THE DAILY EXAMINER.

DECEMBER 11, 1896.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—President Cleveland to Spain: "If you can't lick Cuba quick you must give her Home Rule or we will give you Hail Columbia.

—The United States pension bill, passed a few days ago, carries an appropriation of $141,263,000, or nearly $50,000,000 more than the total cost of the army which defends the British empire.

—The St. John Sun points out that the position of still another postmaster is threatened. The postmaster in question, who is said to have actively supported Mr. Powell, enjoys a salary of $10!

—Moncton Times: A good many people would not esteem it a very high honor to be appointed by any government for the purpose of trumping up excuses for turning his neighbors out of employment. But there is no accounting for taste.

—It is announced from Ottawa that Dairy Commissioner Robertson has sent out to the creamery proprietors nearly a hundred sets of plans for cold storage accommodation. There are many applications from parties anxious to earn the government grant.

—The fire loss of the United States and Canada for the month of November amounts to $5,211,800. This is a remarkably light record, and one which makes certain a great reduction for the whole year 1896, as compared with 1885, unless some enormous conflagration takes place this month. The total for 1896 will be about $115,000.

—For the information of farmers generally it may be pointed out that choice bacon hogs sell quickly at $4 to $4.25 per 100 lbs., heavy fat at $3.75, and heavy rough at from $3 to $3.75. A large proportion of the offerings come under the heavyweight class, and are not in very great demand. What the buyers want are choice bacon hogs. Farmers and pork-raisers should make a note of this fact.

—Mail and Empire: If Mr. Fielding will take up the cudgel in defence of free trade against employers of labor who are trying to show him the necessity of protection, he ought at least to lay about him with fair play. In his argument with Mr. Yates, of London, he wilfully ignored the fact which the latter pressed upon his attention, that United States manufacturers sacrifice goods here; that is, sell them at prices far below those current across the line.

—Chatham World: "Chatham and Newcastle are suffering for their political sins. Instead of filling their vacant post office the Government inflicts upon them underlings from St. John. Surely these towns are important enough to rightly claim to have their post offices occupied by somebody else than St. John clerks. Are there not gentlemen in the Liberal ranks in Chatham and Newcastle whom the Government considers qualified for the offices? It is a disgrace to the Government, and a humiliation for Newcastle and Chatham.

—The Roman Catholics of Winnipeg held a meeting in that city on Wednesday evening to protest against the settlement of the school question. Resolutions were passed protesting against the terms of arrangement affirming that the terms are wholly insufficient to redress the wrongs, condemning the federal ministers for trying to force on the Catholic minority a proposal that is inadequate, also not consulting the minority in the negotiations, as loyal citizens they claimed British justice, nothing more nor less; that copies of the resolutions be mailed to his excellency, the governor-general, to Hon. Wilfred Laurier and his colleagues, and to Sir Charles Tupper and members of his late cabinet.

—The Montreal Witness is evidently not infatuated with the proceedings before the Grit tariff commission. Here is how it expresses itself:

"The tariff enquiry commission must be weary. The representations made before it are monotonous to nausea. With few exceptions they amount to demands from the interested for more protection in the shape of replacing ad valorem by specific duties or of reduction of duties on "raw material," occasionally even of an increase of the existing duties. When increased protection is not demanded, reduction is protested against."

By the way, was it not this same Witness which characterized the result of the late Federal election as a victory for tariff reform?

—An analysis of the results of the recent Presidential election, made by the New York Post, shows that the 172 electoral votes to be cast for Bryan come from the States whose total vote aggregates approximately 4,050,700, or an average of 23,150 for each electoral vote; while the states whose electoral votes will be cast for McKinley polled a total of 9,709,000 votes, an average of 35,600 for each elector. Put in other words, it required 12,500 more votes to choose a McKinley elector than to choose a Bryan elector. If the electors were apportioned according to the number of votes cast, Mr. McKinley would have 315 and Mr. Bryan 132, which would more nearly represent the popular will than the present division of 275 to 172. The extremes of this comparison are, on the one side, the four states of Nevada, Wyoming, Idaho, and Florida, having one elector to each 7,600 votes; and, on the other, the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Ohio, where the average of votes to an elector is 40,400.

