THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 25, 1895.

THE HOSPITAL HUB-BUB.

THE EXAMINER, a few days ago, set forth this argument:

1. The City Hospital was established to fill, and did fill, a long-felt want, treating alike patients of all classes and creeds.

2. But a few persons promoted the establishment of the P. E. Island Hospital because they did not like the nuns, and were jealous of the credit won by Roman Catholics.

3. The consequence is that we have two hospitals where we ought to have one, that the P. E. Island hospital is again in financial difficulty, and that the community, taxed heavily in many other ways, finds the expense of both hospitals rather more than it can bear.

4. Therefore the promoters of the second hospital ought, themselves, to endow it handsomely.

This argument has not been answered; and we therefore conclude that it is unanswerable. There is certainly nothing unreasonable or unprecedented in asking men who establish hospitals to endow them, rather than leave them a burden upon the people at large. We see a precedent at Montreal in the splendid example of Lord Mount Stephen and Sir Donald Smith. That example might easily be followed (at a distance of course) by several of the wealthy Protestant gentlemen interested in the P. E. Island Hospital. Or, if they require for their imitation examples further abroad, let them go to Great Britain, France, Germany, or any other Christian country and they will find them in numbers.

It is true that in the effort to relieve the public of part of its burden of hospitals and to stir up the pure minds of certain wealthy gentlemen to a sense of their duty, we made use of strong language, though true. But there was, we maintain, nothing in THE EXAMINER'S article to justify the hubbub that has been raised; and we regret to find in that hubbub additional proof of the presence here of a spirit that is not Charitable, or Christian, or Catholic in the broad sense, but rather maligunant and diabolical. The Guardian, for instance, strives to convince the public that THE EXAMINER is anxious to stir up sectarian strife and toady to the Catholics. We denounce this as a scandalous misrepresentation. If the P. E. Island Hospital had been first established and filled a felt want in the community, and the City Hospital had subsequently been established as a Roman Catholic competitor; and if its promoters had, after exploiting town and country for subscriptions, appealed again and again to an already overburdened public for means to make up balances on the wrong side, we should with equal warmth have argued that its promoters ought themselves to "come down handsomely." Equally erroneous and nonsensical is the Guardian's statement that THE EXAMINER has "insulted" everyone connected with the P. E. Island Hospital including "the good women who compose the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society—who take upon themselves the by-no-means-enviable task of collecting from the public for a public institution." If it be true that the task of collecting from the public is "by no means enviable," there is nothing "insulting" in THE EXAMINER'S suggestion of a method whereby the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society would be relieved, or partially relieved, of it. The idea of THE EXAMINER insulting the Ladies' Aid Society or any person connected with the P. E. Island Hospital is ridiculous. We appreciate the ladies' motives and acts too highly to even insinuate, as the Guardian does, that their task of collecting in aid of the Hospital is anything but a labor of love. But we maintain that their gentle offices might well be employed in other and more congenial occupations; and we maintain, further, that the necessity imposed upon the Sisters of Charity, on behalf of the City Hospital, and the ladies of the Aid Society, on behalf of the P. E. Island Hospital, of going out into the streets and highways and canvassing from door to door, is not creditable to the Christianity of this community, and is particularly disgraceful to our men of wealth and affluence. If we had but one hospital, there would be but little necessity for it. Have two hospitals, the promoters of the second, at least, ought to come dawn handsomely in order that it may be avoided. In this connection we cannot forbear a remark concerning the threat of a correspondent of the Guardian, that because THE EXAMINER published an article of which he did not approve, he would withdraw his subscription to the City Hospital. This is the most absurd exhibition of narrow-mindedness of which we have heard. We did not suppose that anyone in this community was capable of such a conclusion from such a cause. The motive of this man in giving his subscription was evidently not a charitable one; and we are fain to hope that there are not many like him.

