

A FINE DISPLAY of quilts, hooked rugs and handicraft received much favorable comment from an appreciative audience. CHOOSING a winner from the fine Ayrshire calves show above was a difficult task for Judge Bruce MacDonald who finally gave top placing to Bert Palmer of Kensington.

Alberton Exhibition Is Largest In Its History

The thirty-second Prince County Exhibition to be held at Alberton had the largest number of entries and the largest attendance in its history.

A beautiful August day contributed to the enjoyment of those who came from near and far to this popular event. Cars from several provinces and from a number of states were mingled with Prince Edward Island cars in the parking area.

Lieutenant-Governor F. Walter Hyndman, on his first official visit to Alberton, opened the exhibition. He made reference to the value of competition but reminded exhibitors that it is not so important to win a prize as it is to keep progressing upward.

Speakers were introduced by Lester E. Wallace, president of the Exhibition Association. Mr. Wallace spoke briefly of the late A. D. O'Brien, who had been president of the association for almost twenty-five years and voiced regret at his passing.

Dr. George Dewar, M. L. A. believes that a fisheries booth at the exhibition would be a source of interest to visitors. Referring to the fact that this is a time of great progress, Dr. Dewar said he was glad to see the exhibition keeping pace with the times. He felt that agriculture has a great future.

F. C. Ramsay, M.L.A., expressed the opinion that West Prince can produce as well as any part of Canada. He deferred to the need for good roads and for electrification if progress is to go forward.

Prosper Arsenault, M. L. A. believed young people should be educated to love the land and to remain on it. Sometimes, he said, "we teach them to love the wage rather than the living."

Walter R. Shaw, who has had much experience as an exhibitor and also as an observer at exhibitions, congratulated exhibitors on the fine examples of agricultural products shown. He stressed the educational value of exhibitions because here one may see the standard of others in the same area. Take note of the standards set here, he advised, go home and try to raise your stock and your crops to the standard of the best. All Prince Edward Island is interested in agriculture, he said, and the future of the province depends on its development.

Frank Bryan, brought greetings from the Alberton and West Prince Board of Trade on behalf of its president, Earle Atkinson.

During the late afternoon and evening pleasurable entertainment was provided by the band from R.C.A.F. Station, Summerside, under direction of Bandmaster W. F. Conkey.

Various forms of amusement were to be found on the grounds. There were also booths where lunches, fruit, ice cream, etc. were available. In the dining room excellent meal service was provided by members of Alberton Pastoral Charge of the United Church of Canada.

Judging of livestock is always one of the most interesting features of this exhibition.

As in recent years at all fairs in this province, entries of horses were few in number. They were judged by George C. Kitson. The general purpose champion mare was shown by Ivan Wallace. In the roadster class the Champion stallion was shown by Frank McAlduff. A beautiful two-year-old roadster owned by Willard Coughlin was much admired. Draft horses will be judged today.

Moose and Son were awarded the exhibition special prize for the champion bull. They also received the junior male and the junior female championship ribbons. The senior female championship went to E Lloyd Sharpe.

Harold Palmer and Son took top honors in the Guernsey judging they received twenty-five prizes and four championship ribbons.

Edwin Lord and Son, chief exhibitors of Jerseys, captured eighteen awards.

Chief exhibitor of Shorthorns was Ivan Clark and Son. To this herd went the exhibition special prize for champion bull and the championship ribbons for junior male and junior female.

The senior female champion was shown by Ralph Adams.

Ivan Clark and Son and Loman McLean were the largest exhibitors of dual purpose Shorthorns. Mr. McLean received the exhibition special prize for the championship ribbons for junior male and senior female. The junior female champion was shown by the Clarks.

A TWO YEAR old filly owned and shown by Jack Clark of Alberton captured first in the general purpose division at the fair.

There were good exhibits of sheep. Only exhibitors of Cheviots were Henry Wedge and Sylvère J. F. Arsenault. The flock prize went to Mr. Wedge.

Ray Shea and Ivan Bowness were chief exhibitors of Oxford, Hudson and Son and W. A. Moose and Son of Shropshires. In the class for Suffolks the best flock was shown by John P. Wallace.

Other prize winners in this class were Hudson Pridham and Son and Henry Wedge.

Edwin Hansen of Tyne Valley, a new exhibitor this year, showed the best pen of four market lambs and won second place in Hudson Pridham and Son had the pen of two market lambs, best pen of two market lambs and stood third with their pen of four. Ray Shea was another close competitor for honors. His pen of four took a second and his pen of two a third prize.

W. A. Moose and Son were pronounced winners of the best sheep in the show. This honor brought to them the Holman prize and also the prize offered by D. L. Miller, manager of the Canadian Tire Corporation store in Summerside.

For the best hog in the show Leonard Morrell won similar prizes offered by these two donors.

In the Yorkshire class two fine bacon hogs (190 to 230 lbs.) belonging to Harry Pridham captured first place in their section and won a Robert E. Campbell special prize. The best heavy bacon hog in this class was also shown by Mr. Pridham.

Hudson Pridham showed the best sow under 18 months with litter and Leonard Morrell showed the best sow over 18 months with litter.

A class for landrace hogs appeared for the first time in this year's prize list. Robert E. Campbell prizes for best two bacon hogs were taken by Hudson Pridham and Ivan Bowness. The Lloyd N. Oliver special prize for best boar over four months farrowed in 1958 went to Harry Pridham.

Sale Is Held

Thunder rolled, lightning flashed and for several minutes rain fell in torrents, but when the worst was over the auctioneer, Mr. Arthur Stewart again took his stand and the big crowd again began to bid, and the auction sale on the premises of Mr. Fred Proffit, Burlington was a success.

Household articles, farm implements and especially the short-horn cattle brought good prices with brisk competition among the bidders.

Due to ill health Mr. Proffit has been compelled to make a change in occupation, and his plans for the near future include the spending of some time with his nephew, Mr. William Stewart at his farm in Berwick, Maine. The Pruffitt Homestead in Burlington has not been offered for sale.

WRONG SCHOOL — The name of Annette Peters, Fortune Cove, should have appeared in the Grade XII pass list for Miscouche High School, not for Alberton High School. The error resulted from the fact that Miss Peters chose to write her examinations at the O'Leary centre rather than at Summerside with her classmates. She ranked third in the Miscouche pass list.