—The export trade in apples from Canadian and United States ports has been very large this year and the transportation companies have reaped all the benefit. The total quantity of apples sent abroad during the present season is put down at 1,699,824 barrels, which is four or five times the shipments of season 1895, which were 371,315 barrels. It is, in fact, the largest in a dozen years, with the possible exception of 1890, but almost every shipper declares the prices to have been unsatisfactory, because foreign markets have been flooded with fruit, and as a natural result prices of apples have been unusually low. Good apples can be bought in New York this week at from $1 to $1.25 per barrel, put on steamer. Considering the freight, this means a small return to the grower. It is said great quantities have been shipped this season, which netted the producers only from 35 to 75 cents per barrel. A special feature of the United States trade has been the increase in shipments to Germany.

NEW CONSERVATIVE PAPER.—A new French Canadian Conservative morning newspaper has appeared in Quebec, under the editorship of Honore Chasse, an experienced journalist, who has resigned a position in the civil service to take charge of it. Amongst the shareholders of L'Avant Garde, as the new paper is called, are a number of leading citizens who have only recently severed their allegiance from the Liberal cause.

JUSTICE NOT YET DONE.

The Ottawa Owl Says the Manitoba School Question is Far From Settled.

The Ottawa University journal, the Owl, issued last Saturday, contains a strong editorial protest against the school settlement. The article, which is believed to be from the pen of Rev. Father Fallon, vice-director of the University, says:

"Every Catholic throughout the length and breadth of this Dominion has a solemn duty urgent upon him at this hour. And not only every Catholic, but every Canadian who has any respect for national honor or any regard for national obligations, and the guarantees of the constitution. The present government of Canada has earned everlasting infamy for the shameful, time-serving and craven sacrifice it has made of the sacred rights of the small and helpless Manitoban minority. Let us see to it that the ministry receive the reward of their perfidy.

"Oh, the burning shame, the bitter anguish of the whole disgraceful transaction! A political party are triumphantly carried into power on the strength of solemn promises that entire and absolute justice would be done the oppressed Catholics of Manitoba, and now, almost before the sounds of the hypocritical voices so promised have died from our ears, come the terms of the proposed settlement.

"Those of us who loved the Liberal party for the honesty and uprightness of its Alexander Mackenzie, the whole mindedness and honor of its Edward Blake, may well blush for shame as we consider the gang of miserable sophisters and selfish calculators who now rush it to inevitable rule.

"It will not do for the timorous of self-seeking to cry for peace, where there is no peace. But every conscientious Catholic in this Dominion knows in his soul, whatever his lips may say, that the published terms of the settlement are an outrage and a farce and should be repudiated with all the energy of his being.

"On his soul let the responsibility lie—and lie there it will, for good or evil.

"Optimistic politicians may fondly flatter themselves that they have cleverly crushed the Catholics of Manitoba. Poor, deluded, short-sighted fools! You cannot kill justice. You cannot bury justice.

"'Truth will rise,
Though all the world o'erwhelm it,
to men's eyes.'

"The God of justice still lives; His arm is not shortened; He is able to cope successfully with even the great Liberal party, and to mete out stern punishment for its low apostacy. Rest easy, friends of justice. God yet rules the universe; in His own good time He will act.

"To the noble, long-suffering Catholics of Manitoba we would say: 'Keep up the fight; better to bleed for an age at the shrine of sacred principle than to sleep for a moment in the chains forged for you in the house of those who should have been your friends.'"

ENGLAND IS NOT SORRY.

Paying For the Dongola Expedition Tightens Her Grip on Egypt.