We shall not attempt to wholly unravel the tissue of misrepresentation ingeniously woven by the Guardian. We shall merely refer to one point more. It appears that the Guardian bases its statement that THE EXAMINER "strongly insinuated" that the P. E. Island Hospital does no good upon the following:

"So the P. E. Island Hospital was founded upon intolerance. If the promoters of that hospital had done as much for a steam carriage factory they would have done a good thing for the town and country."

This quotation shows clearly, within itself, that THE EXAMINER referred to the founding, not to the subsequent management or conduct of the P. E. Island Hospital. In this view, it is quite consistent with THE EXAMINER'S prior statement that the management was "good," and with its subsequent statement in respect to the creditable manner in which Miss Sheraton had fulfilled the duties of her office. But it is not consistent with the Guardian's interpretation; and therefore the Guardian's interpretation is, evidently, wrong.

We note, in conclusion, a remark in the Patriot's fair and moderate article in this connection, to the effect that there is room enough for two hospitals in this city. When it can be shown that the revenues of the two hospitals are sufficient to meet their expenses, without continually appealing to the public for more money to meet annually recurring deficits, there will be good ground for the Patriot's opinion. We greatly regret that the Patriot does not help forward THE EXAMINER'S agitation for a handsome endowment in support of the P. E. Island hospital. There can be no doubt that a fund of $40,000 or $50,000, yielding $2,000 or $2,500 a year could be subscribed within an hour, and the donors never have any other feeling than that "it is more blessed to give than to receive," and that they have materially relieved an over-burdened public.

—In respect to the British Telegraph revenues and expenditures, an official table, giving the items for the past seven years, is published in the London Electrician, of Sept. 27th. The annual deficit during each of the past three years has been over two million dollars. The Government Telegraph System may be a great boon to the public; but it does not pay, even in the greatest commercial centre and one of the most thickly populated parts of the world.

THE OXFORD WOOLEN MILLS EXIBIT AT THE ST JOHN EXHIBITION.

The exibit of domestic manufacturers made by this company is one of which any country might be proud, and is a centre of attraction. They show one hundred and fifty different kinds and patterns of cloth, from the sixteen ounce heavy weight to the ten ounce light weight, in men's tweeds, and ladies' dress goods in all wools weighing only seven ounces. These dress goods are the bon ton article in Chicago, New York and Ottawa. Lady Aberdeen is among the patrons of these goods. The United States visitors are especially attracted by this exhibit. A prominent Boston business man remarked to a friend the other day "that company makes the best cloth in the world for all purposes," adding "I have used it for the past ten years and find it the best business suit I can get." The company is made up of men of push and energy, their motto being "to lead" They have not only adopted the new improvements of their inventors, which are calculated to better their productions, but have themselves invented some valuable improvements, one of which is a prominent characteristic in this exhibit, viz, the introduction of snatches of other colors differing from the body of the cloth, which gives a very pleasing and showy effect to the goods. The company have patented this improvement in the United States and Canada which prevents its adoption by any other mill. They found that goods were being made to imitate their styles and patterns and were being sold as Oxford goods. They have put a damper on any other mill selling their products on the reputation of the Oxfords by securing and patenting a trade mark, which is a tape woven in the web across the end of every piece No customer need now be deceived. The demand for Oxford goods is ever on the increase. Large sales are made in Ontario, Quebec and the chief cities of the United States. One New York house has just placed an order for three hundred pieces. The company also does an immense trade direct with the farmers and wool growers. Formerly they had one man to fill the orders in this branch, but this class of custom has so increased that they have had to make it a separate department by itself. This business of exchange extends over the whole maritime provinces and Quebec, and the company have so perfected the system of exchange that it matters not if their customer is 1,000 miles away from them he runs no risk, for the company make good any wool that is lost on its way to the mills, or goods going to their customers. The customers are as satisfactorily served as though they transacted the business personally. Samples of all goods are furnished for the asking. The customer makes his selection at his own home, sends his order and knows the price he is to pay. When the order is received the goods are sent at once and in good shape. The Oxford company have shown rare enterprise in exhibiting their goods at the great fairs and exhibitions of the world's centres, viz.: London, England, Paris, Australia, Jamaica, Philadelphia, Chicago and the different cities and towns in Canada. In every case their goods have carried off the highest honors in their class.

