NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Yes, it's true, as the Halifax Herald says, that with expenditure debt and taxation spreading so fast, it's high time that we had a change.
—The Montreal Gazette remarks that Mr. T. Broughton Tower seems to be the new poet laureate of Liberalism. "The Swing of Victory" is the title of his ode on the dissolution. One stanza of the effort reads:—
"She found to her cost what she had lost
Who changed old lamps for new;
A brave outside base metal may hide,
And time is the test of the true."
This is, as the Gazette remarks, decidedly better literature than "Ring the knell of hoodling boys," or even "Beware the French-Canadian horde." There is a suspicion, however that Mr. Tower may be a Tory in disguise. He may be sitting at Canada and 1896 when he strikes the line "She found to her cost." etc.

One More Untortunate

Wanted the DIAMOND DYES, but was induced by her dealer to try another make.

A lady writing from a small town in New Brunswick to the proprietors of Diamond Dyes, says:
"Please find enclosed Express Money Order for six packets of Diamond Dyes, colors as mentioned below. I have been a user of Diamond Dyes, for over five years, and they have given me entire satisfaction. A few weeks ago our merchant was out of a color I wanted in the Diamond Dyes and strongly recommended another make he was selling. I bought the packet with many doubts as to their worth. I made an effort to dye an old colored opera shawl with the new dye. The ghastly result almost drove me mad. There was not a semblance of any decided color. Now I am obliged to dye it black, and will do the work with the Diamond Dyes. No more poor muddy dyes for me while I can send to you for the reliable Diamond Dyes."

Liberal Meeting at Montague.

A fair attendance of men women and children assembled in Montague hall last night to hear addresses from Liberal speakers. Dr. Robertson was chairman and in introducing Mr. Hughes, the Liberal candidate, spoke at some length on the trade of the Dominion, telling the electors to consider carefully the great increase in the corn trade on account of the reduction in duty. One of the farmers present was heard to remark, "Where is the market for my oats?"
Mr. Hughes next addressed the meeting. He declared that as sure as he was standing on the platform the Liberals were going to get into power, and, after appealing to the meeting for their votes, left the platform for the next speaker, Mr. D. A. McKinnon, who declared that he was not quite sure that they would get into power, that elections were, like horse races, never sure until they are won. No doubt Mr. McKinnon has had experiences that Mr. Hughes is not acquainted with. He concluded his speech by comparing the Liberals to the British soldiers and the Conservatives to the Boers, adding that he would not stop until he had sent one cursing fox to St. Helena Island out of politics.
Mr. McKinnon was followed by Sir Louis Davies who declared that he would not be beaten. He spoke of the Government acts in general, and stated that Governments do not govern proper. Any person who would say so was a deceiver or a fool. This did not line with his speech four years ago when he charged the then Government with controlling prices. Sir Louis closed with a reference to the sending of the contingent to South Africa, but said not a word regarding the emergency rations.
The meeting was closed with another speech from Dr. Robertson, urging the running of the two winter steamers to Georgetown, a branch railway to Caragan village, sending the dredge to Montague, commencing a custom house at Cardigan, and the election of Hughes.

On the platform was the trophy won by the Brigade at Camp Brighton. Several selections from the graphophone were given. Miss Flo.
