

Cook's Corner

PEACH LEMON CUPS

4 to 5 canned cling peach halves
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup granulated sugar

Drain peaches thoroughly and dice enough to make 1 cup. Melt butter and blend in sugar, flour and salt.

There will be a custardy layer at the bottom and a cakelike layer at the top.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I clean varnished furniture?

A. First remove dust and dirt with a soft cloth dipped in turpentine.

Q. How can I keep rubber bands longer, without their rotting?

A. Keep the rubber bands in a tightly closed tin box; they will retain their elasticity much longer than if exposed to the air.

Q. How can I bleach a faded wash dress entirely white?

A. Dissolve a half cup of cream of tartar in two gallons of water, and boil the dress.

Scented Handkerchiefs
The smell of the iron can be eliminated, and a delicate scent of violet will be added to the handkerchiefs by placing some pieces oforris root into a muslin bag and putting this into the water in which they are boiled.

Smelling Salts
Fill a wide-mouthed bottle containing a glass stopper nearly full of subcarbonate of ammonia in coarse powder form, and pour on enough oil of lavender to barely cover the ammonia.

Fingermarks
Wash the furniture with water which has been colored with vinegar to remove fingermarks.

That Body Of Yours

FINDING FOODS CAUSING SYMPTOMS OF ALLERGY

Now that allergy is an important subject of discussion among physicians, there is considerable controversy as to whether foods or substance floating in the air cause head colds and nose, throat and chest symptoms.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Harry Leibowitz, Alexander Chest, and Harry Markow, Brooklyn, N. Y., report their study of 70 patients with head colds, nose, throat and chest symptoms, on whom almost 4,000 skin tests were made.

These food research workers found that in some cases in which the skin tests of a food were strongly positive, the actual eating of this food caused only slight symptoms or no symptoms at all.

Another finding that may surprise many was that skin testing with chocolate showed only slight symptoms whereas the eating of chocolate stood first as a cause of symptoms.

Still another interesting finding was that fish and nuts by skin tests showed few positives and the highest number of negatives, yet it is well known and actual eating of these foods by this group of patient showed that fish and nuts were a frequent cause of allergic symptoms.

Another surprising finding which differs with the findings of other food research workers was that wheat, milk and eggs did not cause allergic symptoms although most of us have friends or relatives who are allergic to one or all of these foods.

Parents Can Control Them

Parents Can Control Them By Closing Pocketbook

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a 17-year-old daughter with whom we can do nothing and who is driving us wild with anxiety.

ANSWER: Sell the automobile, to begin with. If she has no car you automatically restrict her activities to a certain extent.

VICE COSTS MONEY
The lack of the price is the beginning of virtue. The kind of girls whom boys shouldn't know have scant use for the boys whose allowance is so small he can only feed them on sandwiches and beer

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think it best for a man in his middle thirties to select a girl in her teens or one near his own age for his wife? Please give your reasons for choice.

ANSWER: The wise choice is a girl who is in his own age class, somewhere around the late twenties or the early thirties. Not once in a thousand times will a marriage between a man in his middle thirties and a girl in her teens turn out happily.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married only a few months. It was a second marriage for us both.

DEAR MISS DIX: I cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

The dogwood tree among the alders by the mailbox at lane's end is now leafing and down the stream towards the sunrise a plantation of poplars is showing a misty spring shade.

We admired and were somewhat sorry for the industry of a pair of sparrows building a nest on a broad eaves-nook above. They worked busily, she helping happily, or was she rather fussy and bothered with so much to be done

Or was he saying: "If it was for any other woman, I declare I wouldn't bother working at all. I wouldn't pick up one feather. As it is I'm almost exhausted with this refurbishing. And if it would stop at this! But once the children are here - think of the work then - and the added responsibilities! But your eyes shine and your smile is ... there's no other just like it. Why, if I only had the time, I'd come up there and kiss you right now! Anyway" spreading small tender wings "here I come with another feather - for you! It was sad to remember that their labors were for nothing. Presently their home must be destroyed, their belongings scattered. However, they would have this day of delight. Their chattering continued blithely and we too, hummed a small tune as we worked at the washing. It was one never that late!" James exclaims, rising ...

Until tomorrow, Diary Goodnight.

"I think we ought to stay in New Orleans from now on, because that's what you want to do. But I think we ought to live in the shotgun house, because that's what I want to do."

"Good Lord, Patty! You haven't mentioned the shotgun house in months. I thought you'd forgotten all about it."

"I really have a very good memory. And a very strong will. Perhaps you didn't realize about the memory. But you ought to have realized about the will. You had a pretty stiff warning of what that was like, before you married me."

"You don't really want to go and live in that shabby little house, Patty?"

"You tried to tell me I didn't really know what I wanted when I said I was determined to be engaged. If I'd listened to you, I wouldn't have a husband; I wouldn't be expecting a baby."

"Patty, I don't know what on earth to do with you."

"Why, just what you have been doing, right along. Loving me. more and more all the time."

"That was unanswerable, like so many of the things she said. He did love her more and more all the time. It was increasingly revealed to him that he could no more compare the deep and intense feeling he had for her now with that primary passion of possession, which he had once believed constituted the ultimate in fulfillment, than he could compare that to the first impulse which had drawn him to her because she was young and sweet and guileless and he was sick of sophistication and artifice and coyness. And she asked for so little, while she gave so much! Surely, if there were any whim of hers which he could gratify, he could do so."

"Very well," he said. "I don't even know what sort of order the place is in. I haven't been near it

Your Doctor For a Friend

When we're really sick, we're scared and lonely—feel that we've a right to more than the professional services of our doctor. Most doctors agree—but it takes two to make friends.

In May Reader's Digest, noted authority Paul de Kruif shows how we can help our doctors and give five simple tests to help you tell if your doctor is your friend.

MAKE THIS TODAY... apple Lushus!
Delicious, easy, economical. Dissolve Lushus Jelly (any flavour) in 1 cup boiling water. Add 1 cup cold apple juice. Pour into mould and chill. Unmould and garnish with apple slices dipped in lemon juice to prevent discolouration. Remember—only Lushus has the flavour "Rud" to keep the flavour liquid-fresh till you make the jelly. That's why only Lushus has that extra lively fruity freshness. Yet Lushus now costs no more than ordinary jelly powders.
