MR. AND MRS. PAUL ARTHUR MANSFIELD

Couple Pledge Vows In Ceremony At Freeland, P.E.I.

St. Peter's Anglican Church in Freeland was the setting for a pretty wedding on Saturday, July 7, 1962 when the Rev. H.L. McColl performed the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage, Meriel Elizabeth Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Palmer, Freeland and Paul Arthur Mansfield, son of Mrs. Arthur Mansfield of Windsor, Ont.

Miss Kathleen Ellis presided at the organ and accompanied Mrs. H.L. McColl, guest soloist, as she sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Escorted down the aisle by her uncle, Mr. Ingham Palmer and given in marriage by her father, the bride was gownned in a floor length gown of silk organza over taffeta. The dress featured light pink sleeves and a sabbina neckline. The bodice of the gown was embroidered with Alencon lace and seed pearls and the skirt was of a bouffant design. Her matching headress of silk organza held a bouffant veil of tulle illusion and she carried a cascade of stephanotis and orchids.

Miss Janet Palmer was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a street length gown of light blue silk taffeta with full over skirt of the same material. Her pill-box hat was trimmed with net. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Johnston, a class-mate of the bride, her gown was in a style similar to that worn by the maid of honor in a azure blue shade. The maid of honor and the bridesmaid carried bouquets of yellow alshata daisies.

The mother of the bride was attired in a pink sheath dress of silk and her large picture hat was in a similar shade of pink. She wore an orchid corsage. The mother of the groom chose a pink organza over taffeta dress with lace bodice and matching hat and accessories. Her corsage was a catherina orchid.

Mr. Allan Palmer, brother of the bride, was the bestman and Mr. Herman Palmer and Thane Ellis ushered the guests to their seats.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Tartan

Restaurant where the bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped with red sweethearts roses. Rev. H.L. McColl proposed the toast to the bride and groom, and was followed by the groom. Mrs. Thane Ellis was in charge of the guest book.

Telegrams were read from Toronto, Windsor, Montreal, Trail and Prince Rupert.

For a honeymoon trip to New York the bride chose a fitted, red silk dress with matching sheath coat and white accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield will reside in Sudbury, Ont. where the bride is on the staff of the Suddaby Memorial Hospital and the groom is associated with the Suddaby and District Children's Aid Society.

MARY HAWORTH

Mother Protests Articles About Teen-Age Sex Life

Dear Mary Haworth I am a foreigner who chose to raise her daughter in this country, and I am disappointed in the true meaning of freedom.

Tell me it isn't true that I am reading in the American teen-agers. I am shocked by articles appearing in leading magazines (for example) "1962 Report: despite moral codes and social mores, few girls are wearing ding bells to signal the start of their sex life."

Also "Girls must accommodate their dates or the boys should they?"

That kind of talk must stop. These articles fall in the line of youth and sooner or later influence them.

From a French and Italian or from a very big city in South America, I am shocked by European ways. Our people still believe that virginity is a virtue. A girl who gets a date sets a girl can have; and few of our girls know sex before marriage. It is not good to read that they must fight this trend. We must protect our teen-agers, and we must not let them be taken, undermined the moral foundations of every American home.

I am not afraid for my daughter; I am sure she knows right from wrong. In a free competition, how can she expect to have boy friends?

It is not a matter of sex, but of the right way to live. It is not a matter of sex, but of the right way to live. It is not a matter of sex, but of the right way to live.

MR. AND MRS. IVAN G. DARRACH

Howatt - Darrach Wedding Is Solemnized At Trinity Church

Trinity United Church, Charlottetown, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, July 21, when Amy Alberta Blanche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram M. Howatt, Richmond Street, became the bride of Ivan George Darrach, son of Mr. and Mrs. N.A. Darrach, East Royalty, P.E.I.

The church was decorated for the occasion with roses and palms. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John G. Ball, assisted by the groom's brother, Major Gordon E. Darrach.

