

Rural Community Competition Set

The Prince Edward Island Rural Beautification Society, headed by Robert Szaezle, has announced a special Centennial competition for 1964 for all rural, non-incorporated communities in the province.

Through the support of the P.E.I. Centennial Committee, the Society will offer prizes and awards amounting to over $2,000.

The competition proper, which will have prize money totaling $1,500 is open to all community organizations such as Women's Institutes, Canadian Legion, Catholic Women's League, Junior Farmers, clubs, school trustees, in any non-incorporated community.

A number of community organizations may join forces to enter the Centennial Competition, the society stated, but the division of the award money and its use will be the responsibility of the sponsoring organization.

Prizes will be awarded on a province-wide basis, and will be as follows: first prize, $500; second prize, $400; third prize, $300; fourth prize, $200; and fifth prize, $100.

In addition to the prize money, a special award of $50 will be made to the community which has entered the competition and which has the highest percentage of its roadside entrances beautified and the most improvements to its roadside entrances completed by July 1.

WINNING ENTRY
It was further announced by the society that through the cooperation and permission of Hon. J.D. Stewart, minister of forest development, the community winning first prize will be named the Centennial Community of 1964 and will be photographed in color from the air and featured in a major journal publication the next year.

The society noted that possible for the judges to photograph and enter, all details of the communities entered, and advised that sponsoring organizations should take snapshots before demolishing dilapidated buildings, painting, removing trash, or clearing unsightly areas.

The initial judging for the roadside entrances part of the competition will take place at the same time as the initial inspection of the community itself, when judges will take note of the general conditions of all roadside entrances in the community. Final judging of this part of the competition will commence on July 1, at which time all work on roadside entrances should be completed.

The $500 special award will be based upon both quantity and quality of improvements made to roadside entrances in the community and will be made upon the final decision of a panel of judges.

JUDGING DATES
Initial judging in the contest will commence not later than May 4 and final judging will begin not later than Sept. 1. Judging will be based upon both the quantity and quality of the improvements in the community and prizes will be awarded upon the final decision of a panel of judges.

The society noted that in view of the proportions of the Centennial Competition, it would not be possible for the judges to photograph and enter, all details of the communities entered, and advised that sponsoring organizations should take snapshots before demolishing dilapidated buildings, painting, removing trash, or clearing unsightly areas.

Island Native Now In Calif.

A former Islander, Dr. Laughlin D. MacDonald, chairman of the department of philosophy at the University of Wichita, Kansas, arrived last July a post as a research consultant in logic and logic design of digital computers with the Lockheed Missiles and Space Company, a division of Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, San Francisco, Calif.

Dr. MacDonald went to Wichita six years ago from the University of Florida, and while there he served as president of the Wichita Council of Churches with over 400 churches in the city.

A daughter and son of Dr. and Mrs. MacDonald were married last summer. Their daughter, Joan, married Terry Hill of Middleburg, Virginia in Wichita. She is a graduate of psychology of the University of Wichita.

A son, J. Laughlin of the department of mathematics at the University of Chicago married Dorene Kurtz in Regina, Sask. Dr. MacDonald was president and performed both ceremonies.

Dr. MacDonald is a brother of John K. MacDonald, Killmuir, and of Mrs. W. A. Bruce of Valkefield. Mrs. MacDonald's former home is in Toronto.

SAILORS AROUND
It's estimated that 250,000 Britons go sailing every week, compared with only 15,000 amateur sailors 10 years ago.

Gospel Song Service Held

REDEQUE — A gospel song service was held in the Albany United Church when the congregations of Albany, Redequé and Borden combined. The inspiring stories of some of the hymns were recounted by the pastor, Rev. R.M. Cameron, and the congregation joined in a jubilation of these hymns.

A choir selection was rendered by the combined choirs, and a duet was sung by Mrs. K. N. Marfat and Peter Nicholson.
