The Market and Public Gardens.

EXHIBITION BUILDING, HALIFAX, N.S., Sept. 24.

EXHIBITS are still lacking. Workmen are yet employed in finishing the stables and making stands for the flowers. A few cattle—dirty, lank and tired, but exhibiting the unmistakable signs of good breeding—have just arrived from New Brunswick. A few additional machines have been set up in the "machinery building." A few more exhibits have been sent in. But everything is yet unready, and it is quite impossible to draw fair comparisons or make just criticisms. So let us, in the meantime, note a few peculiarities of the staid old town.

THE MARKET.

Halifax has a most magnificent "Club House," but for a public market house we look in vain. Many poor people, black and white, come into the town from all directions. Some come with horses, some with oxen, some with a single ox yoked to a wagon; and it is a common sight to see a sturdy negro woman trudging along, with a huge basket, containing all her earthly store of fruits and vegetables on her head. They congregate in the most public part of the city—near the Post Office, and Custom House and Police Station—all the principal thoroughfares—and there the motley multitude take possession of the sidewalk and proceed to do business. Some display their products in their wagons, and some have little tables on which they spread their wares. But the greater number put everything they have down upon the sidewalk and squat on the bare stones while they haggle with their customers. Thus the progress of foot passengers is impeded, the poor people and their products are exposed to the tender mercies of the elements, and a scene is presented which is as modern as it is incongruous. About twenty-five years ago a market house was erected; and it is said the Corporation with the whole force of the police at their back tried to induce the people to go into it; but they failed. So the market house was left to some butchers and others; and a grimy, greasy, dirty, bad-smelling place it is to-day. There will, probably, some day, be a movement towards providing Halifax with a decent market place.

THE PUBLIC GARDENS.

It is refreshing and delightful to walk through these beautiful gardens. They comprise about fifteen acres—a square block—in a part of the town, easily accessible. They are in charge of the City Council and are under the immediate care of a certain Mr. Power, to whom great credit is due. About ten men are kept employed in them during the summer months; and they are said to be the finest (though not the largest) public gardens in America. Lakes and fountains, trees, shrubs and flowers, combine to make them "just lovely." A lady of taste and travel says they are equal to the most celebrated gardens of Europe; and they are certainly the greatest attraction of an attractive town. To them children and their nurses go when the days are fine; and busy men and tired housewives often spend a pleasant leisure hour within their recreating and refreshing influence. The promenade concerts held in them during summer evenings are exceedingly good.

Orphan Children.

CARDINAL MANNING'S plans for providing homes in Canada for Catholic orphan children seems to be progressing. On the 22nd inst., he addressed a meeting on the subject. The Duke of Norfolk and other influential gentlemen were present at the meeting. The Cardinal said they had met to consider a way of providing for the future safety of neglected Catholic children. A large number of homes for such had been found in Quebec and Toronto. The Dominion Government forwarded the children free of charge to their destinations in Canada where they would have ways of industry and welfare open before them. They were settled in a colony, the pure spiritual life of which was known throughout the world. Arrangements had been made in Canada to receive 550 children from London and 200 from Liverpool. They had pledged themselves that the protective work thus begun should not be slackened. Rev. Dr. Vaughan said that Canada was to be preferred to the United States because of the experience already gained. Thousands of Irish emigrants who had gone to the latter country had settled in New York haunts of poverty, misery, and crime. He believed there was a splendid future in store for Catholics who went to the colonies planted in the Far West. The subscriptions received at the meeting towards furthering its object amounted to $300.

A WRITER in a London paper says: "What contrasts there are between the situations or men who have held equal rank in the musical profession. While Mr. Sims Reeves sings (or promises to do so), as a favor, for fifty guineas a night, I hear that Signor Mario has to work for fifty shillings." This may be true, but if Signor Mario had possessed an ounce of common prudence, he would not have to sing at all, and might eat truffles and drink vintage Chateau every day of his life. Singers cannot, any more than other people, eat their cake and have it.

Arthur's Advisers.

ONLY TWO OF THE PRESENT COUNCIL TO REMAIN IN OFFICE.