Mrs. Leith Thompson, cousin of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and the "Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. She was accompanied by the church organist, Mrs. Joyce F. Musford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of pink nylon over taffeta, with shirred bodice, cap sleeves and full gathered skirt. Her matching headress was of pink tulle with seed pearls and a whimsy veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses, and a pretty handkerchief.

Mrs. Stewart Pierce, was similarly gowned in a dress of pale pink with matching accessories. Her nosegay was of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Malcolm Darrach was groomsmen for his brother, The bride's bridesmaid was her brother of the bride; and Dr. Malcolm Beck, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mrs. Howatt chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of green and white floral nylon over taffeta with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. For her son's wedding Mrs. Darrach was gowned in navy silk crepe with white accessories. Her nosegay was of pink and white carnations.

A reception for 110 guests at the home of Mrs. Darrach was held on Tuesday evening. The church following the ceremony was beautifully decorated with baskets of mixed garden flowers, and a small arrangement of white, silver and scattered white candles and scattered white candles.

The bride's table, Mrs. Malcolm Beck, sister of the bride, gave appropriate music while the guests were served. Miss Mildred Rogers, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. David L. Melnick.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Farm Helper Predicts A Snowy Winter For Island

"Never, never were there summer days more charming" was the way this September now brings a sign that the winter is on its way.

"And 'never, never' farm folks agree.

"I mean fresh wind of day comes down from 'up the creek' in the valley. It has been keeping, we think, an ear to the ground, an eye to the sky for signs that the winter is on its way. It has commenced to lift the fog that over-night has marked the crest of the stream. Then how pleasant the day is!

"It takes a bit of a pinch, an anxious time in their living to make folks appreciate their former blessings 'one who has come to lend a hand at the hay commented at dinner. 'It took the damny rainy spell of weather to make us grateful for fine sunny days like this.'

"A reason of beef was served at noon at Alderlea, for a farmer's day requires much fuel in the way of calories and vitamins to maintain the energy needed to care for fields and crops and all the demands of the farming.

"Dinner" it continues to be served at noon at Alderlea, for a farmer's day requires much fuel in the way of calories and vitamins to maintain the energy needed to care for fields and crops and all the demands of the farming.

"This James said was our first and sweetest pleasure 'I would have made the red bread easily, I say.'"

We enjoyed new potatoes—so delicious carrots for color and goodness.

Peas, Alex had carried in fresh from the garden. And dessert? The misty, skinned, nature - sweetened fruits that are blueberries. It is a feast from a busy housewife who with her family had marked the end of their having by far excursion to barrens which gave them an enjoyable "blue berry day."

"I'm thinking we'll see drifts of snow this winter. It will climb high on the roofs. At least that's the way, I see it!" our helper chuckled later in the yard, eyes scanning the kitchen roof. "See" he said "the waps have built high snowdrifts on the roof. At the very peak of a gable, protected snugly by the projecting eaves above, a pair of the creatures had located their two fashioned home.

"There'll be a frost or two before we can touch that!" James twinkled, stepping off to board the little truck which was to carry the crew away to the haystack at Rob's.

"So you're not done of the having yet!" a salesman at the door queried, this afternoon.

"Almost," we said. "Another day or two."

"It was a strange saying - 'the stranger in memory, so the oldsters tell me' he replied.

"This 'what James says'!"

"Let's hope the harvesting won't be so tedious. Some folks are at it now. Yes, it's becoming fairly general" he said. "Now where" he smiled to Alex. "did all the kittens I see, come from?"

"We had very good luck with these this year," he replied. "Though" he added on a sad note "we lost one just a few nights ago. I don't know why it died. We buried it behind the garage this morning."

"Well now that is too bad, wasn't it? It's not nice to lose 'em," he said kindly.

"Don't just sit there staring into space like that!" James says coming with our helper at their day's end into our quiet "Look smart now, Woman! Get us a bite to eat. We're as hungry as a pair of..."
