Premier Performance By New Men's Chorus

A surprise feature of the St. Andrew's dinner at the Charlottetown hotel last night was the premier appearance of a splendid aggregation of singers recently organized and known as The Men's Chorus.

Their singing of "The Rose of Allandale", Barbara Allen Utah, tramping song "Come Along" with original Gaelic words by Archibald MacDonald, arranged for men's chorus by Sir Hugh S. Robertson, gave indication of careful training with deep understanding of the treatment desired, well executed by a balanced ensemble.

The Men's Chorus was organized, trained and directed by Mr. William Keith Rogers, the ground work having been done under the direction of Mrs. K. S. Rogers accompanied in the early summer and taken over by her son on his return from Paris, France at the end of October. Mr. Rogers, who was a student at the Music School at Fontaine Bleau, held in the palace of Louis XV, studied under

Open Verdict Returned In Inquest Last Night

That Sterling Lutes, driver for Town Taxi, came to his death November 20 as a result of a collision between a truck driven by Anthony Comeau and a passenger car which he was driving, was the verdict of the coroner's jury at an inquest held last night at City Hall.

The collision occurred at approximately 2 o'clock on the morning of the 20th and the deceased died in the Prince Edward Island Hospital several hours later. Several witnesses were heard last night as Coroner Dr. L. E. Prowse conducted the hearing with Mr. John Nicholson representing the Attorney General's department.

The first witness was Miss Edna Murphy, Charlottetown, who told of Comeau calling for her late as he said he had had to have something done to the brakes of the truck. They had been together during the evening and were in Victoria Park when it was noticed that it was nearing 2 o'clock in the morning and they decided to start back to the city. They were travelling slowly on the way in.

Did Not See Other Car The witness stated that as they came up Kent towards Pownal street she did not see the other vehicle approaching. She saw a flash and they hit something. In the crash her head hit the truck door and she was dazed for a moment. Her companion, the driver of the truck, ran to the Police Station to report the accident and the police came. The truck stopped after it went through the intersection. She saw no other traffic. She thought the other car was going quite fast by the way it hit the truck.

Questioned by members of the jury she thought the lights were on in the truck and the windows were clean. City Police Constable Lloyd Wakelin testified that he was on duty on the Patrol that night and received a radio call regarding a collision. He went to the scene and found a Dodge car parked at the corner of Kent and Pownal streets and a man lying nearby. His head was in a puddle and the Constable held his head up until the ambulance came.

The car was approximately 18 paces from the site of the collision at the intersection. The truck was stopped about 55 paces from the site, on Kent street. The truck had left the left rear door fender. He could tell by marks on the pavement where the collision had occurred. There were no marks to indicate that either vehicle had had the brakes applied.

Test of Brakes In a brief test of the brakes on the truck he said he had to pump them five times to get them to answer at all. He said that Mr. Comeau was sober and the injured man, Sterling Lutes, also had not been drinking. The truck lights were working and he had the driver take the vehicle in front of the Police Station. There was clear vision through the windshield. He stated the driver, Mr. Comeau had no driving license.

Mr. John Dingwell testified that he had gone to the Town Taxi stand between one and 1.30 that morning to get a car to take him home. Sterling Lutes had driven him and he said the driver did not stop at a stop sign and had driven "quite fast". He had not been drinking, just driving too fast. He always drove the same way. The night was drizzly and foggy with visibility poor.

Donald Shaw, student, said he had been at the dance at the Charlottetown that night and with a group of three other friends drove to the Park. They were returning and following the truck driven by Mr. Comeau about 60 feet behind. He saw a car coming out of Pownal Street to the right and it seemed to be travelling fairly fast. He thought it was a poor sight for driving.

Mr. Maurice Martin, a garage foreman, examined the truck and car. He said there was air in the hydraulic brakes and this would be caused if the fluid got low and more were added. Being forced to "pump" the brakes meant that there was no pressure being applied on the lining. He said the Witness could not estimate the speed of the taxi but would say it was going very fast. Constable Wakelin was recalled to the stand and in reply to questioning said the street in front of St. Joseph's was clear of cars when he investigated. He had walked down Kent street and there was a clear view of the intersection to the right.

Donald Shaw, also recalled, said he saw the truck in the intersection when the car came out. He could not remember any cars being parked

Police Find More Stolen Cigarettes

City police met with further success yesterday in their effort to bring to a conclusion their case in connection with the theft of a large quantity of cigarettes from the establishment of J. C. Montgomery & Co. last Thursday, 8,400 more cigarettes were recovered in a new cache yesterday morning far from the location of the originally recovered loot.

