Free World At Crossroads, Expert Says Of Economy

MONTREAL (CP) - Economically speaking, the free world has arrived at the crossroads, says Dr. Harry G. Johnson, an eminent Canadian and United States economist. The basic lines of a serious cleavage among members of the international economic system are essentially political, Dr. Johnson claims. Whatever the economic system now takes "is a vital matter for the future of the world economy."

Dr. Johnson's observations are contained in a forward to a new pamphlet put out by the Private Planning Association of Canada. The pamphlet, "The World Economy at the Crossroads, places under one cover the texts of three lectures Dr. Johnson delivered at Sir George Williams University's annual Kenneth E. Norris Memorial lectures here last fall. Dr. Johnson said activity of the last two years "has emphasized and brought to public view serious and sharp divisions among the major countries in the world economy."

Some of the activity which he referred to: Studies inaugurated in September, 1963, by the International Monetary Fund and the so-called "group of 10" participants in the General Arrangements to Borrow; the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Tokyo last September; and the June, 1963, conference of the United Nations conference on trade and development, the first time this group had ever met. Since early 1963, nations belonging to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade have been carrying on negotiations for the Kennedy round of bargaining for multilateral tariff reductions. "What is important about all this activity on the international

Finance Minister Sees Need For Strong Federal Gov't

TORONTO (CP) - Finance Minister Gordon said here the federal government must retain firm control over finance, trade, defence and external affairs jurisdiction while encouraging more flexible and decentralized government control of welfare matters. "I feel certain we shall not make the most of our great potentialities in Canada unless we have a federal government that is strong and whose powers and responsibilities are universally accepted," he said in a luncheon speech. He said there must be no erosion of the federal government's powers over fiscal, monetary and trade policy. To these he added defence and external affairs and "other well-recognized areas of federal jurisdiction."

But he said that in a huge country like Canada a considerable degree of decentralization is desirable and necessary in some fields to respond to challenges and changes in a dynamic world. "Surely it is neither necessary nor sensible to insist that arrangements for looking after welfare payments, for example, be handled exactly the same way in the outposts of Newfoundland as in Quebec City or Vancouver.

SHOW FLEXIBILITY

Mr. Gordon said an example of federal - provincial consultation and flexibility will be shown in the forthcoming conference of premiers with the federal government to discuss introduction of a Canada assistance plan, as forecast in the Throne Speech at the opening of the current session of Parliament.

They fell by 1.6 per cent between January, 1964 and January, 1965.

The federal government hopes to work with the provinces in improving administration of public assistance and to link it closely with vocational training and job placement programs.

Along with improved assistance programs, a comprehensive plan of health insurance or medicare "is bound to come about," the finance minister added. But more doctors and nurses, hospital facilities, medical schools, and research must be trained and built first. Text of Mr. Gordon's speech was given to reporters in advance of delivery.

Farm Living, Operating Costs Higher

By JAMES NELSON OTTAWA (CP) - Canadian farmers started 1965 with higher living and operating costs, still far from recovered from a 1963 setback in farm income. The bureau of statistics reported Wednesday its index of commodities and services used by farmers stood at 281.2 for January, up 49 index points from the comparable figure for January, 1964.

This amounted to a 1.8 per cent increase in farm living and operating costs in the year. The bureau previously had announced that its index of wholesale prices of Canadian farm products had risen 3.2 per cent in the same period.

But over a longer period the figures do not present as rosy a picture for the farmer. Between January, 1963, and January, 1964, the wholesale prices of farm products dropped 10 per cent. Comparing the index for this January with the one two years ago, prices are still down 6.2 per cent. In that same two-year period, the overall index of commodities and services used by farmers rose first by 3.1 per cent and then by another 1.8 per cent.

WAGES RISE

The cost of the farmer's hired hand rose dramatically. Farm wages rose 3.7 per cent during 1963 and another 5.6 per cent last year. Farm equipment and material costs rose also, but more modestly, by two per cent and then another 1.8 per cent last year. One bit of relief in the farmers' cost-price squeeze was found last year in farm family living costs. While these had mounted in the two previous years by three and 3.6 per cent,
