LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS

BEER BROS. for Dress Goods.

POLICE COURT.—This forenoon Thomas Cavanagh was fined $2 or 10 days for drunkenness.

KINKORA TEA.—The tea at Kinkora yesterday was well attended, and all had a good time.

I. O. F.—Special meeting of Court Avondale tonight at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

CALEDONIAN CLUB.—Adjourned meeting this evening at 8 o'clock sharp. Business relating to the Scottish gathering.

THE MEDICAL COUNCIL of P. E. Island met last evening to transact the business for the annual meeting of the society today and appointing examiners for the examination of the several candidates for registration.

THE LADIES AID SOCIETY of the Presbyterian Congregation of Dundas intend holding their usual strawberry and ice cream festival on Thursday, 15th July, commencing at 11 a. m. Should the day prove unfavorable it will take place first fine day. —Mrs. A. Millar.

TRY IT.—Having been favored with a sample of Stewart's cream Vienna bread made at the Eclipse Bakery, we heartily recommend it as a good thing. Careful housekeepers should never miss reading Stewart's advt. every day.

FIRE.—A slight fire in the roof of a house on Dorchester street, near Weymouth, caused the alarm which was sounded about nine o'clock this morning. The fire was caused by a spark from the chimney, and was extinguished before any material damage was done.

FOUND DEAD.—Post Office Inspector King, St. John, was found dead in his bed on Sunday morning. He had retired early on Saturday night, and was dead next morning when a member of his family went to his room. He was 59 years of age and leaves a widow and four children.

MILITIA CHANGES.—It is announced from Ottawa that sweeping changes in the militia service are contemplated, and that several district officers, brigade majors, etc., are to be retired. It is believed in Charlottetown that the recent dismissal of Major Dogherty is the preliminary step to the dismissal of our own brigade officer and the annexing of this military district to New Brunswick.

NOR GOING NOW.—The Mail and Empire says: Mr. Tarte was to have gone to Europe to inspect the harbors of the Old World, and let us know how harbors are built. That was when the Drummond deal was on the point of investigation. The investigation has blown over. Now Mr. Tarte, according to the latest advices, is not going to Europe. So we shall be left to build our harbors in the old-fashioned way.

A SAD CASE.—Fifteen years ago Sarah Bass, wife of a prosperous farmer near Shelbyville, Ind., was taken suddenly and violently insane. Her relatives had her taken to an asylum with the hopes that she would soon be restored, but her case seemed hopeless. A few days ago, says a local exchange, her husband was taken suddenly ill and died. The same day a letter was received from Mrs. Bass who wrote to her husband and children, saying that she had been pronounced cured and would return home immediately. Not until she arrived home and was surrounded by her three children, a son and two daughters, was the news of her husband's death imparted. The blow was more than the unfortunate woman could endure, and she again became unmanageable, and will have to be returned to the asylum.

BEER BROS

THE ETHEL TUCKER COMPANY.

The return of the favorite emotional actress Miss Ethel Tucker, supported by Mr. H. P. Meldon and an excellent company, attracted a fashionable audience to the Opera House last evening. The opening bill was the popular comedy-drama "Queena" with Miss Tucker in the title role, and it was presented in a manner which left nothing to be desired. Miss Tucker's rendering of the character of "Queena" was most effective, and the "mad scene" in the third act was especially good. Mr. Meldon was natural and manly as Lord Walter Huntington, and Mr. Richards gave a clever impersonation of John Henry Wilkins. Miss Belle Vivian as Florence Nightingale Fletcher was most pleasing, and her splendid comedy work was roundly applauded. The stage settings were in keeping with the performance, that showing the American Legation at Paris being especially striking. The costumes worn by Miss Tucker and the other ladies in the cast were exceedingly handsome. Between the acts songs and dances were given by Baby Vavene, a clever child actress who also had an interesting part in the play, and Miss Vivian sang several "coon" songs splendidly. The motion pictures were something new here and were thoroughly enjoyed. They must be seen to be appreciated. Tonight the company will produce that very strong melo-drama "A Legal Wrong," and a full house may be expected. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, when the admission to every part of the house will be only ten cents. Queena will be repeated on Wednesday by special request.
