MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PRINTING PRESS.

How wisely events follow each other in proper order! Just at the time when the mind of Europe was waking from a thousand years' lethargy and when means were required to spread abroad the results of the inquiries which the learned were making in all branches of science, Caxton gave to the world the Printing Press. By its instrumentality the discoveries and inventions of one land have become the property of the entire globe, and the advancement of science has been greatly promoted. No man of the present age has more fully comprehended this truth than Holloway. The same intellect that led him to the studies which resulted in the production of his celebrated Pills and Ointment saw at once the immense advantage, to the world as well as to himself, which might be drawn from this source. He laid his discoveries before the world, sowing his seed broad cast, wherever a written language is read, and modestly awaited the result. His confident statement of his theory led men to try his remedies; their intrinsic excellence when once tried established them firmly in the confidence of the public of both hemispheres, and Professor Holloway stands now, in the estimation of the people, as the most powerful opponent of all disease. For disorders of the liver and stomach, the Pills are claimed to be a swift and sure specific, and the claim is verified by an overwhelming mass of testimony. Now we all know how entirely the bodily health depends upon the condition of these two important organs. If the digestion is impaired, the bowels disordered, and the liver torpid or congested, the whole frame suffers; the strength declines, the spirits droop, the complexion becomes cadaverous, the flesh wasted, supineness and despair take the places of energy and hopefulness, the sick man becomes as dead to the great objects and pursuits of life as if he were entombed alive. Out of his self-sepulchre, as it were, this powerful remedy lifts him up as if by magic—a few timely doses of the Pills brings back digestion, appetite, and physical energy. These statements are too plain, and too easily contradicted if untrue, to admit of the slightest doubt. On the contrary, we know them to be nothing but the literal fact. They are not founded upon common report, but upon the testimony of parties occupying high positions in society,—men of unblemished reputation and matured judgment,—that likewise is confirmed by circumstances within our own immediate knowledge.—Ivorach Telegram.

A MODERN SAMSON.—Perhaps the best authenticated account of any very wonderfully strong man is to be found in the history of Thomas Topham, commonly called "the strong man." He was born in London in 1710, and was bred a carpenter, but when about twenty-four years of age he took a public house and failed soon after. He had often displayed amazing strength, and he determined to make his living by his muscle. Certainly gravitation's laws seemed to be suspended in the case of this extraordinary man, and metals lost their powers of resistance in his grasp. On being stripped for examination, he was found to be made like other men, except that the usual cavities under the arms and hands of others were in him filled full of muscles. He was of middle size and weight, and was a very quiet and peaceable man. He could hold under perfect restraint, and with ease to himself the strongest horse. He lifted a table six feet long, with fifty pounds on the end of it, by his teeth, and held it in a horizontal position a considerable time. He rolled a pewter dish weighing seven pounds with as much apparent ease as the reader would roll up a sheet of paper. He held a pewter quart pot at arm's length, and squeezed the sides together like an egg shell. He lifted two hundred pounds with his little finger and waved it gently around his head. He lifted Mr. Chambers, a clergyman, who must have lived on the fat of the land, for he weighed three hundred and seventy eight pounds, with one hand, Mr. Chambers' head being placed on one chair and his feet on another. At a blow he struck a round bar of iron, one inch in diameter, against his arm, and bent it like a bow.

Steel collars are a recent invention; but Topham invented iron neckties. The ostler at the Virgin having insulted him, he took one of the spits from the mantle piece, bent it round his neck like a cravet, and tucked the ends into his bosom. Everybody laughed at the man of horses, and he had to make an humble apology before Topham condescended to release him.

Some of his frolic feats were very surprising. One night, observing a watchman asleep in his watchbox, he picked up box and watchman, carrying the load with the greatest ease, and dropped them over the wall into Tindale's burying ground.

A butcher once passing a large window at which Topham was sitting, he stooped down and took half an ox from the fellow's shoulders with so much ease and dexterity that the man swore the devil had flown away with the beef.

PHENOMENA IN THE OIL REGION—A BURNING WELL.—Curious and interesting phenomena in the Pennsylvania oil region are thus reported by correspondents of the Meadville Republican.

The great burning well presents a most magnificent sight. Imagine a space of perhaps forty feet square sending up a solid sheet of flame nearly sixty feet in height. It lights up the country for miles around, so that one can see to read a newspaper four or five miles distant. The heat of the fire has started vegetation to growing, and grass can be plucked there as green as that found in summer time. The well is owned by parties in Rochester, N. Y., and was struck some four weeks ago. It commenced flowing oil and water with a very strong force of gas, and the owners were confident they had a good well, but two weeks ago last night, the men going to supper, the well took fire it is supposed from the engine, and has been burning ever since. The flame when first discovered was coming out of the driving pipe, and was not more than three or four feet in diameter; but after burning two or three days, the driving pipe was melted two or three feet, thus allowing the gas and oil to separate before reaching the top, and spread over a surface 30 or 40 feet square. It has burned ever since. Sometimes the flames reach a height of one hundred feet, and produce an effect which no pen can describe or pencil do justice to.

