Only a few hours earlier, Macmillan faced another Socialist barrage of questions on the subject in the House of Commons. Macmillan told questioners that U.S. bomber pilots are under special orders not to fuse bombs for action except in case of war.

This situation, he said, results from U.S. plane patrols over Britain with hydrogen bombs. Bulganin's letter to Prime Minister Macmillan was one of several personal messages he forwarded to Western heads of government only a few days before the Paris summit conference.

The letter is similar to the one forwarded to President Eisenhower. It varies mainly in its reference to the American H-bomb patrol and Britain's "vulnerable" geographical position in the event of war.

The Soviet premier explicated to the full British Labor party conference over the H-bomb patrol.

Charges Neglect of Fishermen

OTTAWA (CP)—J. W. Pickers Gill, Liberal member for the New Brunswick riding of Bonaville-Willington, charged in the House of Commons "It is quite obvious that the government is completely indifferent to the fishing industry."

He made the charge because he said there is no legislation for the fishing industry to parallel a government proposal to extend the agricultural price supports program.

Mr. Pickers Gill said that when the former Liberal government introduced farm supports in 1945 it brought in fisheries price supports at the same time. This was not the case now.

He said he hopes that the new government will not mean that Canadians depend on primary industries for their livelihood.
