A special meeting was held in the office of Mr. R. K. Clements, Montague, yesterday afternoon, of the business men of the community for the purpose of meeting Mr. Murray Elder, representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Walter Hyndman, Charlottetown, provincial vice-president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hyndman urged the reorganization of the King's County Board of Trade and that it should join the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. He proposed that each town in King's County should form its own local Board of Trade and that each group should send representatives to a general meeting of King's County Boards to form one central executive so that this unit would then be able to speak for the whole county instead of an individual section as exists at present.

Both Mr. Elder and Mr. Hyndman pointed out that without the voice of a full representative body little attention would be granted to tender requests. It was apparent, he said, that although considerable good work had already been done, much yet remained, and only through concerted action would it be accomplished.

The dredging of the Montague River, long necessary for so many years, he said, had come to pass this year, and the local Board of Trade was in no small way instrumental in bringing this about. Mr. Hyndman cited other projects as equally important, such as a truck mail service, for King's County, a new bridge at Montague and the establishing of a winter boat service from Pictou to Georgetown.

The meeting was advised that undoubtedly similar circumstances existed in Souris, St. Peter's, Morrell, Peakes, Cardigan and many other localities, and it was made clear that if these requests from all were channelled through one representative body—a King's County Board of Trade for the whole county, then such requests would demand greater attention. The local board decided that it would hold a re-organization meeting in the near future, and call in representatives from the districts, so as to get the Board functioning with as large a membership as possible.
