PUBLIC MEETING AT CARDIGAN.

The public meeting called for Friday, 9th inst., at the Hall, Cardigan Bridge, was attended by a large and influential audience. Wm. P. Lewis, Esq., was appointed chairman, and Mr. Alex. F. McLean acted as secretary. The chairman explained the object of the meeting, and expressed the hope that the several subjects to be discussed would be treated in a calm and judicial manner, and that a good hearing would be given the speakers.

Mr. Geo. F. Owen read a telephone message from John McLean, Esq., M. P., explaining that owing to pressing private business, he was unable to attend the meeting; but that he would endeavor to carry out the suggestions made to Mr. Macdonald.

Mr. A. C. Macdonald being invited to address the meeting by the chairman, said that he understood the meeting was called to allow the people to lay before their representatives some local improvements that were required for the port of Cardigan Bridge, and he would be most happy to hear what they had to say. He thought the people of Cardigan had taken the proper course in calling this meeting, and he was sorry that more meetings of the same kind were not held. Unless the people bring their wishes before their representatives, it is difficult for them to know what is wanted.

James E. Macdonald, Esq., M. P. P., said that one of the greatest requirements at Cardigan Bridge was the necessity of having the channel dredged. Some years ago it was no difficulty to take out vessels drawing 14 feet of water; but owing to the filling up of the river, now it was difficult to get over 12 feet at high water. At the Government wharf, where formerly 15 feet of water could be found, now there was not much over 10 feet, excepting at the extra spring tides. He understood that a petition had been forwarded some years ago to the Dominion Government, asking for the services of the dredge; but the request had not been complied with. He thought that Cardigan had strong claims on the Dominion members from King's County, and he hoped they would use every possible effort to have the dredge sent to Cardigan in the spring. He moved the following resolution:

Whereas, There is ample evidence that the navigation of the Cardigan River is being seriously impeded, especially between Owen's Point and Cardigan Bridge, by banks of mud lying on the north side of the River,

And, whereas, A promise was made some years ago that the Dominion dredge would be sent to Cardigan Bridge to remove such obstruction,

Therefore Resolved, That this meeting presses the fulfilment of the aforesaid promise, and earnestly demands that the claim of Cardigan shall no longer be deferred, but that the Dominion dredge will be ordered to this port at an early day in the ensuing summer.

And Further Resolved, That this meeting requests Messrs. Macdonald and McLean, members of the House of Commons at Ottawa, to see that the aforesaid request is granted without delay.

John G. Scrimgeour, Esq., had great pleasure in seconding the resolution. It was time that this much-needed public improvement should be obtained, and the Government should send the dredge to Cardigan. Besides the deepening and straightening of the channel near the Bridge, there were other public wants that the people should ask for. Cardigan was the centre and shipping port for a large section of King's County, and a great many vessels entered its harbor every year. He thought the Collector of Customs should have a higher salary, and that a preventive officer should be appointed. The postmaster was also poorly paid, although he had a great deal of work. There should be a public building erected at Cardigan, the same as they had at Montague, which could be used for post office and custom house. He thought that a branch of the money order office and of the post office savings bank should be opened, so as to give the people the accommodation they had in other places of no more importance than Cardigan. There was also no harbor master nor fishery warden for this locality, and both these officers should be appointed. It was in the interest of the Government and the people that these suggestions should be adopted. When the railway was built, a switch to a deep-water wharf had been spoken of, and he believed it would be of great benefit to the place if such were provided. The people now had to pay extra railway carriage on their exports and imports via Georgetown; and large quantities of coal and limestone would be landed at Cardigan if they could be taken by rail into the interior of the country.

Cyrus Shaw, Esq., M. P. P., supported the resolution and was glad to see the people of Cardigan alive to their public wants. The dredge was also much needed at Grand River, and he thought that it should be sent to both Cardigan and Grand River before it was taken north to Souris or any other place. He hoped the members for King's County would assist Prof. Robertson in getting the Railway Department to provide a warehouse fitted for cold storage at Charlottetown, where the cheese from all the Island factories could be placed until sold. Last season, the June made cheese shrank 4 pounds on each box, because it was not sold until November.

Mr. P. Ching thought the sand point near the Government wharf should be cut off, as that would prevent the channel filling up after it had been dredged.

