About Gloves

There are gloves—and gloves, glove makers—and glove makers.

There may be somewhere on top of the earth, better gloves than "Perrins."

It's possible—but not over probable.

To-day we're showing a newly opened line of Perrin's dainty gloves for ladies.

Black and new shades.

Lace and spring button fastenings, 75c per pair right up.

Some leading prices are 80c, $1.10, $1.35, $1.45, $1.85.

We would rather show them than not.

THE PARLIAMENT OF CANADA

A Curious Difference in the Speech

COL HUGHES WANTS MILITIA MATTERS DISCUSSED.

A Number of Other Items up for Consideration.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

OTTAWA, March 17.—Parliament opened yesterday, and the House adjourned till Monday out of respect to the memory of John F. Wood, M.P.

Attention is called to a curious fact in connection with the Speech from the Throne.

The French version states, in reference to the Washington negotiations, that an agreement had been reached on several of the questions at issue, when a disagreement arose over the boundary question.

The English version simply speaks of considerable progress having been made.

The Deadman's Island issue will be raised by Prior and Maxwell.

Colonel Hughes wants to see the Government enroll a brigade of Canadian officers and men for Imperial service abroad; also, the establishment of a pension system for permanent services and the free transportation for two men from each battalion to the Dominion rifle matches.

Moore wants coal oil placed on the free list.

As the Government has given no sign of introducing an insolvency bill, Fortin will present the measure defeated by the Canadian Board of Trade.

Maxwell wants to increase the Chinese poll-tax to $500.

Sir C. H. Tupper will interrogate the Government in regard to the sale of the Canadian Eastern Railway and the purchase of steel rail for the Intercolonial and will move for papers on the latter subject; also, in regard to the construction of a deep-water terminus at St. John.

THE WINTER MAIL SERVICE.

SIR,—My letter, which appeared in Monday's EXAMINER, has called forth quite an explanatory editorial from the Independent Guardian wherein it is alleged that the tabular statement which appeared in Saturday's Guardian, and which gave rise to so much adverse comment, was prepared by Mr. Hazard at the solicitation of the Guardian. Now it is a great pity that the Guardian did not state that fact, if it is a fact, in the first instance. What the Guardian did say was:

"There has been so much discussion about the mails of late, that we feel sure our readers will be interested in the statement on our first page to-day, giving particulars of the ice-boat service during six years past. It has been carefully prepared from official sources by Mr. Horace Hazard, and affords good material from which to judge of the comparative efficiency of this service in different years. Guardian readers will feel under obligation to Mr. Hazard for the valuable information therein supplied."

And it was upon these statements that I based my letter of Monday's date. But it said now that Mr. Hazard received an order from the Guardian for certain goods to answer a certain purpose. These goods were supplied, with the maker's name properly stamped on them and used for the purpose required; but when it was found that the goods are useless for the purpose intended, it is explained that the manufacturer did not intend them for that purpose at all. Surely the customer would have a right to complain that the goods were unsuitable; and to place the blame on the manufacturer and not on the seller who sold only what he had ordered.

I therefore do not withdraw any of the strictures contained in my letter. The passage published above from the Guardian, justified them as against Mr. Hazard. The explanation in Wednesday's Guardian does not challenge the justness of my comments, but in effect says that they should have been directed against the Guardian and not against Mr. Hazard, who only supplied what he was asked for. If Wednesday's explanation had been published on Saturday, it may be that my letter would have been differently worded. But, as it is, it may be altered by substituting the Guardian's name instead of Mr. Hazard's for my strictures and comments since the explanation will apply as well to the Guardian as to Mr. Hazard. It will be news, however, to many to learn that the editor of the Guardian, who I believe is a Presbyterian, practices the belief in vicarious suffering.

The Guardian appears to be anxious to get at the facts as to the comparative mail service in the past years and the team service of this year. Now, surely that paper can obtain this information from Mr. Hazard just as easily as it obtained the now celebrated statement. We have also the Guardian's assurance that Mr. Hazard has more material of the statistical kind at hand than any other citizen, and that if he has not the information he usually knows where it can be obtained. By all means let the public have it, and at the same time give us the cause for the now daily occurrence of having a great portion of the mail left behind at Cape Tormentine. MERCHANT.

PERSONAL.

POPE'S HEALTH IS CRITICAL

Danger is Feared From His Wound.

MAY NOT SERVE FOR THREE MONTHS LONGER.

Feared He May Expire in a Fainting Fit.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.]

LONDON, March 17.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily News says: The worst symptom of the Pope's condition is his extreme weakness, which is responsible for the slow healing of his wound. The bandages were only renewed to-day, Thursday. Moreover His Holiness obstinately refused to take complete rest from affairs of State and his doctors have been compelled to promise him that he may attend the ceremony in the Sistine Chapel on April the 11th in honor of St. Leo of Rome.

The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says: "I learn from an unimpeachable source that there is no hope of effecting a real cure, as the Pope's wound refuses to heal. There is every fear of blood poisoning, and the strength of His Holiness is entirely maintained by Cognac and Mousali. Dr. Laponi continues to sleep at the Vatican. It is feared that the Pope may die in a fainting fit, and especially as he habitually sleeps on his back, which produces a dangerous condition of things. His attendants are obliged to turn him over frequently. It will be a miracle if he survives another three months.