A despatch from Washington to the Boston Herald of the 23rd, says: There was even more solemn than the scene in the rotunda. It was the faces of some of the members of the Cabinet. A more unhappy and depressed look than appeared on the faces of Blaine, Hunt and Windom is seldom seen on the faces of strong men. There was a reason for it. Not more than two of the present Cabinet will continue in office for any length of time. Mr. Arthur is very anxious to have them stay a few weeks till the country gets over mourning for Garfield; then he will put friends of Grant and himself in their places. Yesterday it seemed doubtful whether this might not be averted—to-day it seems, from the best information, to be certain that Grant and Conkling are determined on a new cabinet. Said a strong and intimate friend of Arthur to-day: "Why, Garfield himself could not have kept two of them in much longer, and do you think that Arthur is going to retain men that Garfield could not keep?" He alluded to MacVeagh and James. The stalwarts have no appetite for star-route prosecution. Blaine has no more chance of remaining permanently in the Cabinet than have McVeagh and James. Hunt has little chance of continuing in the navy department. Judge Tom Settle, of North Carolina, is talked of by the stalwarts as Hunt's successor. He presided at the Philadelphia convention that re-nominated Grant in 1872. Arthur will yield to the wishes of representatives of all elements in the party in calling an executive session of the Senate to meet the night after the Yorktown celebration, in October. But in the general conduct of his administration he is to be controlled by Grant and Conkling, who made him what he is. Blaine will very likely stay till after the Yorktown celebration, to which he has invited the representatives of France and Germany. Grant has stuck close to Arthur ever since Garfield breathed his last. The whole policy to be pursued has been talked over between them. Conkling is discreetly keeping in the background just at present. Arthur has taken possession of the house of the stalwart, Senator Jones, of Nevada, and will remain there for the present.

GALT'S REFLECTIONS.

Mr. Seward once said, writes "Galt," that there was an element in politics we did not sufficiently take into our calculations—death. What part death has played of late among these busy aspirants for great honors and powers! Here is Conkling, twice defeating Blaine for President, and, in turn, dispossessed by Blaine, who rises to the head of the Cabinet, and before he has become acquainted with the duties of his office, death steps in and takes the President, and behold Conkling's friend takes the magistrate's seat. Cornell, the son of a wealthy man, who had nearly created Mr. Conkling and made him senator, harbors the passion to be Governor of New York, and he finds himself antagonized by a young lawyer named Arthur, the pet of old Governor Morgan, who is drawn out of the tomb of the Capulets and given the nomination when Cornell might have got it. Smarting from this unexpected opposition from his equal in years and youth, Cornell at last reached the Governor's place, and takes the earliest opportunity to put the seal of his magistratorial authority on General Arthur and his friends, vetoing their bills and stigmatizing them as corrupt, and then he defeats the same Arthur's candidate for the Senate, and throws him back in his empty office of Vice-President with contempt. Meanwhile, disgusted that such a national honor should ever have fallen upon such a rival, behold, a tramp comes out of the street, fires a bullet, and the President of the United States disappears, and in his place stands Mr. Arthur, the head of the whole nation, while Mr. Cornell is but Governor of New York.

PUBLICATION OF ALLEGED CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE EMPERORS.

PERTH, Sept. 22.—A Hungarian paper publishes two telegrams regarding the Dantzig meeting. The first is from the Czar to the Emperor Francis Joseph, thanking him for his congratulations on meeting with the Emperor William, and alluding warmly to the common sympathies between them. The second is from the Austrian Ambassador at St. Petersburg to the Emperor Francis Joseph, communicated through Baron Haymerle, the Austrian Premier, stating that Giers, the Russian Foreign Secretary of State, and the Czar returned from Dantzig with an increased sense of tranquility and contentment. Bismarck's wisdom and unexpected moderation of language favourably impressed the Czar and Giers, and satisfied them that he has none other than peaceful intentions. Giers particularly pointed out that there was no question of foreign politics calculated to inspire anxiety. Bismarck recommended great caution and moderation in initiating international measures against the Nihilists. Giers says the most important feature of the journey to Dantzig is that the Czar thereby manifested to all Russia the intention of following a conservative, peaceful policy. The publication of the above caused a considerable sensation, as it is difficult to understand how the documents became public, such communications between sovereigns being addressed directly and without the intervention of the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

VIENNA, Sept. 22.—It is believed that the documents published in the Hungarian paper relating to the meeting of the Emperors at Dantzig, were stolen and a judicial investigation of the office has been ordered.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The Standard's correspondent at Vienna says the Pesth newspaper which published the two telegrams regarding the Dantzig meeting obtained possession of the documents through an abuse of official trust.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER in his speech at Yale, British Columbia, expressed great satisfaction that the "neck of the heaviest section of the work" on the Cascade Mountain portion of the Pacific Railway, had been effectually broken, and regarded the result as in itself an irrefragable proof that the remaining difficulties were not by any means insuperable.

Local and Other Items.

REV. RALPH BRACKEN is visiting the city.

POLLING under the Canada Temperance Act will take place in the County of Pictou on November 9th.

ONE case of drunkenness at the Stipendiary Magistrate's court this forenoon was fined $20 or thirty days imprisonment.

A CASE on the Danish coast has caused great destruction of property. Thirty ships and smalls are reported lost.

A NEW kind of a cow disease, said to resemble congestion of the bowels, has carried off, in a few days, five milk cows and two horses belonging to a Quebec milkman.

AN effort is being made to have Thursday next declared a public holiday in Halifax to allow all to witness the voluntary review and sham fight and attend the Exhibition.

