fore being named chief justice in 1954. Before coming to Ottawa he was for three years a puisne judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Perhaps the most important case that came up during his years on the Supreme Court of Canada was a federal government request for a ruling on the constitutional validity of a bill to abolish Canadian appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London.

The then Mr. Justice Kerwin voted with the majority in a 3-to-2 decision handed down Jan. 19, 1940, that such a bill was within the powers of Parliament.

Governor-General Vanier said he was "shocked beyond words" to hear of the death.

"He was a dear devoted friend who was always happy to depuize for me, sometimes at great inconvenience to himself," said Gen. Vanier.

"For many years he has filled with grace and wisdom his exalted office. I shall miss his friendship and help."

Gen. Vanier will attend Chief Justice Kerwin's funeral here Tuesday, at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church.
