"Covers Prince Edward Island Like The Dew"

Local Delegate Feels Satisfied

By JIM CULLEN
Sports Editor

Charlie Ryan returned to Charlottetown last night, from Montreal where he attended a three day baseball conference as a Prince Edward Island delegate to the National Federation of Amateur Baseball. In a telephone conversation with Mr. Ryan last night he told us he came away from the Montreal meeting with a very energetic feeling towards his duties in the coming baseball season on the Island.

Charlie has been elected as the P.E.I. delegate to the National Federation of Amateur Baseball which is a newly formed organization that will attempt to give Canadian baseball a type of uniformity similar to the type which the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association provides for the amateur hockey teams in this Dominion.

Charlie said: "Our organization doesn't wish to interfere with the policies or practices of any of the provincial governing baseball bodies which have already been established, but we will attempt to create a form of unity between the programs in the respective provinces."

Mr. Ryan informed us that the NFAB has obtained a grant of $9,000 for a clinic that will be conducted in Montreal on June 2-6. This clinic will serve similar purposes as the hockey "Institutes" which have been conducted across this country recently.

There will be three persons from this province selected to attend this clinic and the individuals that are chosen to attend his clinic will be over 21 years of age and be potential coaches for the local ball system. The idea being that these persons will be instructed by professional men and when they return to their respective communities they will be expected to pass on their knowledge to the members of the local baseball teams.

The clinic will be staged in Montreal this season, but in future years the clinic will be staged in various centres across the Dominion.

JUNIOR TOURNEY PLANNED

Charlie told us: "Marcell Raine, president of the NFAB, has laid plans for a National junior baseball tournament to be held in Winnipeg this season and the association is hopeful to have a representative from each province at the tourney. There is a grant available to help finance this venture, but the figures were not available for our meeting."

Charlie conveyed the idea to this writer that as a director for this newly formed organization he will be working very close with the commissioners of baseball, the advisory council and the provincial director of physical education, to strive to get this organization off on the right foot.

David M. Boswell, provincial director of physical education and alcoholic studies selected Mr. Ryan to represent this province at the Montreal meeting and Charlie was elected as a deligate while attending the conference.

Hershey Bears Top Rochester

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Goalie Claude Dufour, despite a "frozen" left hand, turned in a remarkable performance here Saturday night to backstop Hershey Bears to a 5-2 decision over Rochester Americans in the third game of the American Hockey League Calder Cup final playoff.

The win was Hershey's first against the Americans, who took the opening two matches on their home ice.

Dufour, who fended off 38 shots, received an injection of novocaine in his left hand just prior to the contest. He injured it Friday night in the second period at Rochester.

Three of Hershey's tallies came with a Rochester skater in the penalty box, twice with a pair sitting it out. Referee Frank Udvari handed out a total of 61 minutes in penalties in the rough-house game which took three hours and 45 minutes to play.

LEAD BY TWO GOALS

The Bears jumped into a 2-0 lead by 4:54 of the second period, when Mike Nykoluk and Pete Conacher each talled with two Rochester skaters sitting out a minor infraction.

Ed Litzenberger's 50 - foot screen shot midway in the second period shaved Hershey's lead to a goal before the two clubs traded another pair of goals. Mike Harvey put the Bears up 3-1, but Red Armstrong cut it to a single goal again at 15:44.

Hershey, capitalizing on Rochester errors in the closing 20 minutes, put the game away on back-to-back tallies by Chuck Hamilton and Bruce Cline within a three-minute span.

The fourth game of the best-of-seven series will be played here Wednesday and the fifth in Rochester Friday.

Young Golf Professional Explains Hazards Of Game

By SID MOODY
Associated Press Writer

David Francis Marr, Jr., is a jet-age Gypsy of the country club set.

He dwells around country clubs, plays around country clubs and earns his daily bread —lots of it—around country clubs.

He is a professional tournament golfer.