MAJOR TIMOTHY ROMAN, a Waterloo veteran, and a hero of the Peninsular War, died on Tuesday at Guildford, aged 105 years. He has lived in Canada since 1832.

THE LAST OF THE SEASON.—A Tea Party will be held at St. Ann's parish, Lot 66, to-morrow. This is the last tea of the season, and there is likely to be a first-class time.

THE electric light as used at the Halifax Exhibition is warranted not to injure the complexion of the fair ladies of that city, as it can scarcely be seen without the aid of a lantern.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Caledonian Club will be held in the club hall this evening at 8 o'clock, for the nomination of officers for the ensuing year, and other important business.

THE SCOTCH ACT.—At the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court, this forenoon, Bernard Herring was convicted and fined $100 for a breach of the Canada Temperance Act. Another prosecution under the Act takes place in a few days.

THE steamer "Princess of Wales" will leave Charlottetown for Pictou on Friday morning next, at 5 a. m., and return the same evening, to accommodate visitors to the Halifax Exhibition wishing to return home on that day.

A FEW street arabs appeared at the Court this forenoon for assaulting John Joseph Hogan. After John Joseph professed his change the arabs produced witnesses which exonerated them, and they were dismissed, leaving the plaintiff to pay the expenses.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT, Esq., proprietor of the New York Herald, arrived in St. John harbor yesterday on board his steam yacht, Polynnia. He remained but a few hours, devoting his time to sight-seeing.

THO. L. CHAPPELLE, Esq., North Side of Queen Square, owing to his greatly increased patronage, has been compelled to enlarge his premises. Visitors to the Diamond Bookstore will now find it double its usual size, doubly stocked, and the energetic proprietor will be doubly glad to see all his old patrons at his enlarged store, where he can sell the books and stationery at lowest prices.

THE Collector of Customs, on Saturday last, seized the schooner "M. W. P." of Sheet Harbor, and sloop "Annie," of Boston, together with their cargoes of liquor and cigars for violation of revenue laws.

THE above vessels were at Souris harbor on Wednesday last, endeavoring to land the liquors unknown to the Customs authorities. But while one of the parties mainly interested was in Souris making arrangements for the exportation of the smuggled goods the sloop weighed anchor and sailed for Canada, where she was overtaken by her companion, and then both met the fate of the strangled—seizure.

THE market to-day was small and sales brisk at the following prices: Beef (small) per lb 5 to 12 cents; do, (quarter) 4 to 8 cents; Mutton per lb 4 to 9 cents; Lamb per lb 4 to 8 cents; Veal per lb 3 to 8 cents; Ducks each, 25 to 30 cents; Fowls each 20 to 25 cents; Chickens per pair 30 to 50 cents; Butter (fresh) 17 to 20 cents; do (tub) 15 to 16 cents; Eggs 17 to 18 cents; Hay per cwt 30 to 40 cents; Potatoes per bush 35 to 40 cents; Flour per cwt $3.25 to $3.50; Catmeal per cwt $3.25 to $3.50; Oat per bush, 35 to 40 cents; Geese each, 50 to 60 cents; Sheepskins, 50 to 70 cents; Apples per bush, 30 cents to $1.20.

WE are pleased to learn that Mr. James Fraser, Druggist, intends commencing business in Charlottetown, on or about the first of November next. Mr. Fraser, is a most popular young man, a good druggist, and he will only require to let the public know that he has commenced business in order to secure a large patronage. His store will, we learn, be located on the south side of Queen Square, opposite the Post Office.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.—The St. John News, in reference to the time-honored custom of keeping the measure when measuring out potatoes, apples, beets, carrots, etc., says: "There appears to be a general impression among buyers and sellers that measures of apples, potatoes, etc., should be heaped. The law is clearly against it. Section 18 of the Weights and Measures Act of 1879 says: 'In using a Measure of capacity, the same shall not be heaped, but either shall be struck with a round stick or roller, straight and of the same diameter from end to end, or if the article sold cannot from its size or shape be conveniently struck, shall be filled in all parts as nearly the level of the brim as the size and shape of the article admits.'"

ERRATUM.—In a recent issue there appeared a statement to the effect that "Dunbar McCabe stabbed a man named Read Lewis, of Tryon, by rushing at him with a knife, while Lewis was driving in a wagon. Those who witnessed the assault were struck with amazement, etc." The fact of the case, we understand from Peter McCabe and J. Crawford, his Attorney, (the latter being present at the trial before the Justices) are that Lewis received a blow from some person, but there was no evidence given that those present were at all in amazement, but on the contrary thereof Lewis never was heard by any person present to say that he was stabbed, or in any way injured, until about two and a half miles from the meeting as stated and the only evidence of any account against McCabe was a Miss Lydia Reid, who swore that she saw McCabe run away from the wagon; but several other witnesses came forward on behalf of McCabe and testified that at the time the alleged blow was struck McCabe was not within twenty-five yards of the wagon.—COM
