

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

NEW CANADIANS

Back in 1875 the English Sparrow might have been called a new Canadian, and around 1920 the same could have been said of the Starling.

This movement of any species is unusual. The general rule is to keep to the ancient, ancestral migration route, breeding ground, and winter resort.

The Cardinal is a member of the Grosbeak family, all handsome birds. The male is deep scarlet. It is customary to find brilliantly coloured birds in Bermuda, one of the Cardinal's haunts.

About 1915 a few had immigrated. Soon they extended along the shore of Lake Erie, and some individuals appeared as far west as Manitoba.

Tangled areas where wild fruit is available are the favourite haunts, but thick shrubbery in city gardens suits the Cardinals well.

A city bird watcher tells of a male Cardinal, with beak full of little green worms, attracted to his feeding tray.

Are young birds taught?

New C. N. Express Manager Appointed

MONTREAL, Oct. 9 — The retirement on pension of F. N. Wiggins, general manager of Canadian National Express, and the appointment of T. H. Martin as his successor were announced here by S. F. Dingle, vice-president of operation for the company.

Mr. Wiggins, whose 50-year railway service has seen the express business develop from infancy to a major aspect of modern transportation, was born at Malakoff, Carleton County, Ont., in 1886.

Mr. Martin, who succeeds Mr. Wiggins as general manager previously was general traffic manager for the express department.

A native of Hamilton, Ont., he joined the Canadian Northern Express Company at Toronto in 1917 as clerk, becoming chief clerk four years later. In 1922 he was transferred to Montreal as traffic clerk in the office of the general manager. He was appointed superintendent of traffic and transportation in 1938 and traffic manager in 1942. Three years later he was promoted to general superintendent of traffic and transportation and in 1950 was named general traffic manager.

Sees Britain Pursuing Forlorn Hope In Iran

By J. M. Roberts, Jr. (Associated Press News Analyst) Britain, seeking to restore her position in Iran through the United Nations, is pursuing a forlorn hope.

You can just say that restoration of positions once lost in international affairs just doesn't happen — except through the application of force, which would be too dangerous in this case anyway.

In addition, Britain does not have the full support of her normal friends. The United States, to whom some smaller countries look in their search for autonomy from outside controls, has no intention this time of supporting any sort of U. N. resolution attacking Iran.

Turkey, considering herself vitally involved in anything touching the Middle East, is miffed at Britain for going ahead with the appeal to the Security Council without first consulting Ankara.

The Iranian question thus becomes, for the moment, more involved with the whole future of Iran than merely with the oil over which the dispute started. Russia is moving in to supply Iran with the goods normally purchased with oil money and largely supplied by Britain.

Gander Landing Made At Request Of Princess

GANDER, Nfld., Oct. 9 — (CP) — Landing of the royal plane this morning was partly at the request of Princess Elizabeth so she could see more of the scenery when the flight to Montreal continued.

The plane, originally scheduled to fly direct to Montreal, landed here at 6:15 A.M. N.S.T. and took off again at 8:45 A.M.

During the brief stopover, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip walked around the plane, smiled and waved to residents who had turned out just in case the plane landed, and visited Gander Lake.

Princess Elizabeth said the Atlantic crossing was pleasant. The plane had landed at Gander because of strong headwinds and her desire to await daylight so she could see more of the countryside en route to Montreal.

No dignitaries were on hand but R. C. M. P. officers were stationed at the airbase for such a landing.

Girl Guide News

Southport News

A long session of map and compass work kept the Southport Guides busy on Saturday afternoon. Every minute for two hours was spent in study and lectures and culminated in the following Guides successfully passing the First Class test: Joyce MacKie, Betty Aylward, Barbara Duffy, Betty Rogerson, Teresa Gallant, Shirley Smallwood, Catherine MacDonald, Janet Reardon, Leona Gallant and a visiting Guide from Marshfield, Millicent Munn. Mr. F. S. Jenkins examined the girls and all local points of interest were correctly found on the maps. Maps of Southport were drawn and considered very good with top marks going to Joyce MacKie.

After such hard work the girls especially appreciated the wonderful supper of fried chicken and salads in the spacious cottage of Mrs. Neil Matheson. The salads were most attractive looking and had been prepared by the girls who certainly showed their food club learning. Leader Mrs. Matheson had spent all morning preparing the wonderful supper, assisted by daughter Margaret Dawn and Betty Carol, who assured me that they were good at the plucking and careful not to tear the skin. Everyone voted it a very successful meeting and thanks were given to the Leader and the examiner. Girls were all set to complete the First Class this winter and then for some Gold Cords in Southport. A rousing sing song concluded the meeting with Taps and Eversong around the firelight.

