

Leo XIII. When a Cardinal.

A movement in the ante-parlor, a hush, a constrain of gossip, and the attention of every one was attracted by the entrance of a gentleman in the robes of a cardinal.

'Who is the gentleman?' asked Eloise Flint.

'It is the new camerlengo,' returned the politician. 'A man who until his appointment was rarely seen in Rome, and who is known but to few.'

'His name?'

'Ah, yes. He is the Cardinal Pecci.'

Then the ladies and Signor Crucellio compared some notes, and as an outcome of this little work the Doctor trotted away, to subsequently return with Cardinal Pecci, when he presented to the signorinas whose grandmother knew you.

The dignitary stopped gallantly, rather than bowed, over the ladies' hands, and with old-school grace tapped their palms with his long forefinger.

The fair Americans had never come so near a cardinal before. This one was tall but did not stoop; spare and lean. His face though not handsome was singularly distingue and keen, but the features were kindly and a smile lit up all the countenance. A voice that was quite as sweet as any they had ever heard, spoke to them in pure English.

Cardinal Pecci remembered General St. Clair, and sitting down, he talked of Brussels, brigands and Leopold. Then he spoke of America—the land of the free, and the home of the brave—of some matters of a personal nature and of Rome. All this in a few minutes; and then he bowed and retired from the alcove. The ladies were impressed with the fine bearing, and their red letter of that evening was the pleasure of having met a live cardinal. At the collation at midnight they saw him eat giuncata, and drink black tea, and then give his adieux to the hostess.—Willard H. Morse, in The Manhattan for May.

Short and Spicy.

Professor—'Parse kissed.' Maiden (innocently): 'It's a conjunction.'

'Got any nutmeg?' 'Grated or whole?' 'Either. I guess it will nutmeg any difference.—Merchant Traveler.

The best prize we can think of for a new and sweet spring poem is a liver psd applied with tenderness to the afflicted part.—Commercial Advertiser.

If you want a suit of good-fitting clothes, seek out the store that advertises 'English clothing a specialty,' and then go somewhere else.—Norristown Herald.

Taunton has the most absent minded man. He attempted to change his shirt the other day and lost his vest in the operation. When he found it, it was in its proper place, with a soiled shirt underneath and the clean one over it.

A colored man came into a Galveston newspaper office and wanted to subscribe to the paper. 'How long do you want it?' asked the clerk. 'Jess as long as it is, boss; if it don't fit de shelves, I kin t'ar a piece off myself.'

Young Bostonian who has married a country wife: 'My dear, I am going down to M. Arbesque's tonsorial parlors for a few minutes.' She: 'Oh, Charlie, dear! there isn't anything the matter with your tonsils, is there?'

A Battleboro man found a hoe in his bed the other morning. He couldn't fathom the mystery until he went out and found his boots leaning up against the wall in the tool house.—Burlington (Vt) Free Press.

'That's the trouble in this part of the country,' remarked a Texas editor, as a bullet crashed through the window and took a piece of his ear off. 'You make a paper interesting and newsy, and you have got to dodge around to keep it up.'

Sensible Sayings.

Not to enjoy one's youth, when one is young, is to imitate the miser who starves beside his treasures.

Love, that has nothing but beauty to keep it in good health, is short lived, and apt to have ague fits.

Coolness, and absence of heat and haste, indicate fine qualities. A gentleman makes no noise; a lady is serene.

Toil is the law. Pleasure comes through toil, and not by self-indulgence and indolence. When one gets to love work his life is a happy one.

Man is a worker; activity is the law of his nature, time is the period for its exercise; eternity for gathering its fruits. All work is prospective; while done in the present it regards the future. The link of antecedent and consequent binds the limited here to the illimitable hereafter. As each moment hurries back into the everlasting past, the record of its deeds speeds forward into the everlasting future. And thither do the deeds speed too, not to rest in endless oblivion, but to await at judgment the spirit's arrival, and to meet it either with a welcome of joy or a ban of terrible woe. Actions never die, but live eternally either as angels in bliss, or as devils to burst.

AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes: "AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose very quickly relieved my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers."

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro., Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The Rev. FRANK R. HARRLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "I have been from Atlanta, Ga., for some time past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the constipation, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists.
