VICTORIA'S RELICS.
RARE CHINA AND PICTURES AT WINDSOR CASTLE

Her Majesty's Personal Interest in Her Priceless Collection—A Long Series of Royal Relics and Portraits.

Among the many rare and costly treasures open to the view only of the specially favored visitor, in the private apartments of the royal castle of Windsor, one of the most curious is a carved ivory casket, lined with crimson velvet, and mounted and decorated with rosewood and silver. Carved in low relief in the centre is a winged figure, surmounting an altar with sacrificial fire. It is the torso, but expressive inscription: "From the Parser." The casket rests on a plinth, adorned on either side with carved chimerae, with golden wings and crowned head, and bearing upon its back the crown of their father's crown. On the carved back of the plinth is the monogram "V. L." and the inscription, "Bombay, 1877." The casket also bears the imperial coat of arms.

In the "Large Dining Room" is the not very elegant, but certainly imposing silver-gilt bench-bowl. It was designed by Flaxman and manufactured by Rundell and Bridges for George IV, when Prince of Wales. Its proportions are so vast that the gilding alone is said to have cost $10,000. The bowl, which stands in front of the bowl, was made for the present Prince of Wales and is of very great value.

Throughout the collection one is constantly noticing rare specimens of clocks of all periods. Here, for instance, is a fine example of Louis Seize work by the celebrated Legarde of Paris. The case is embellished with ornate mounts. The movement, which is in perfect order, requires winding but once a year.

The castle is a magnificent museum of old china, mostly so fine that one stands aghast at the mere thought of its enormous value. Look, for instance, at a set of three vases of "Rose du Barry" Sevres in the grand corridor. They are simply priceless. The designs in front are beautifully painted amorphin in panels, those at the back flowers on a white ground. The centre vase has a perforated top. The height of the vases is fourteen inches. Old Sevres, even when first made was extremely expensive, but now can seldom be purchased, except by millionaires. Not many years since a set of three small jardiniere was sold by auction at Christie's for $50,000. Single plates have frequently been sold for 200 guineas (about $1000) and cups and saucers for 150 guineas (about $750) each. In the "Green Drawing Room" we must look with admiration and wonder at the grand desert service to which no rival exists. It was commenced at Sevres in 1784 for Louis XVI, and was purchased by George IV. The manufacture took about ten years of the time of the finest ceramic artists in the world to complete. The ground of the piece is of the most perfect Bleu du Roi, or "Gros Bleu." The paintings, chiefly figure subjects in stylized landscapes, are by the most eminent artists ever employed at the royal manufactory.

The portraits of the Queen and Prince Consort, which were exhibited in the exhibition of 1851, are very fine examples of modern Sevres work. These are half-length portraits of the size of life, each painted on a single slab of porcelain. They are the work of the painter Winterhalter, and were executed by order of Louis Philippe as a present to Her Majesty. They were commenced just before the revolution of 1848, and were abandoned by the Republican Government, but were surrendered to Louis Philippe as his private property and presented to Her Majesty.

In the "Green Drawing Room" is also a splendid set of four bronze and ormolu candelabra emblematical of the seasons. They are probably the finest specimens of such work in existence. The designs, modelling of the figures and chasing of the ornament are simply perfect. The work is either of the late Louis Quatorze or Louis Quinze period, when furniture bronzes of the finest class were being made in France. Unfortunately, the artist's name is not known, as they are common with many of the finest pieces of the period, are unsigned.

In the "White Drawing Room" is the Sevres cabinet of the Louis Seize period and more than a century old. From the elaborate character of its design and its finished workmanship, it was probably made for a present to a royal personage. Its porcelain panels are of "shell de Perdre" turquoise. The plaques in the doors have paintings of flowers in baskets suspended by ribbons. The other concave plaques have bouquets of flowers with turquoise mounts. This is only one of a number of these rare cabinets in the private apartments. They are mostly made by the first of the old French "Ebenistes," such as the world-famous Heister, Roentgen and the other giants of the Louis Seize period. The gilded bronze mounts are by the great Gouthiere, whose work, for design, modelling and finish, has never been equalled. His gilding is also good, and so thickly laid on, as to have suffered no injury whatever from age. The same may also be said of the Louis Quatorze cabinet work, which has never been equalled. His gilding is also good, and so thickly laid on, as to have suffered no injury whatever from age. The same may also be said of the Louis Quatorze cabinet work, which has never been equalled. His gilding is also good, and so thickly laid on, as to have suffered no injury whatever from age.

