U.S. Is Holding Door Ajar For Change In China Policy

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is holding the door ajar for a broad change in its China policy. At the moment, a key tactic is to blame Communist China's isolation on Peking itself. Just when Washington might shift to a policy of recognizing Communist China, favoring her entry into the United Nations and engaging in trade with her is unclear. But most agree the time still is years away. So far Peking continues to berate the United States as her No. 1 capitalist-imperialist enemy. As State Secretary Dean Rusk put it Friday, "We do not find at the present time a serious interest in Peking in improvement of relations." Even with an overnight about-face by the Chinese—which no one expects—the issues involved are of such giant proportions as to defy speedy readjustments. One interlocking question is the Sino-Soviet rivalry and Washington's relations with Moscow. Another is what to do about Nationalist China (Formosa). Still another could be the structure of the United Nations. WAY OPEN FOR CHANGE Still the latest round of official U.S. statements has an air of keeping the way open for a change some time in the future. This contrasts with hard-line talk in earlier years about U.S. steps to quarantine Communist-ruled mainland China. A growing number of countries favors Peking's admission to the UN. Last year, a UN General Assembly vote on this issue was a 47-to-47 tie with 26 members abstaining. Washington still opposes a UN seat for Communist China at this time. But faced with a diminishing margin in the world body, American strategists are pondering how to proceed at the next Assembly meeting this fall. Within the last few days, Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the UN, and Joseph J. Sisco, assistant state secretary for international organization affairs, have underscored in public statements Communist China's demand for UN reorganization and expansion of the Nationalist China as her price for entry. Many countries favoring Peking's admission do not want to expel Nationalist China. DISPEL DOUBTS The Johnson administration has been giving some answers to scholars who in recent congressional testimony here and elsewhere have called for a modified U.S. policy. Rusk at a press conference Friday, again pointed to Peking's belligerency on a wide range of issues from Southeast Asia to her dealings with the Soviet Union. So long as Communist China continues to rebuff Washington the relationship remains the status quo. But the other side of the question would present itself if Peking sweetens its tone. A side issue at the moment is whether to recognize Outer Mongolia, the pro-Soviet buffer state between Russia and China which is claimed by both the Communist and Nationalist Chinese. Rusk said U.S. recognition of Outer Mongolia is "under consideration." GEESE PREFER NORTH Ontario's greatest concentration of wild geese is in the James Bay and Hudson Bay lowlands.

Pencil Firms Fined $16,000
TORONTO (CP) — Four national pencil manufacturers were fined a total of $16,000 Monday for operating a combine between 1951 and 1961. Eagle Pencil Co. of Canada Ltd. was fined $8,000; Venus Pencil Co. Ltd., $4,000; Eberhard Faber Canada Ltd., $2,000; and Dixon Pencil Co. Ltd., $2,000. Mr. Justice A. H. Lief warned the companies not to continue or repeat the offence. Arnold Gordon Powell, a combines investigator, testified that the four companies were sharing an annual business in 1960 of $3,200,000, of which Eagle received about 50 per cent. The court was told earlier that formation of the Canadian Pencil Co. in 1959 led to an inquiry and to the charge. Mr. Powell said that in 1961 the new company started bidding on federal government contracts. The accused companies then presented identical bids lower than ever before, he said. JUDGE SAYS SHOOT BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — they go for their pockets, kill them and ask questions later. Judge Howard L. Aaron told a policeman when he reported a 17-year-old youth had threatened to kill him. The judge also told the youth he would note down the threat so "no-one will be able to yell 'Police brutality'" if he is later shot. PURITY DAIRY "Parents Prefer Purity Products" 317 Kent St. Dial 4-7125
