JULY 3, 1889.

Dominion Day Celebration.

The remarks of the Patriot on the Dominion Day celebration are uncalled for. In point of fact, the holiday was as enthusiastically observed as the Queen's Birthday or any other anniversary which the people delight to honor.

The lament of the Patriot over the losses this Province has sustained sounds strangely from the organ of a party which—having indulged in the dash-away policy—strove with might and main to force Prince Edward Island into Confederation on terms many thousands of dollars a year less favorable than those which the people afterwards accepted.

It is not possible to imagine a more illogical position than that which has been adopted by the Patriot. It means, dolefully about the want of reciprocity with the United States, but forgets to mention that this want is due entirely to the States; and then it grows hideously about Confederation—a measure which gave us absolute free trade with half the Continent, including the prosperous and growing populations of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

It is not possible to imagine a more illogical position than that which has been adopted by the Patriot. It means, dolefully about the want of reciprocity with the United States, but forgets to mention that this want is due entirely to the States; and then it grows hideously about Confederation—a measure which gave us absolute free trade with half the Continent, including the prosperous and growing populations of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Granted that we still labor under some disadvantages—these may be overcome by resolute and united patriotic men. Granted that we could have raised sufficient money had we remained "out in the cold" to maintain our railway and post office systems, and our winter steamer, etc., as they are now maintained, there are still advantages resulting from Confederation which we should do well to make the most of.

See what her people have to endure from the overbearing rapacity of the fishermen of France—simply because her Government is too weak and uninfluential to enforce the measures necessary for their protection! In what position would Prince Edward Island be to-day if she were out of the Confederacy? The markets of the United States would be closed against her, the markets of the neighboring Provinces would be closed against her, and she would be at the mercy of the American seiners who would, without doubt, swarm her coasts.

Another duty day—plenty of water in the pipes, but little or none on the streets. When will the City Fathers do something about this matter, in which all their constituents are interested?

The first emigrants from Iceland to Canada are now sending to Iceland money to bring out their relatives, and the emigration is likely to grow indefinitely. It is evident that the Northwest suits the Icelander—that he is making money there and is happy.

Death of Rev. Pius McPhee.

THE news of the death of Rev. Pius McPhee, which occurred at Tracadie about ten o'clock last evening, will be received with regret by the rev. gentleman's many friends amongst the clergy and laity throughout the province and elsewhere.

The Rev. Pius McPhee was born at St. Andrew's, in this Province, on the 1st of May, 1820, his parents—Angus McPhee and Mary McInnis—being natives of Scotland. He was baptized by Bishop McEachern, and received his first communion in 1832, from which year until 1839 he attended St. Andrew's College. In 1839 he went to the Grand Seminary, Quebec, where he pursued his ecclesiastical studies until 1844, when he returned to the Island and was ordained priest by Bishop McDonald, in St. Augustine's Church, at Rustico. In 1845 he was made pastor of the district comprising St. Columba's, East Point, St. Margaret's, Bear River, and St. Mary's, Souris. Here he remained until 1853, when he was transferred to the parsonage of St. Andrew's, St. Peter's and St. Bonaventure's, Tracadie. During his pastorate the rev. gentleman built several fine churches. Of late years he has been in ill health, and has not been engaged in the active duties of the ministry.

Natural History Society.

THE first meeting of the Natural History Society of this Province was held in McLeod's Hall yesterday afternoon under favorable auspices. His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Macdonald, the Superintendent of Education, the Stipendiary Magistrate, Rev. Fred. E. J. Lloyd and other prominent citizens were in attendance. Hon. David Laird occupied the chair. The Secretary made a few remarks referring to many evidences of interest in the Society and particularly to a lengthy letter he had received from Mr. Hunter Duvar; showing the importance of being able to appreciate the wonders and beauties of nature, which are everywhere open to educated eyes.

The meeting having already enjoyed an intellectual feast of good things, the reading of Mr. McSwain's paper on our native Ferns was deferred until the next meeting, which will take place in due course.

The Convent Bazaar.

THE Convent Bazaar and Strawberry Festival, in Market Hall, opened this afternoon, and will be continued this evening, as well as all day to-morrow, and to-morrow evening. The Hall has been very nicely fitted up for the occasion. The fancy, refreshment and other tables are well-stocked, and are presided over by attentive and obliging waiters. The tastes and purses of all are catered to, so that those who attend cannot but be pleased with the manner in which the affair is conducted. Below are the names of the ladies in charge of the tables:—
