tricks.

She led the A-K-Q of hearts, and when East failed to ruff the third heart, her suspicions were confirmed. The jack of hearts was now led and trumped in dummy so that still another diamond could be ruffed.

Eight tricks had been played and none had been lost. West's cards by now consisted of A-Q-10-9-6. of spades.

A club was led and West trumped with the six. He returned the nine of spades and declarer won with jack for trick number nine.

Another club was led and West trumped with the ten. Now West had left only A-Q of spades and could not prevent South's king of spades from scoring trick number ten.

West made just three tricks — the A-10-6 of trumps.

East didn't have much to say. He had only one criticism. He thought West should have doubled all right, but — diminuendo.

The Roadside Used As Clinic

A few months ago a little Indian girl walked eight miles in the torrid temperatue of a pre-monsoon heat wave. Tired and bruised from her long trip over rocky and isolated paths, she hobbled to a medical van and collapsed.

The kindly doctor knew immediately that Rama was ridden with malaria, but becaise she was able to reach medical help, today she is well and healthy.

Rama's heartbreaking journey had led her to a fully-equipped jeep ambulance, one of a fleet of six donated by the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada.

Staffed by competent Indian physicians, they have literally turned the roadside into a clinic, making modern medical knowledge and drugs available to backward and isolated villagers for the first time.

30 YEARS

Eighty-five per cent of India's teeming millions still live in villages, where an adult can look forward to a life span of barely 30 years, and five out of every ten children die before they reach the age of 12.

The USC has conducted an extensive medical assistance program in India since 1952. In addition to the vans, which serve hundreds of tiny communities in four Indian states, the USC is financing a midwifery training scheme in the rugged hills of Assam. In New Delhi's worst slum, a USC Community Centre provides medical care, literacy classes, supplementary feeding and recreation for 5,000 Pakistani refugees who have settled in this dirty, overcrowded section of the city.

At Chattarpur, near the country's capital, the USC operates a Rural Health Centre where the farmers can learn improved methods of farming, sanitation and hygiene. Streets in Chattarpur are clean now, and refuse bins read "Use Me" to keep all lanes that way!

FOSTER PARENT

Perhaps the best known aspect of the USC program in India is its sponsorship of eight children's Homes under the USC "Foster Parent" scheme. To these Homes have come some of the most destitute children, picked up by the police because of begging, stealing, loitering or smuggling liquor. Today they are well-fed, well-behaved, happy and normal boys and girls.

India still faces tremendous problems of overpopulation, underdevelopment, illiteracy and superstition, food shortages, lack of medical assistance and lack of communications. But in the first 10 years of Independence, a valiant beginning has been made in every direction to combat these arch-foes.

Before Christmas Day the USC must raise $175,000 to continue its vital program in India as well as in nine other countries.

Canadians wishing to share their own good fortune, may send contributions directly to the Unitarian Service Committee, 78 Sparks Street, Ottawa, or Bank of Montreal, Charlottetown.

DUBIOUS HONOR

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Voters may have set a record in Saturday's municipal election here but they aren't likely to boast. Only 2,672—27.3 per cent of the 9,786 eligible—cast ballots in the contest over four city council seats. It is believed the lightest municipal vote in history here.

OLD RELICS

ARDLEIGH, England (CP)— Nearly 90 Bronze Age burial urns have been uncovered in a field at this Essex community.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

A W R Y F Y Q G. T E G T O E Y J W N F
N Q E Y J R T Q E G R A W R Y D Y M — H Q H W.