Brownie News

Janet and Joan Korrey, Sheila MacCormick and Doreen Kays were visitors to H. Q. on Saturday morning and passed several tests of the Golden Bar and Hand. Brown Owl Lois Brown had trained them well and they had no difficulty in answering the many questions and practical demonstrations. This is going to be another successful year for Brownies. Every week brings more test work which is the way we and parents like to have it. Brownies, so keep it up.

Souris Guides

The Guides were very busy on Saturday, Sept. 29th, when a cookie and candy sale was held in the morning and a pantry sale in the afternoon. A total sum of $50.00 was realized. The Guides must have spent a lot of time decorating baskets as they were just lovely. When the girls receive their new uniforms which are on order, they will certainly feel satisfaction for all the work. Many thanks to Mr. Harold MacInnis for giving us space in his store and to the store clerks who so generously helped us. Also to the Guide Committee of Souris. Mrs. Fred Mullally and Mrs. Peter McPhee and to Mrs. Adrian McInnis, who gave of her time to help us. The Souris Guides are hoping to be enrolled this month and are studying hard. Miss No-reen Noonan, R.N., of Charlottetown and Souris is Leader of the Company and a most able and enthusiastic one with Miss Nellie Foley and Miss Roma McKay as Lieutenants. This is a fine team and we are sure of good results with the re-opened company. The girls donated a cake for the accident victims in hospital and wished them a quick recovery.

celebrate her sixty-sixth birthday. Mrs. Alex MacDonald, who can- ably acted as chairman, expressed regret that Mrs. Dixon has not enjoyed the best of health for some time, and sincerely wished her a complete recovery. Mrs. Charles Robertson presented Mrs. Dixon with a beautiful gift, as a token of the love and best wishes of those present, and little Miss Diane Taylor presented a very prettily decorated three-layer birthday cake, baked by Mrs. Everett Taylor. After Mrs. Dixon had graciously thanked her friends a few appropriate songs were sung, and friendly conversation enjoyed. Later the birthday cake and ice cream were served by the ladies. The party concluded with the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."—E.

Sport Echoes From Prince County

Holman's Island champs are still waiting to engage the Nova Scotia winners for the Maritime baseball championship. Summerside is holder of the championship at present but you would think we were the challengers by the pattern of negotiations taking place. In the boxing game, the champion sits on his throne and hides his time while all the challengers clamor for attention from the august one. In this Maritime baseball situation, Summerside does all the clamoring. The Nova Scotia participants don't always bother to answer our enquiries. At this late date you would have thought a best-of-three series would have been sufficient for Londonderry and Middleton, but no, they have to have a best-of-five affair while Summerside waits and gets rusty in the process.

As long as we have no Maritime body to control the situation, we can expect that kind of treatment. If the Maritime series is worth playing at all, it should be worth a little trouble to organize a Maritime committee to handle details of the series. A situation of this kind wouldn't be tolerated in a province such as Ontario where organization in sports is very thorough.

Seems the New York Giants have a way of apologizing to Durocher for mistakes they make with home runs. Bobby Thomson made a serious error in the last game with Brooklyn but he told "The Lip" he was sorry by hitting a home run that belted the Giants right into the pen- nant. You can bet Durocher forgave him for the miscue. In Saturday's game Whitey Lockman made a bad bobble at first but apologized by hitting a homer with two on. Any time a player can cover up errors in that way he needn't worry too much about the slip-ups.

You will notice that if the pivot player in an attempted double play throws high to first and because of the high throw the runner at first is safe, the pivot player does not get an error. As Mel Allen put it, "you can't anticipate a double play." Stanky did not get an error for his high throw in the fourth inning which spoiled a double play. If the throw is good, and in time, however, and the first baseman drops it, an error is charged to him.

Ron McArthur and Paul Schurman, two local hockey players, will travel to Halifax soon to try out with the St. Mary's junior team. Ron and Paul are two promising young puck manipulators and they will have to be better than good to carve a place for themselves on this very fast St. Mary's club. We wish them the best.

Summerside bowling will get under way soon. The alleys have been renovated and look very snazzy in their new color scheme. With hockey doing a partial fade-out in Summerside, bowling will probably attract more attention than ever.