McCarthy Will Stick to Home Rule.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Mr. Justin McCarthy, M P., the Irish leader, has written a letter to the newspapers declining to join in the conference which the Rt. Hon. D.R. Plunkett, Conservative member of parliament for Dublin university, has been trying to bring about a meeting between representatives of the various sections of the Irish party to discuss measures for the general good of Ireland which might be jointly submitted to parliament. Mr. McCarthy says he does not believe anything in the way of material improvement in the condition of Ireland will be conferred by the parliament at Westminster or Dublin Castle which will extinguish the national desire for home rule, Still he could not take part in any organization having for its object to seek a substitute for that which he believes is Ireland's greatest need.

GREAT COMPLIMENT FOR THE OXFORD MFG. CO'S. TWEEDS.—Mr. Adams, of E. A. Small & Co., Toronto, paid a high compliment to the Oxford Manufacturing Co's. woolens, in speaking to the Review on the tweed market generally. He said their wearing quality was very good. They got a better price than the great majority of other mills, he said, and they deserve it.—The Canada Dry Goods Review.

LETTER FROM HON. B DAVIES.

SIR,—I am pleased to see in your leading article of the 15th instant, that you have had the courage to express freely your opinion in relation to the quarrel between the coporation on one side and that of the Lieut.-Governor and the Government on the other, in relation to the Park Roadway. I desire to express my thanks to Councillor Haszard for the interest and trouble taken in endeavoring to carry out this Roadway, the necessity for which is very generally admitted.

The citizens have been invited to express their opinion on the matter of difference existing between the contending parties,—while at the same time both agree on the desirability of carrying out the proposition. I availed myself of the offer made to us by Councillor Haszard, and called on him at his office,—after looking over the plan as laid down in a chart of the projected Roadway, I became better informed of the cause of the difference of opinion existing between the Lieut.-Governor and the corporation as to the line of road to be followed.

Now, the chart shows the course that the corporation laid down, viz, to follow the line of the shore front, with the curves in and out as it approaches the bridge leading to Government House, with another curve finishing of at Kent Street I must say I do not wonder at the objection made by the Lieutenant-Governor, because these two curves were unnecessary and objectionable, and because I think that the roadway should be continued in nearly a direct line from Kent Street until it reaches the bank shore, say about eighty yards, then continuing on to Fort Edward and there joined to the roadway leading to Brighton Road.

It appears to me that when the corporation adopted their line of procedure, that is, of building the breastwork close to the bank, it was in order to lessen the expense of construction, which, no doubt, it would do; but I hold that a substantial roadway cannot be effected unless the front of the breastwork is at least some twenty-five feet outside of high-water mark. I think, Mr. Editor, you will allow that if this proposition is carried out it will do away with the necessity of appealing to court, for there is enough of land on the sidewalk now used by levelling it on the breadwork to effect a roadway of a hundred feet wide and overcome the objections that have arisen.

The work cannot be done as it ought to be for $2,000. If it cost $4,000, the interest of that money at 4 per cent. would be a trifling charge in accomplishing this desirable object. I am informed that the Lieutenant-Governor is desirous the roadway should be effected, if, when starting from Kent Street it shall be carried in a direct line from that starting point with the full breadth of the street until it reaches Fanning back as I have laid down; but the Government now interfere. Mr. Peter, for some antiquated opinion, steps in and disallows it.

Do you not think that our great Liberal press, at this juncture, ought to step forward and defend its leader.

Yours respectfully,
BENJ. DAVIES.

Charlottetown, Oct. 24th, 1895.

POWNAL SHOOTING CLUB.

