A Woman's Strange Affliction.—Sarah Scott, aged 36, of Oak Grove Village, near Fall River, Mass., is attracting the attention of every physician in that vicinity. In 1893, while on her way to the Massachusetts General Hospital, she broke her thigh while alighting from a car. Her leg was amputated. While turning in bed at the hospital her other leg was broken. After it healed she was removed to her home. Two weeks ago while chewing, she broke her jawbone. Last Wednesday night while attempting to put her hand behind her she broke the bones of her arm. Dr. Kidden, one of the physicians who had charge of her at the hospital and who is in charge of her now, says she is suffering from osteomalaria.

During the year the Society purchased from the Catholic Truth Society of England, 621 bound volumes, 5,444 pamphlets and 558 leaflets, and from the C. T. S., of America, 1,983 pamphlets. There were put into circulation 472 bound volumes 5,555 pamphlets, 3517 leaflets. These included a number of the Ottawa series. The grand total was 10,422 publications, compared with 9,007 last year, an increase of 1,415. Since organized three years ago, the Society had put 25,396 publications into circulation. The Treasurers report showed receipts totalling $442.17 and an expenditure of $340.34. Joseph Pope was elected President for the ensuing year, and W. C. Desbrisay was re-elected Secretary. J. A. J. LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

The Master of the Rolls having given an opinion on the matter while at the bar, is taking no part in the case.

Is Man To Become Extinct.—Labouchere says that the displacement of male by cheaper female labor is going on in all directions in England. The new social problem presented by this phenomenon is an aggravating one. If man is forbidden by women to support himself, the London editor remarks, then woman must support him. The only alternative is that man must become extinct, and this prospect appears to have large fascinations for a certain school of women. But the other question of how, if man becomes extinct, woman can continue, has to be left for solution to the still more advanced females who hold that even in race matters man is a superfluous affair.

THANKSGIVING

Lord, I give thanks!
Last year, Thou knowest, my best ambitions failed:
My back with scourgings of defeat was flailed;
My eyes felt oft the sharp salt wash of tears;
No guerdon blessed the tireless toil of years;
Fast in the snares my helpless feet were tied.
Yet in my woes Thou didst with me Abide.
Lord, I give thanks!

Lord, I give thanks!
Last year my one lone ship came back to me,
A ruined wreck of what she used to be,
No cargo in her hold, storm-stained and scarred.
O Lord, Thou knowest that it was hard, was hard,
To watch her drifting bulk with hopeless eye.
Yet in my desolation Thou were nigh.
Lord, I give thanks!

Lord, I give thanks!
Last year the one I loved the dearest died,
And like a desert waste became the wide
And weary world. Love's last sweet star went out:
Blackness of darkness wrapped me round about.
Yet in the midst of my mad misery,
Thou lent'st Thy rod and staff to comfort me.
Lord, I give thanks!
