MORNING SMILE
While working on a log drive a lumberman fell into the water. At last, dizzy and nearly exhausted, he managed to grasp a big log and hold on to it. The current was so strong and swift that it swept his body under the log until his feet stuck out on the other side. Just as comrade, who had run to his assistance, grabbed him by the shoulders, he caught sight of his own feet protruding on the other side of the log.

"I can hold on a bit longer Jim," he gasped. "Save the fellow who's in head first."

The president introduced a very special guest—Mrs. Ella MacPherson of Ottawa. Over a quarter century ago she was the gracious Lady of Hampton Manse. Mrs. MacPherson held the interest of her listeners as she told with great sincerity and from personal experience the old, story of Jesus and His Love. The perfect attention of the large number of members and visitors bore high tribute to the effectiveness of Mrs. MacPherson's message. The president voiced the opinion of all as she quietly thanked the speaker.

Check Weatherproofing Now

Just as summer is the time for the cheapest furnace repairs, it is also a good time to check weatherproofing in your house. It does take constant vigilance to keep a house in good repair but surely it is worth the effort. So while we're enjoying the fine weather let's give more than a casual thought to the months ahead and really check the weatherproofing.

Of great aid in this connection are the caulking compounds. These pliable materials seal the tiny passages that admit cold or moisture and are really quite easy to apply. They help fill cracks and crannies that admit moisture and chilling drafts and without too much effort.

These comfort-robbing crevices are likely to be found in the joints where masonry or the edges of porches or steps meet wooden sidings. They may also appear where the butt joints of siding meet corner boards. It is wise to make sure that they have not opened up next to the fittings about the chimney and along some types of roof joints.

The joints along window and door frames should all be carefully checked, for unnecessary openings, or those not fully sealed, can let in moisture.

RAISES COSTS
Moisture and dampness raise fuel consumption or cause structural damages that will call for a nice little repair bill. Here is where that ounce of prevention certainly does pay off.

Some caulking compounds come in tubes and can be squeezed out like toothpaste. Another handy device is the caulking gun which is filled with cartridges containing the caulking compound.

Hold the nozzle of the tool against the crevice, pull the trigger and force the putty-like stream of compound into it. If the crack extends for some distance, the trick is to move the nozzle along the path of the crack as fast as the mixture comes out. Some type can be given additional firmness with a caulking iron while others form a sufficient seal as the stuff comes out of the gun. After the compound has had time to dry—cover it with a coating of exterior paint.

BASEMENT AREAS
Caulking compound can also serve indoors in the basement areas. Used around windows and frames, it serves as a double seal against winter's cold and summer's humidity.

Caulking around air ducts and pipes where they pass through masonry walls is another good idea. Sometimes the most careful and conscientious building contractor overlooks an opening.

All in all, then, it is wise to check one's house each year. The action of heavy wind on frame houses causes a certain amount of twisting and play which tends to break up the seal on old caulking. So the application of caulking compound really does fall in the category of periodic repairs if a house is to be kept comfortable and maintain its value.

Swimming Queen Is Housewife

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—The "swimming queen" of the Southeast Asian Games is settling down to the duties of a housewife here, non-committal about the possibility that she might compete against Canadian swimmers.

Mrs. Gene Wong, better known in Asian swimming circles as Chan Tsing Mul, arrived here recently with her newly-acquired husband, a Saint John restaurant owner.

They were married in Hong Kong in June where the ceremony drew such interest a picture of the bride and groom featured the sports pages of an English-language newspaper.

Mrs. Wong was crowned "swimming queen" after winning the title in the Southeast Asia Games where she represented Nationalist China.

Although Mrs. Wong declined to say what her Canadian swimming plans might be, her first question of a reporter was:

Collected 75 Glass Slippers

MONTREAL (CP)—June Mack is a versatile member of a collecting family. The 12-year-old Montreal lass, a keen dramatic student, has a collection of 75 glass slippers and hundreds of autographs.

June's folks are all collectors. Her father collects antique miniatures; her mother specializes in buttons, and Gerald, 9, collects iron banks.

As a dramatic student at the Children's Theatre, June spends about 12 hours a week either at rehearsals or weekly classes in theatre and radio technique. She is currently appearing for a 13-week period on the CBC's Fun Time show.

June's activities have not hindered her academic standing. "My average in Grade 7 last year was 76 per cent," she says. "It wasn't very good, but I guess I concentrate too hard on my music."

She is a flutist, and took honors in music last year. Aside from the theatre, June is a member of the YWCA, a swimmer, a member of the Gym Club, and an accomplished performer on the harmonica.

She says that next year she hopes to study ballet, drum majorette technique and the formation of a junior service club.

Bouquets of gladioli and mums surrounded the church and Dr. E.