Great Britain has advanced and the Egyptian Government has accepted the sum of £500,000 to be repaid into the Egyptian Treasury, in pursuance of the judgement of the Court of Appeal, which decided that the Public Debt Commission has no right to advance that or any other sum to meet the expenses of the Soudan campaign.

A member of the British parliament, when asked his opinion on the judgment of the judgment of the Egyptian Appeal Court, ordering the Egyptian, that is, the British, Government to restore to the reserve fund half of a million sterling, spent on the Dongola expedition, replied: "If we pay the piper, we call the tune That explains why what the French press regards as a snub for England, is received in Ministerial circles with hardly concealed satisfaction. The extended operations towards Khartoum, for which Gen. Kitchener is now preparing, strengthen the British lien on the conquered territory, at least as a right of way to England's African possessions.

The St. James Gazette exultingly exclaims: "The judgment has thrown Egypt into our arms. We can never go back now."

In Liberal circles the hope is expressed that the present impasse which enables the smallest of European powers to veto the use of the Egyptian funds, will lead England to regularize before Europe her position as temporary trustee for Egypt, and thus remove the greatest obstacle to goodwill with France and Russia.

WAYS THAT ARE DARK.

(Halifax Herald.)

The public has been deceived by the grits. This is shown by the lengths to which the office seekers are forced to go to make charges against officials.

It is certain that a charge of perjury will be made against one of the witnesses in the Chebucto Head case.

The witness had made an affidavit in Halifax that Mr. Johnson's team was working on election day, and that Mr. Johnson was driving voters to the poll all day.

It was proved that Johnson's team was not out of the stable, and that the accused did not go to the poll until one o'clock, when he voted.

Captain Douglas asked the witness if he knew that he had sworn to these things in his affidavit. He said yes, but that he did so from hearsay.

The witness said he was pressed to do this by a Halifax ex-alderman, who was himself a witness against Johnson, and who wants Johnson's job for a relative.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NO ISLANDERS NEED APPLY.

SIR,—In your issue of Tuesday I noticed an article signed "Onlooker" asking how it is that men have to be imported to fill engineers' places while plenty of competemen are to be found at home. The matter has been referred to the Patriot, but that strong provincial organ is strangely silent. Again in your issue of yesterday a correspondent of the Pictou Standard writes relative to the shunting of an engineer off a well known grit's hands into the steamer Petrel. Mr. Editor, this is the way mechanics here are encouraged. One corporation imports a couple of men from across the pond, and a strong, indefatiguable, patriotic grit brings another ann has him put into a government position immediately. The other day a first-class man actually had to leave his family and seek for work elsewhere, while work was denied him at home and given to outsiders.

I might refer to many similar incidents but for the present the above will suffice. I know of several good and competent men who should have work if things were as they ought to be. But the signs of the times are, "No Islanders need apply." Truly this is a pitiable state of affairs, and demands a remedy. Where are all these men who were here last June, and who were going to do so much for their country? Are they asleep? or perhaps they are thinking of the next election.

A Well-defined Policy.

For seventeen years we have had a well defined policy in the conducting of our Seed Business. To it we have steadily adhered, and continued success has been the result.

Since we began the Book, Stationery, Fancy Goods and Toy Business, we have used the same general methods and the success in these lines has been even greater than in the seed trade.

OUR ILLUSTRATED AND DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, has played an important part in the success of both lines of business We procure the goods the people want, buy them from the best sources, buy low, sell low, have attentive clerks and deal honestly with all our customers.

In addition to these neccessary elements to business success, we publish a catalogue of Seasonable Goods, and send it by mail to the homes of our patrons. Then in the quiet of their homes the catalogue is studied and the goods most suitable decided upon. The actual selection of the goods at the store follows in due course. Our Xmas catalogue for this season, is now ready, and our city customers will find a copy addressed to each at the Post Office. If we have overlooked anybody, we ask them to kindly excuse, and call at the store and ask for a copy of the Xmas Catalogue. We want every household to have one.