In Queen's County Magistrate's Court before Magistrate Gilbert A. Gaudet yesterday morning, the two men taken in charge by City Police on Sunday in connection with the theft were remanded for a week.

Twelve motorists found guilty of driving at night with insufficient lights were fined $5, and costs.

Stresses Service As Keynote At Rotary

Dr. Giddings was guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of Rotary at the Charlottetown hotel yesterday and dealt with "Vocational Service" which he described "as the philosophy of life for Rotarians" not as a panacea to heart and conscience but a practical every day working project with service as the keynote.

"When Scrooge met the ghost of his former partner, Jacob Marlow," continued the speaker, "he said, 'But you were always a good man of business.' 'Business,' cried the ghost, 'wringing his hands again, 'Mankind was my business, Charity, mercy, forbearance and benevolence were all my business. The dealings of my trade were but a drop of water in the comprehensive ocean of my business.'"

Rotary stresses the need of high ethical standards in business and professions," said Dr. Giddings, "and calls for the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations."

President Gordon Avard conveyed a vote of thanks to the speaker. A letter was read from Mayor J. D. Stewart requesting the appointment of a committee to meet with others on Dec. 3 to discuss the matter of supporting the establishment of a branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses in the city.

Wider latitude for expression of opinion is being given at the present Dominion-Provincial agricultural conference than those of former years. Instead of a series of set speeches and delivery of papers, delegates from the provinces and from farm organizations were invited to cut in at any time either with questions or observations. This invitation has been accepted making for a livelier parley and freer exchange of views.

In the main, delegates from the different provinces confirmed the opinion of Federal economists that farm incomes in 1953 will be down from the current year. Several delegates complained that while prices for farm products were either remaining stationary or declining, cost of farm production was still on the upward trend.

On the other hand, experts generally agreed that demand for farm products would remain firm during the coming year.

Receives Certificate Of Canadian Citizenship

A young native of Poland who has been in this country five years and is now employed at Maritime Central Aircraft Maintenance Ltd. received his certificate of Canadian Citizenship from Judge C. St. Clair Trainor yesterday.

Tadeusz-Leon (Teddy) Pazzdzierny was told by His Honour that he was satisfied and pleased with the new citizen's understanding of the rights and obligations of his new status. He impressed Mr. Pazzdzierny with the great obligation of citizens to defend their rights in a free country and to defend the state. "Your first duty," he said, "is to be a good citizen, that is to obey the law, respect those in high office, carry out such obligations as jury duty in criminal or civil trials and take part in the elections of Parliament, Legislature and Council. By the exercise of the franchise in the light of conscience good government can be assured. If we allow others to usurp the powers of government we are surrendering the privileges of free men. I feel sure that you will never be said of you that you neglected these duties."

"It is the duty of citizens to protect the state from those who would overthrow the government by force not, of course, by exercising the right of citizens to vote a party out of office. You must make known to the authorities any such conspiracy which comes to your knowledge. A great opportunity lies before you to help your country become greater. It is a privilege to deliver to you this Certificate of Citizenship."

Mrs. J. B. Murley who was accompanied by a group of the Canadian Citizenship Committee, spoke briefly congratulating the new citizen and expressing appreciation for his work with other displaced persons as a translator and teacher of English. She said that he had declined the offer of a scholarship because he did not wish to accept anything which might keep another displaced person from coming here.

Mr. C. M. Sinclair, President of the Charlottetown branch of the Canadian Legion, expressed his pride on behalf of the Legion to have in the country of birth had suffered by war and oppression. Mrs. L. L. Noonan for the Catholic Women's League also expressed congratulations and spoke of the friendships which he had already

NEW TRADE UNION Act Regulations New Act regulations under the Trade Act have been announced in a recent issue of the Royal Gazette. They simply specify that no employer is bound to recognize nor bargain collectively with a union unless the Provincial Secretary has a certified copy of the list of officers, the constitution, rules and by-laws.

If the employer is in doubt that the representatives do not cover an active majority he can ask the Provincial Secretary to institute inquiries and, if necessary, require an election to be held. However under the regulations if the Provincial Secretary issues a certificate that such trade union is properly organized it must be recognized by the employer.

In the same issue of the Royal Gazette is a section dealing with regulations under the Plant Disease Eradication Act. These deal with Nematode Control, specifically ring rot and other plant diseases and pests. The regulations apparently are an easing of previous regulations made regarding certain sections of the Province in Queen's and Prince Counties. It is believed that while the sections under review were formerly designated as "closed" areas they are now termed "danger" zones.