In the "Grand Corridor," whose 526 feet of length is literally crowded with objects of the greatest interest, one notices a white marble urn-bomb statue of H. R. H. Princess Elizabeth of Clarence, daughter of William IV., and consequently her appearance in the throne of England. The statue, which is most gracefully designed to represent a young infant, bears the sculptor's name, W. Scouler, Sc. It was bequeathed to Her Majesty by the Queen Dowager in 1849. Its subject, the little Princess, was born in 1820 and died in 1821. Consider the momentous consequences involved in the death of such a tiny personage, who, had she lived, would have been Queen of England. In the "Grand Corridor" also stands a remarkable casket or reliquary composed of rock crystal and enamel with silver-gilt mounts. The side panels are of finely engraved crystal. The casket, which is possibly German work of the seventeenth century, is surmounted by a silver-bit group of St. George and the Dragon. But its claim to notice arises not so much from its own beauty, which is great, as from the relic which it contains. "A thrill of emotion passes through the hearts of all spectators when they learn that the Bible of that true soldier of heaven, Gen. Gordon, rests within. The book is one of the plainest description, bound in common brown leather, but its much-worn appearance at once shows that it was in constant use. The sacred and much-prized little relic was presented to the Queen after Gordon's sad death.

The last work of art to be noticed in this wonderful corridor is a charming little bust by W. Boehm of the Princess Victoria, now Her Majesty, the Queen, at the age of 10 years. It is of spotted white marble, and a perfect gem.

On the subject of pictures in the grand old castle there is no time to dwell. Suffice it to say that all the best of the old masters are most worthily represented, both in the state and private apartments. For instance, in the "Vandyke Room" are no less than twenty-two of that great master's finest works, including that wonderful specimen "Charles I. on a grey horse," accompanied by his master, the horse, M. de St. Antoine. This masterpiece far exceeds in quality the picture by the same painter of the same subject, which was recently purchased by the Queen for $87,500. Here is also the portrait of Henrietta Maria, mentioned by Pepys in 1665. "I was only pleased at a very fine picture of the Queen's mother, when she was young, by Vandyke; a very good picture and a lovely face." In the Queen's private audience room are also some fine Gainsborough portraits, and let into the woodwork, glass cases containing over two hundred enamel portraits of royal personages, from Henry VIII. and Elizabeth of York, to the Queen and Prince Consort, their children and grand-children. In the "Grand Corridor" are the portraits of the late Queen, the late Queen Victoria, and a beautiful Cornelius Jansens. "The hall given to Charles II. at The Hague, on his departure to England," full of interesting detail and admirably preserved. Also series by various modern artists illustrating notable events during the reign of Charles II. as well as a fine St. Joshua, "Princess Sophia Matilda," and some superlative Hogarths.

It may not be generally known that the name Windsor is from the Saxon Windleshor, winding banks. Windsor as a royal castle is mentioned in Domesday book. King John lay at Windsor during the conference at Runnymede. The Round Tower was built by Edward III., and the terraces were made by Queen Elizabeth. Charles II. added the Star buildings. Grinling Gibbons carved all the beautiful floral festoons in the different rooms.

The Queen herself, world-renowned lover of art, takes an extreme interest in her collection, and no alterations can be made without her sanction. So accurate is her memory that even after an absence of months she at once detects any alteration in the placing of objects, no matter how small.

"It is the Best in the Market."
MR. JOHN S. KAIZER, of Beckerton, Guyborough Co., N. S., writes us: "I write to request you to make me, or some other man in this place, agent for your PRUSSIAN OIL. It is the best for what it claims to cure ever offered here. I have used the two bottles I got from you with much satisfaction. The oil recommends itself. It is the best in the market. I have proved its value and appreciate its healing properties." And, later he says: "It is selling fast and proving a great success here."

The great feature of Chase's Ointment—Alleviates most instantly it touches itching, burning, eczematous skin, relieving the pain—Is a boon to mothers whose children are sufferers—There is nothing uncertain about it or its way of speaking about it:
"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind the ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, but without result. Finally, a week ago I purchased a box of Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked, the eruption has all disappeared and I can confidently say my child is cured. (Signed)

MOST INVALUABLE.
The New Specific Remedy is being Extensively Used at Ottawa's.
OTTAWA, July 29.—The marvelous recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, of this city, from Bright's disease by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills is still fresh in the memories of Ottawa people, and the remedy is being freely recommended both by druggists and private citizens. The similar wonderful cures of Dr. A. G. McCornick, of Richmond, Quebec, and of Mr. Arthur Coley, of Somerset, Manitoba, to say nothing of many others, are generally quoted in favor of the assertion that no remedy of modern times has gone so successfully through a severe trial, and been so efficacious in all cases of kidney trouble. It is also proving itself invaluable in the milder forms of sickness which appear during the summer.

Fatal Result of De-worm.
Sickness generally follows in the path of neglect. Don't be reckless! but prudently take a few doses of Scott's Emulsion immediately following exposure to cold. It will save you many painful days and sleepless nights.
