HAPPENINGS

Nine tables of bridge were in play Monday night at the Charlottetown Hotel when the Duplicate Bridge Club held their weekly meeting. Winners were: North and South: 1. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Senn; 2. Mrs. Lloyd Wellner and Mrs. Helen Dunbar. East and West: 1. (tied) Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mrs. Sinclair MacKay and Mrs. W.E. Cotton; 2. Mr. A. Scott and Mr. Charles Toombs.

She will spend the winter at her home in Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith and son, Bill, returned to their home in Summerside after spending a week's vacation with relatives in St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea N.B., and Portland, Maine.

Mr. Stanley Wells was guest of honor on the occasion of his birthday on Saturday when fifty-six of his friends and relatives gathered at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gordon Warnholtz and Mr. Warnholtz, Summerside at the supper hour to congratulate and extend best wishes. Mr. Gordon MacKenzie, on behalf of those assembled, gave an address and made a presentation of money. A sing-song and games were enjoyed and a special feature was a tape recording of the activities of the evening.

On September 26 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wood held a corn ball and square dance at Dalvay, honoring them on their recent marriage. During the evening they were presented with a lovely gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood were also honored on October 9 when relatives of the groom gathered at their home and showered them with many lovely gifts and a well filled purse. Delicious refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. James Farrar and sons, Lea and Harvey, Apple Road, accompanied by Mrs. Farrar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ferguson, Hampton, left Friday for Toronto to spend two weeks with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Matheson of Summerside spent the week-end with relatives in Hunter River.

Mr. and Mrs. George Melkie returned to their home in Summerside after spending a week in New Brunswick, Saint John and other points.

An enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd MacWilliams, Milburn, on Nov. 18 when relatives and friends gathered to tender a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Faye Estabrook whose wedding took place last week to Mr. William Reginald Mackay. The living room was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

She was attended by her sister Velma who escorted her to a nicely decorated seat of honor. She was the recipient of many useful and lovely gifts including a sum of money. Gifts were opened by Miss Joan Gorrill, accompanying verses read by Mrs. Alton Silker. The gifts were presented and arranged by Miss Leone MacWilliams.

Faye in a few well chosen words thanked all for their lovely gifts and good wishes. All

Miss Marilyn Best, student at PWC, spent Sunday at her home in Tryon.

Miss Sally Basler, Provincial president, left Saturday for Toronto to attend the National Executive meeting of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schurman, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hinton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Linkletter of Summerside and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Richardson of Charlottetown attended the Dillstone-Estey nuptials on Saturday in the Wesley Memorial Church, Moncton, N.B.

Miss Anita McNeill, RN, daughter of Mrs. D.F. McNeill, left Summerside for Centralia, Ontario, to begin her initial training as a nursing sister in the R.C.A.F.

Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Lewis has returned to her home in Summerside from a visit with her brother-in-law, Mr. J.C. Mill, Chelmsford, Mass.

Rev. and Mrs. J.B. Wilson of Truro, N.S., spent a few days last week in Summerside, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eric MacKay.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Jamieson and daughter Susan of Hartford, Conn. arrived on Sunday evening and are visiting relatives in Summerside, Kensington and Hamilton. They were accompanied by Mrs. Jamieson's mother, Mrs. Winifred Ramsay who had been visiting in Rhode Island.

by that - there'll be no home-cookin' done anymore! I was sitting in the sunporch the other afternoon, along toward suppertime, when folks were getting home from work. And it was amusing to see. Here was this or that woman - and not all of them were workin' girls, neither - makin' for the store and lightin' out then with a cake box or a loaf of bread under her arm. And a tin of this or that. Look-a-heres, Missis, I've saved the life of more than one cat this summer that had his head caught fast in a tin that had held fish or meat-or-yeas, beans in 'em!"

We laughed.

"You needn't laugh, woman - it's the truth. The days of the home-cooked meal is past. Though my old one still makes her bread and her biscuit. And odd times a bannock-and a pie or a cake-now and then. If she didn't I'd leave her alone to eat fog; that's what I call bought stuff, and open tins! Yes, I would! "I," he twinkled, "hang my hat in a kitchen that smelled of cookin'."

We chuckled. It is good to laugh. Because as the Chinese say, "If we keep a green bough in our hearts, the singing bird will come."

Until tomorrow --- Diary --- Good-night. . .

MacLean-McHugh Nuptials Performed By Candlelight

The First Baptist church, Dearborn, Michigan was the scene of a pretty wedding on Sept. 11 at 7.30 p.m. when Joye Delora McHugh, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McHugh of Dearborn, was united in marriage to Rod MacLean, son of Mrs. Rod MacLean and the late Mr. MacLean of Detroit.

Rev. H. C. MacDonald officiated at the double ring candlelight service.

The church was artistically decorated for the occasion with baskets of white gladioli and mums, creating a beautiful setting for the bridal party.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white peau de soie fashioned with boat neckline and short sleeves with which she wore gauntlet gloves. A butterfly bustle bow added back interest. From her pearl trimmed beehive fell a fingertip veil with seed pearl embroidery. She carried a colonial arrangement of white roses.

The bride's only attendant was

ELLEN'S DIARY

'The Way To A Man's Heart Is Through His Stomach'

And then this afternoon in the wake of a spell of November mists and showers, . . .

"Ellen," James' voice had come in softly to interrupt, a minute or last night's dreams "do you hear the rain? It's a regular down-pour! . . . I should think by this," he remarked snuggling down again on his pillow. "The springs and wells would be full. They do say," he offered, "winter never sets in before that."

This afternoon, then, with a burst of sunlight through the gray, and a change of wind and a sudden drop in temperature - with frost that caught glassily the puddles and set little icicles along shadowed eaves, winter came to us to sojourn or it may be to stay.

It carried the workers away from the maple grove and their wood - cutting in mid-afternoon to Rob's, and a hurried round-up there and a herding of cattle to stables. At dusk some younglings at Alderlea were sheltered, of those that have enjoyed freedom from confinement since spring.

"Soup!" Granddaughter smiled coming by after school. "Smells good," she said.

"What kind? Chicken?" Mack asked.

"What difference does it make?" she chuckled.

"None," he agreed. "Soup's for . . . I actually don't know what home-made soup is for. At any rate," he smiled, "it's not for me!"

"This reaches the right spot," James said at supper. "When a fellow comes in from the cold and it is cold this evening, Ellen - there's nothing will warm him better than a bowl of hot soup."

And after it? Slices of ham and eggs more tasteful in this the season of less productivity in our poultry - house we fancy, and a spicy apple and onion relish. James favors. For dessert, the dark plums we find come attractively colored and tasteful from the home-canning.

Speaking of cooks and cookery the other day, "I'm telling you" an old-timer of a farmer commented "in another generation-yes, we can set the time safely

If your clothes are not becoming to you . . . They should be coming to us!
