SEED TIME and HARVEST

IN those far-off days Louis Hébert had no bank to give him assistance or encouragement. Today it is different. This Century-old Bank, actuated by a genuine desire to promote Canada's basic industry, always welcomes opportunities to serve the agricultural community.

Louis Hébert, Canada's first practical farmer, was a member of that little colony at Fort Royal (Annapolis Royal) who, in 1605, first attempted to cultivate Canadian soil. Later, in 1616, he settled in Quebec, made a clearing on the heights of Cape Diamond, cultivated it with his own hands, acquired a fief and became, except for Champlain, the leading citizen of Quebec. Above is depicted a monument to his memory which today stands in the City of Quebec.

New Type of Lens Aid To Semi-blind

LOS ANGELES, June 26 (AP)—A new type of spectacle lens with a magnification of 300 per cent, bringing new hope to the partially blind, was described to the American Academy of Optometry today.

Dr. William Feinbloom of New York said seven children in blind institutions already had been returned to public schools through its use.

"Many patients who could not previously be helped through optical science can look forward now to useful activity," he predicted.

The lens, called a teleopic-magnifier, resembles a glass cone. One inch long, it consists of a combination of from three to five lenses for each eye and is light enough to be fitted into ordinary eyeglass frames.

It has been successfully applied to 29 cases of optic nerve atrophy," said Dr. Feinbloom, a research fellow at Columbia University.
