After winning an award at the Maritime Music Awards, I.C.U. toured the Maritimes during the summer of '89 to rave reviews and return offers. The band then placed 2nd in the Q-104 Homegrown contest, which led to two "Concert on the Hill," appearing in front of a total of 105,000 people.

After a mutually successful affiliation with Schooner beer for the 1988-89 season, I.C.U. has just signed a sponsorship deal with Labatt's Blue Live for the 1989-90 season. Their appearances and the aforementioned Brewery affiliation has led to serious interest from national record companies, of which I.C.U. will be appearing in front of over the course of the next few months.

I.C.U. is presently in the process of recording their next single, "Dirty Fighter," to coincide with the release of the 1989 Homegrown cassette and compact disc, of which they have two original songs on, exposing them to an even larger audience.

With their versions of current hits, motown classics, and original material, I.C.U. is more than capable of entertaining all demographics. Their success on the club and university circuit speaks for itself.

This is definately a band that will cause people to say, "I saw them when!"
