

Cameron Highlanders Join Seaforths Before 1962

LONDON (CP)—Like brides approaching the altar, 36 famous British regiments are pondering their trousseau.

William Yates, who served with the Bays in the Second World War, and Capt. Henry Kerby, have tabled a motion in the Commons suggesting that Australia, Canada or New Zealand should be invited to adopt the two regiments and "raise them personally for Her Majesty."

Our idea is that Canadian regiments would be formed to take over the names of the regiments, their battle honors, insignia and traditions in order that the great traditions they have built up will not be lost.

Four Scots regiments—the Camerons, Seaforth Highlanders, Highland Light Infantry and Royal Scots Fusiliers—have a particularly tough problem to settle: The choice of common tartans.

Despite the strong British pride in county regiments, the amalgamation has been greeted with remarkably little fuss. One explanation is that most officers and men have been cross-posted so often since the beginning of the Second World War that most of them have served in at least two regiments.

T.-C. Highway Lags In Nfld.

By JAN MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A three-man royal commission has been told Newfoundland is unable to find "even one-half" the cost of its share of the trans-Canada highway and the province must have special assistance if the project is to be completed.

Reading Monday from a 633-page provincial brief, business-man-journalist Albert B. Perlin said "Newfoundland's route has a mileage of 570 miles of which not a single mile has been completed."

The cost has been estimated at $140,000 a mile or a total of $80,000,000. The province's share would be $40,000,000.

The brief said building a road to trans-Canada highway standards is difficult because of the province's terrain and the low average income of its people.

"Newfoundland is unable to find even half the cost... and Newfoundland's section is second in length only to Ontario."

The following table was submitted to show mileage completed and to be completed in each province:

Province	Total	Incomplete
P.E.I.	71	19
Nova Scotia	317	42
New Brunswick	390	18
Newfoundland	570	570
Ontario	1,436	631
Manitoba	309	74
Saskatchewan	406	84
Alberta	282	50
B.C.	550	185

"These comparisons are staggering," the brief says. "They constitute a special case for assistance for Newfoundland in the construction of its share of the trans-Canada highway."

Canadians Make Good Visitors

MONTREAL (CP)—An RCAF chaplain credits "the Canadian way of life" for the high regard in which Canadian forces are held by Europeans.

Rev. Norman Watson of Montreal, Protestant chaplain of the RCAF's NATO air division headquarters at Metz, France, arrived here on the liner Ivernia.

Accompanied by his wife and four children, he was returning from a three-year tour of duty overseas. He will become senior station chaplain at the RCAF station at St. Johns, Que.

GENERAL COURTESY

Success of the majority of Canadian service personnel in Europe, he said, may be attributed to general Canadian upbringing, interest in the host country, efforts to learn the language of the host country, subtle methods of lending a helping hand and general courtesy.

"Canada's double culture is popular in France," he said. Rev. Mr. Watson took part in the first international Christmas service held by Canada, the United States and France in 1955, and in the Reformation Day service at Temple Neuf in Metz. He was also active in orphanage and refugee work.

ON FLIGHT DECK

The flight deck of the Canadian aircraft carrier, Bonaventure, berthed in harbor at Halifax, N.S., will be the setting for the first public presentations of the "Canada Pageant of Fur Fashions," weather permitting. This opening of the Trans-Canada Fur Promotion, sponsored by the Fur Trade Association of Canada, Inc., has now been set for September 6 and 7.

Later news received from Leningrad states that ranch and wild mink were both 100 per cent sold, with Italy, France and Belgium the principle buyers. East Germany and France took marmot stone marten was $1 per cent sold, with better goods going to Italy and some to Canada, while average merchandise was taken by the United Kingdom, France and Germany.

PROMOTION

Boston opened its salves of the August fur promotion with Morton Inc. offering fur samples in mink capes and stoles, and reports were that some pastel mink stoles have been sold in the $800 and $900 price bracket. Mortons claim the prestige of designer Christian Dior, who has developed sample types for them. Prices ranged from $429 for a mink-trimmed dyed Persian lamb jacket to a $5,900 full-length coat by Christian Dior in topaz mink. Raymond's, concentrated on one price point, in small mink pieces; they also advertised full-length, let-out ranch mink coats at 1,500.

Approximately 2,921,000 Mutation Mink Breeders Association pelts were sold during the past year, according to a report by the chairman of the E.M.B.A. marketing board at a recent meeting of the board in Milwaukee. This represents an increase of 41 per cent over the previous year's crop.

E.M.B.A.'s board of directors and marketing board voted that E.M.B.A. proceed with the preliminary details for the promotion of lavender mink this year. At its recent annual sales contract meeting in Milwaukee, EMBA offered selling contracts for the coming season to Hudson Bay Company, New York, New York Auction Company, New York, and Minnesota and Seattle Fur Exchange, Seattle, Washington.

MINK ARE SCARCE

Here are the latest figures on the 1957 mink crop. Total mink production in 1957 will be from 15 to 20 per cent less than in 1956, according to an estimate based on figures obtained in a survey just completed by the National Board of Fur Farm Organizations. The survey of more than 70 per cent

TIMELY NOTES ON FUR TOPICS

The Mutation Mink Breeders Association, and the Great Lakes Mink Association have both scheduled semi-annual meetings for mid-October. At the Plankington House in Milwaukee, the G.L.M.A. meeting will be held on October 15 and E.M.B.A. will follow on October 16.

These meetings will be very interesting to all mink ranchers, not only in United States, but Canada also. One thing that will be pleasant conversation is the fact that the 1956 crop of mink will be pretty well disposed of by their meeting dates, and a much stronger market existing for mink than the previous year. There will also be considerable discussion, no doubt, as to why the production of mink in the United States will be one-fifth or more less than the previous year.

More than 150 buyers from the United States, Canada, and 14 European countries attended the raw fur sales in Leningrad last week. United States interest in the sale was concentrated on sable, marmot squirrel, broad-tail and Persian lamb. At the annual banquet, held at the opening of the sale, Alex Kaplan, head of Russian fur auctions, addressed the buyers and urged them to promote the use of furs in men's wear. He pointed out that in the 15th and 16th centuries, more furs were sold to men than women, and he declared that the untapped men's wear field offers an excellent opportunity for the expanding world of pelts.
