WIDOWED POLIO VICTIM RUNS AFOUL OF LAW

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A widowed polio victim has run afoul of Britain's traffic laws for shuttling her two children to the baby sitter in her motorized invalid carriage.

"I must decide whether to break the law again or neglect my children, and I can assure you I'm not going to neglect my children," said Mrs. Freda Blyth, 25, of suburban Bracknell.

Mrs Blyth works as a secretary six hours a day because she cannot support herself, John, 5, and Jeanette, 4, on a widow's pension and her relief cheque.

To get about, she uses the one-seat invalid carriage. Last week she was driving it down Bracknell's main street with the children aboard when a policeman stopped her.

APPEARS IN COURT

He told Mrs. Blyth it was against the law to carry passengers in a one-seat vehicle and reluctantly gave her a ticket.

In court Tuesday the mother said:

"My neighbors and friends are very kind to me, but I cannot impose on people's kindness every day of the week. I pay a friend to look after them while I'm at work, but she lives two miles away and the only way I can get them to her is in my little car."

Said Magistrate Norman Allen:

"We sympathize with your difficulties, but it's not up to us to bend the law in your favor—hard luck though it is on you."

He fined Mrs. Blyth £2 ($5).

Mrs. Blyth told reporters:

"I have applied to the ministry of health for a mini-car that is controlled completely by hand, but they told me these were only for war-disabled pensioners or invalid married couples."

A spokesman said the ministry was reviewing the situation.

Rev. and Mrs. Donald Boothroyd and their sons have arrived from Moncton to spend a two-weeks' holiday at Montrose.

Mrs. Erskine MacMillan and two children of London, Ontario, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Matthews, Elmsdale.

BOAC Is Boasting A Healthy Profit

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—British Overseas Airways Corporation, boasting a healthy profit for the second consecutive fiscal year, hopes to extend its service to the Soviet Union and China, it was announced here.

Sir Giles Guthrie, BOAC chairman, told a press conference the publicly-owned airline hopes eventually to fly via Moscow to Tokyo and also to China. He released the company's annual report for the fiscal year ended March 31 last.

An "exchange of views" began about 18 months ago between BOAC and Chinese Communist authorities but there had so far been no such exchange at the governmental level between London and Peking.

When a reporter mentioned the recent Canadian-Soviet air agreement, Guthrie said the BOAC proposal goes further, envisaging a service to Moscow and "beyond." BOAC's sister publicly-owned airline, British European Airways, already has a London-Moscow service similar to the one planned between Montreal and Moscow.

BOAC, for the second year running, made a clear profit of more than $24,000,000, thanks partly to an increase in business on the North Atlantic and a preference by passengers for flying on the British-built VC-10 jet aircraft.

The profits followed a long string of annual in-the-red reports.

"BOAC results were better than for the airline industry as a whole for the period under review, said Sir Giles. The industry percentage increase in April-September between Europe and the United States was 17.2, while BOAC's was 23.3.

Canadian traffic also "improved significantly — during summer, the increase was 29.6 per cent over the previous year."

As announced BOAC has been authorized to purchase six 500-seat U.S. Boeing 747s at a cost of $165,000,000 although there has been a considerable outcry for purchase of VC-10s instead. Despite its attractions, the VC-10 was more expensive to operate.

Guthrie told a questioner BOAC has not yet reached the point of decision regarding the supersonic Concorde passenger plane now being built by Britain and France.

The Concorde is scheduled to appear in 1971, but some experts believe the estimate is optimistic. BOAC has eight places in the "Concorde queue" reserved but has not yet put down any mony.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♣
4 NT	Pass	5 ♣	5 ♦
5 ♠	6 ♦	Dble

Opening lead—ace of spades.

This deal occurred in the finals of the Vanderbilt team of four championship in 1965. When the hand was played at the first table, the North-South pair on the Jacoby team arrived at six diamonds doubled on the bidding shown.

West's jump to four notrump was somewhat optimistic, as well as unsound, since even a response of five diamond by East to show one ace would not have settled the question of whether or not a slam could be made. East's spade bid certainly did not guarantee solid trumps.

In the actual case, the Blackwood response of five clubs to show no aces gave South a chance to bid five diamonds, which North, in turn, raised to six. East doubled to stop West from bidding six spades, but this tactic boomeranged when South proceeded to make 12 tricks with the greatest of ease. West cashed the ace of spades and South scored 1,090 points.

At the second table, where the North-South cards were held by members of the Jordan team, the bidding went:

West	North	East	South
♥	Pass	1 ♠	2 NT
♠	5 ♦	5 ♠	Pass
♠

The two notrump bid was conventional and showed great length in the minor suits. It was the "unusual notrump.". South's pass of five spades is hard to explain, since he had every reason to think that five spades would be made and that six diamonds was likely to go down much, if at all.

The six spade bid was also doubtful, but it is only fair to add that from West's viewpoint East might have had a hand suitable for a slam.

East went down one, but the Jacoby team still gained 1,040 points on the deal. They went on to win the Vanderbilt, but largely as a result of this one hand.

Steelworkers Vote To Return

HAMILTON (CP) — Striking steelworkers at four Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. plants here voted Sunday at a special membership meeting to return to work today.

A total of 5,472 ballots were cast at the meeting with 4,319 members of striking Local 1005 of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) voting to return to work. Eleven ballots were spoiled.

About 12,500 workers walked off their jobs in a wildcat strike which began Wednesday night to protest slowness of contract negotiations.

Union officials said the men will begin reporting for the day shift at the Stelco properties today.

They said members of the union's executive will meet the workers at the gate and lead them into the plant in an attempt to thwart any picket line which may be formed by dissident workers.

Tension eased Saturday after two days of violence as strikers all but ignored peaceful picket duty.

Fined For Dangerous Driving

Harry Matthews, city, charged with dangerous driving, was fined $100 and costs or 60 days when he appeared before Magistrate A.J. Haslam in city police court Saturday morning.

Raymond B. Acorn, city, charged with drunken driving, was remanded to August 12.

WE'LL NEED ENERGY

The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development estimates North America will have a total primary energy requirement equivalent to 2,400,000,000 tons of oil annually by 1980.