Last night a large number of ladies and gentlemen assembled at the residence of Mr. George Carver, Pownal, in response to an invitation from the Pownal Sporting Club, for the purpose of presenting Mr. Samuel Gay with a $50 scholarship presented by Mr. L. B. Miller, of the Charlottetown Business College, and won by Mr. Gay in the shooting competition at the Ringwood Range. After an excellent supper, provided by Mr. Gay, Mr. Miller, Miss Woods, Miss Ballum and others entertained the company with music and songs for about an hour, when the President called the meeting to order, and on a motion to that effect requested Mr. Arthur Mellish to take the chair. Mr. Mellish in a neat speech referred to the well known excellence of Pownal sho's and the fact that a man must have firm nerves and excellent judgment to be a successful marksman, from which it might be argued that the Pownal men could well lay claim to be somewhat above the general average of mankind—at all events the young ladies present would not resent such a conclusion.

Mr. Mellish made an important announcement to the effect that Pownal would shortly have her reasonable demands gratified in having a company of militia with headquarters at that village.

The Chairman then called on Mr. John Smith, President of the Association to present the prize to Mr. Gay which he did with a few well chosen remarks, saying, among other things, that the Association was in a flourishing condition, and had a good surplus in the treasury. He also referred to the excellent score Mr. Gay made, and expressed the hope that a team from Pownal might be favored with an opportunity of trying their mettle against one from Charlottetown. After Mr. Gay had thanked the President and donor, Mr. L. B. Miller, on request, delivered a patriotic speech, reviewing many of the modern achievements of British arms.

He was followed by Mr. Stanley, who said that, although he was getting up in years, he felt ready to buckle on the sword and take up his rifle, if ever need should arise for his services.

After a vote of thanks to the chairman, a most harmonious and pleasant meeting was brought to a close. Especial thanks are due to Mrs. Gay and Mrs. Carver for their hospitality.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Concessions in Favor of Our Militiamen.

Archbishop Langevin has not made Overtures to Mr. Greenway.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.

The plan adopted early in the year of sending to England militia officers for a period of training with the Imperial troops works so satisfactorily that it is expected that another batch will proceed to England in the near future. Hon. Mr. Dickey, on General Gascoigne's recommendation, has decided to restore to all corps their full number of sergeants. In General Herbert's time the number was reduced by a half.

Great disgust is expressed here at the action of a Winnipeg newspaper correspondent in sending a despatch to the New York papers stating that Archbishop Langevin had made overtures to Mr. Greenway looking to a compromise on the school question and indicating the alleged terms. A private message from Winnipeg says that the Rev. Father Belliveau, private secretary to the Archbishop, officially authorizes the statement that no advances have been made to Mr. Greenway by the Archbishop.

The Maritime list in the Supreme Court will be taken up to-day, the first case being Mayhew vs. Stone, an appeal from P. E. Island.

The Chinese Sacred Lily

The "Shui Sin Far," or Water Fairy Flower, Joss Flower, or Flower of the Gods, etc., as it is called by the Celestials, is a variety of Narcissus, bearing in lavish profusion chaste flowers of silvery white with golden yellow cups. They are of exquisite beauty and entrancing perfume. It is grown by the Chinese, according to their ancient customs, to herald the advent of their new year and as a symbol of good luck.

The bulbs are grown by a method known only to themselves, whereby they attain great size and vitality, ensuring luxuriant growth and immense spikes of flowers; in fact, the incredibly short time required to bring bulbs into bloom (four to six weeks after planting) is one of the wonders of nature. "You can almost see them grow," succeeding almost everywhere and with everybody. They do well in pots of earth, but are more novel and beautiful grown in shallow bowls of water, with enough of fancy pebbles to prevent them from toppling over when in bloom. A dozen bulbs started at intervals will give a succession of flowers throughout the winter. Price (extra large bulbs) 10c. each, $1.00 per dozen.