IRISH CHILDREN.—Irish children of the poorer classes are curiously different from their contemporaries in England. A fair amount of experience in teaching both has led to the conclusion that the intellectual texture of the Irish child's mind is very much finer and more susceptible of impression than that of the English child of the working ranks. But beside this intellectual quickness there is another and higher quality, whose presence in the poorest Irish, and whose absence in the corresponding, and even better class in England, has been forcibly brought home to us. The Irish are keenly susceptible of the impressions of the grand and the beautiful, physical and moral. Describe to a class of poor little ragged, shoeless boys and girls, in a village school in Ireland, a scene among the Alps or in an Eastern desert, and their eyes will kindle, and expressions of delight escape from their lips. Go further and tell them of deeds of heroic virtue, self-sacrifice and martyrdom, and they will thrill with emotion, and years afterwards, as men and women, they will recall to you the story, and sometimes add how they have tried also to lead, in their humbler course, "lives sublime," of courage and unselfishness. But the same tale told to English boys, how dull it falls! How the heroic element is all lost or misunderstood! How cruelty, if such there is, is enquired into with morbid curiosity! We once related to some Irish children the story of the nuns guillotined in the French revolution and chanting the Te Deum to the last. Our little audience was full of enthusiasm for the victims; and some one remarked, "It was a grand death they died." We told the same story to a class of big English boys in a city school, and strove to make them feel the heroism of the martyrs, narrating the scene as dramatically as we were able. The boys were curious enough about the details, but the next day told our fellow teacher they "had heard such a nice story, all about chopping off women's heads!" The spirit had evaporated? the ugly physical fact was alone retained.—Fraser's Magazine.

The New York Tribune says: "The reason why Drake's Plantation Bitters are so universally used and have such an immense sale is, that they are always made up to the original standard, of highly invigorating material and of pure quality, although the prices have so largely advanced," &c.

The Tribune just hits the nail on the head. The Plantation Bitters are not only made of pure material, but the people are told what it is. The Recipe is published around each Bottle, and the bottles are not reduced in size. At least twenty imitations and counterfeits have sprung up. They impose upon the people once, and that's the last of them.

The Plantation Bitters are now used in all the Government Hospitals, are recommended by the best physicians, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. Facts are stubborn things.

"* * * I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.
"REV. W. H. WADDONER, Madrid, N.Y."

"* * * Then will send me two bottles more of thy Plantation Bitters. My wife has been greatly benefitted by their use. Thy friend,
"ASA CHERIN, Philadelphia, Pa."

"* * * I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. * * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me.
"REV. J. S. OATHORN, Rochester, N.Y."

"* * * Send us twenty-four dozen more of your Plantation Bitters, the popularity of which are daily increasing with the guests of our house.
"SYKES, CHADWICK & Co.,
"Proprietors Willards's Hotel, Washington, D.C."

"* * * I have given the Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our disabled soldiers with the most astonishing effect. G. W. D. ANDREWS,
"Superintendent Soldiers' Home, Cincinnati, O."

"* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of liver complaint, with which I was laid up prostrate and had to abandon my business.
"H. B. KINGSLEY, Cleveland, O."

"* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the kidneys and the urinary organs that has distressed me for years. It acts like a charm. C. C. MOORE, 254 Broadway."

"NEW BEDFORD, MASS., Nov. 24, 1863.
"DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted many years with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. Physicians and medicines failed to relieve me. Some friends in New York, who were using Plantation Bitters, prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glassful after dinner. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters.
"Respectfully, JUDITH RUSSEL."

If the ladies but knew what thousands of them are constantly relating to us, we candidly believe one half of the weakness, prostration and distress experienced by them would vanish. James Marsh, Esq, of 159 West 15th St., N. Y., says, "he has three children, the first two are weak and puny, his wife having been unable to nurse or attend them, but that she has taken Plantation Bitters for the last two years, and has a child now eighteen months old which she has nursed and reared herself, and both are hearty, saucy and well. The article is invaluable to mothers," &c.

Such evidence might be continued for a volume. The best evidence is to try them. They speak for themselves. Persons of sedentary habits, troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, diabetes, &c., will find speedy relief through these bitters.

Every bottle for exportation and sale out of the United States has a metal cap and green label around the neck.

Beware of re-filled bottles. See that the cap has not been mutilated. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters in bulk or by the gallon is an imposter. We sell it only in bottles.

Sold by principal dealers throughout the habitable globe.

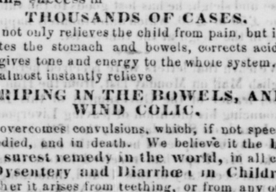
LOWDEN & RICHARDSON.

Charlottetown, April 3, 1865. isl tf



MRS. WINSLOW,

An experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of mothers her

Soothing Syrup,

FOR CHILDREN TEETHING,

which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay all pain and spasmodic action, and is

SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and

Relief and Health to your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for over thirty years, and can say, in confidence and truth of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—never has it failed, in a single instance, to effect a cure, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it; on the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "what we do know," after thirty years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfilment of what we here declare. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skilful nurses in New England, and has been used with never-failing success in

THOUSANDS OF CASES.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve and overcomes convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in Children, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—do not let your prejudices, nor the prejudices of others, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

☞ Sold by Druggists throughout the world.