Mr. Geo. F. Owen thought it was better to ask for what was absolutely required and could be obtained if the Dominion members would work energetically to get it. The deepening of the channel was an absolute necessity that could not be delayed without serious loss to the people of Cardigan and vicinity. He knew that the dredge had been promised to Cardigan when the late Hon. J. C. Pope was Minister of Marine; and it was unfair to dredge every other harbor in King's County and leave Cardigan until the last. There was not much chance of getting a Dominion building at Cardigan, as the Opposition at Ottawa had made a strong protest against building post offices in any but large cities, and the Government had to some extent agreed to that policy. The Money Order office and Savings Bank branch were much needed and should be obtained without much difficulty. He hoped the people would press these public improvements until they were obtained. After some remarks from Donald Stewart, Esq., the motion was then put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

On motion of J. G. Scrimgeour, seconded by J. F. Norton, it was resolved that the members of the House of Commons, for King's County be requested to use their influence with the Government to obtain a fair measure of justice in the way of public improvements for Cardigan, especially those to which reference had been made by the several speakers at this meeting.

Mr. A. C. Macdonald said that the dredge was then at Murray Harbor South where it had been straightening the river at that place. He had received a petition signed by about a thousand names from the southern section of the county, asking that the dredge should be allowed to do some work at Murray River before it left that section. There was also great necessity of having some work done at Grand River, and a small quantity to be performed at Souris. He thought the people of Cardigan should have the river surveyed, where the dredging was required, and send a plan of it to the Minister of Public Works. He would do all he could to have the dredge sent to Cardigan, and thought that the people had claims for improvements. He could hold out no hope of getting a public building; but thought that a branch of the money order office and of the Post Office Savings Bank could be obtained. He would be happy to do what he could to forward the matter. Respecting the Preventive Officer and Harbor Master, asked for, he could not hold out much encouragement, as the Department expected the Collectors in ports of this size to do the work. The first enquiry from the Minister was "what amount of duties are collected?" when a matter of this kind is brought up. Mr. Macdonald then referred to the importance of the present session of the House of Commons, and would like to have an expression of opinion respecting the tariff reform that the Government proposed.

Interesting speeches were then made by Messrs. J. G. Scrimgeour, John Parker, Cyrus Shaw and others, when the following was proposed, viz.,—

Moved by Geo. F. Owen, seconded by John McCormack and resolved:

That in the opinion of this meeting the time has arrived when the protection afforded manufacturers, who have shown their ability to compete with outside competitors, should be reduced to the lowest possible point consistent with the requirements of the revenue.

Mr. John G. Scrimgeour objected to the resolution, as in his opinion a tariff for revenue only should be adopted.

The resolution being put to the meeting was adopted by a large majority.

A vote of thanks was given to Mr. A. C. Macdonald for his attendance at the meeting, which he acknowledged in suitable terms. Respecting the resolution on tariff reform, he approved of its terms and believed that no protection should be specially given to manufacturers who had been fostered after they were able to compete successfully with outside competitors. He also was opposed to giving protection to combines.

The chairman was then given a vote of thanks for his able conduct of the meeting and the audience dispersed.

THE CREMATION OF GARBAGE

(Boston Herald.)

Though the destruction of the waste material in our cities by cremation has hardly yet been undertaken on any extensive scale in this country, its removal in this way has occupied a great deal of attention in Great Britain, and in many places, like Halifax, it has been successfully undertaken. At Halifax the heat is such that it supplies one electric lamp per head to the population in the form of steam power. This is a form of the utilization of garbage which is far from being the best, because it implies the destruction of the waste matter rather than its utilization. A similar method was employed at the Chicago fair for the removal of garbage and other waste matter from the ground, and it was imagined with great success, though it was not utilized in any permanent way. It is claimed that the destruction of this waste material can be so handled in the process of cremation that the chemical results can be made very profitable to those who know how to handle it. One party proposes absolute cremation with the utilization of the heat for electric lighting. Another party proposes the erection of sanitary chemical works, to preserve the valuable material in the city waste and secure its existance in forms that can be used again. In either case the saving is great. In New York city the sum of $93,000 is paid each year for the privelege of picking over the garbage as it is discharged on the deck of the scows, and it is believed that under a better system of treating this material, a much larger sum might be saved. We had hardly yet begun in this country to treat the waste material in our large cities with the care and wisdom it demands. It is capable of being made to give large returns, either in this cremation or through its treatment in chemical works, and at present it is chiefly handled in such a way that it is not only a dead loss to the city authorities, but entails a large expense in its collection and destruction.

The United States Patrons of Industry are state Socialists of an extreme type. In their latest declaration of principles just adopted at Toledo they demand that the Government shall control and issue the currency, become the custodian of the people's savings, own and manage the telegraph and railroad lines and suppress the sale of intoxicating liquors. There are a good many more than the Patrons who favor these ideas. The advance of opinion, for the time at any rate, is towards a state of affairs when the smoothest palaverer will be the biggest man. For, of course, the managers and directors of all these governmental works will be elected, and to be elected they must win the popular favor, which only sometimes goes to the best man who seeks it.

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my head up she should not go. We then began Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first-class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 89 Marion street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

Said She Was Past All Help
