

RHEUMATISM

As experience stands, the most promising way to treat an old settled rheumatism is: to set up the general health.

Whatever makes health, in other respects, is good for rheumatism.

We don't say it will cure it. Sometimes it does; sometimes it don't.

Your chance is better with Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil than with anything else now known.

By and by there will be a sure cure; it will make a big noise in the world when it comes

We'll send you a little to try if you like.

THE TUBERCULIN TEST PLAGUE.

The Farmer's advocate has freely devoted much attention and space to the discussion of the subject of bovine tuberculosis, its origin, causes, prevention, and possible cure, giving special emphasis to the value of ventilation and a full supply of pure air and sunlight as an essential agency of prevention, the cheapest and best of the possible provisions against the insidious disease, which is largely a sequence of modern methods of stable construction, and is seldom contracted in open-air conditions. It remarks that the tuberculin test as an agency for the diagnosis of the disease was, a few years ago, with much assurance proclaimed a discovery of great value, being, it was claimed, practically infallible in its operations, and coming with the almost universal endorsement of veterinary scientists, it was received by stock-raisers and the public generally with all the consideration due to a discovery of such vital importance. The earlier exhibitions of its efficiency as an agent for discovery were certainly such as to warrant much of the merit claimed for it, and in so far as that is concerned, we are not sure that when intelligently applied by careful and competent practitioners it has lost much ground in the estimation of unprejudiced witnesses, but in the hands of inexperienced and incompetent manipulators, and under unreasonable and irksome regulations its vagaries have bought it into such general disrepute that there are now comparatively few so simple as to do it reverence. It may yet have its place of usefulness when judiciously applied, especially in the case of city dairies, where sanitary conditions are not sufficiently observed; but its indiscriminate application to imported animals for breeding purposes has always appeared to us, in view of the uncertainty or very distant possibility of its contagious character, to be an unnecessary hardship to importers, and one which they have borne with a patience worthy of a better cause. It is surely an absurdity to suppose that practical men will pay large prices and all the added expenses of transportation for stock of which they have the least suspicion that they are unhealthy. There are well-authenticated cases of animals purchased for America being condemned on the tuberculin test in Britain, and after a few weeks re-tested and passed as sound. In our last issue reference was made to a case in which five high-class bulls purchased for the Argentine were tested by English veterinary surgeons and certified sound, but two of them being condemned by the Government veterinary at the Argentine port, on the same test, they were returned to England for slaughter, where a careful examination by a qualified veterinary failed to find any trace of disease. It is such instances as these that serve to bring the test into contempt, and when to this is added the opinion of breeders that in not a few instances the application of the test has had an injurious effect upon the health of animals, especially pregnant cows, subjected to it, there need be little wonder that importers are strongly disposed to declare war against regulations which hamper and harass enterprising men in the discharge of a business which tends to the public benefit as well as their own. In the state of Illinois, appeal has been made to the courts by cattle owners for protection against the squirt-gun of the vet. under cover of the law, and owing to contrary decisions by judges in different counties as to the legal right to enforce the test, the Governor of the State has wisely declared the regulations of the State Board of Health inoperative, pending the appeal to a higher court. This is probably but the beginning of a fight for freedom from official bondage, which will grow into larger proportions unless relief come soon in the form of more rational requirements. Importers have loyally submitted to a ninety-days quarantine for the discovery of contagious diseases--a precaution which all agree is proper--but when cattle have to run the gauntlet of two tuberculin tests within four months, as many have when so by Canadian importers to go to the United States, it is a severe strain upon the patience of the breeders, as well as upon the constitutions of the animals.

"Our Boys Under Fire or New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island volunteers in South Africa," by Miss Annie Elizabeth Mellish. This book of 122 pages, 42 illustrations tells of the varied career of Our Boys during their year on active service. For sale in all the bookstores. Price 50 cents.

Was Malthus right? He held that population tends to increase more rapidly than its wants can be supplied if not checked by war, famine or other dire calamity, and it is suggested that the present universal unrest and war-craving may be an instinctive consequence of unchecked multiplication of the race during long peace. Anti-Malthusian, however, appears the more evident theory that over-protection of life's necessities has turned human activities into any new fields that open.

Children

Have "eyes bigger than their stomachs," according to an old saying. They over-eat themselves, and are tempted by all sorts of injurious and indigestibleables. As a consequence the foundation of serious stomach trouble is often laid in childhood.

For children with "weak" digestion or whose stomachs are diseased, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery may be confidently recommended. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, so that the nourishment contained in food is perfectly assimilated and the puny child is built up by food into a condition of robust health.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Mrs. Ella Gardner, of Waterview, Middlesex Co., Va., writes: "My little daughter is enjoying splendid health. I am glad I found a doctor who could cure my child. Whenever she feels badly I give her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she is soon all right. She took twelve bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' eight bottles of 'Pellets' and one bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and she is well. We thank God for your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