To him the office is an endless ribbon of green fairways stretching from coast to coast and across oceans. How well he eats depends on how well he aims the 8,400 or so strokes he shoots each year as he makes his way along those well-trimmed alleys bordered with palms in the south, pines in the north and everywhere people watching him work at one of the most disciplining frustrating, insecure pastimes man has inflicted on himself.

"It's the only game you lose more than you win," says Marr who took $42,000 in purses last year but hasn't won a tournament in three years. "It's humbling."

The average fan seeing a golfer tanned as a catchers mitt smash a drive far down the course with the air-sucking rush of an artillery shell is apt to shake his head in envy, poke his wife and say: "And they call that work."

SALARY UNCERTAIN

But that fan will be back in the office Monday morning knowing his pay cheque will be there Friday even if he forgets to say "hi" to the boss. The pro can lose thousands of dollars if a putt misses by a grass blade. A drive out of bounds can mean goodbye to the weeks' new fur coat or private school for junior. At the National Open several years ago a woman spectator turned to Marrs wife, Susan, and said: "Is that your husband? He's so cute."

"I wish he'd stop being cute and sink a few putts," she replied.

Win or lose, golf is a game Marr loves. But it is also his livelihood. When the putts stop dropping and the drives don't rocket far and straight, there's the thought: "Is it going? Have I lost it?

"You stand on that first tee of the winter tour and you're opening a brand new store and who's to say you're not going to start shooting 80s and you think of Ken Venturi and Bob Goalby (who had prolonged slumps) and talk about being scared. In this business its only a step from who's who to who's that."

And tournament golf is business, a booming one.

Marr and his spike-shoed fellow wanderers are playing for $3,500,000 in purses this year, seven times the 1950 total. The Professional Golf Association's championship this summer is expected to have golf's first $1,000,000 gate considering program advertising, hot dog sales, admissions and TV income—a handsome $200,000 from the National Broadcasting Company. Seven years ago the PGA sold the TV rights for exactly nothing.

Marr, golf's 11th money man over-all in 1964, won almost as much as Ben Hogan did in three years when he was top earner just before the Second World War. Marr also made about $20,000 in endorsement income from the companies whose clubs and balls he uses, whose shirts and slacks he wears and whose shoes he wears. When he needs a new putter or his white brogans become irredeemably grass stained, he just whistles and a replacement is on the way. The shirt maker took him to Acapulco last year for 10 days for advertising photographs (this year it's Hawaii) and he's gone to Europe twice, expenses paid, to film a TV golf show.

"You try to build up your endorsements as money in the bank,' Marr said. "That's our insurance policy," said Susan.

PLAYERS CHANGED

If the game has changed, so have the players. Golf, like most sports, has its own "new breed" of athletes. They are young, have been to college (Marr attended Rice and the University of Houston), stay out of water holes and night clubs, play golf 30 hours a week, practise 10 more and think about it even longer while staring at TV or the wall back in their motel room.

"You ask these young guys how the weather is and they'll tell you they bogeyed the 10th and hooked a beauty around the trees on the 14th," says old timer Jimmy Demaret who characterized the fun - filled days of yore when he set a bucket of golf balls ricocheting across the floor just as singer-golfer Don Cherry came onstage to perform his nightclub act.

Marr, no puritan, can distinguish a screwdriver (liquid) from a driver (wood) but as often as not he comes back from the course, calls up room service for dinner, "slips the mind into neutral" and watches TV.

But Marr is also a highly articulate man of 31 who can talk about narcissus complexes with a straight face and is trying to find time to read The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich.

When he's home in New Rochelle, N.Y., Marr is a theatregoer.

CIRCUIT GREW

That's the new breed. The old breed dates back to the 20s when the winter tour first took shape. In those days the pros themselves often organized what tournaments there were. They would approach a publicity - minded winter resort or hotel and offer to play there, often putting up their own money for the purse. As winter fun in the sun grew, more pros, idled because their duffer pupils were shovelling snow, came south and the Tour, like Topsy, just grew. This year the PGA has 41 tournaments, not including the Open and such privately sponsored tournaments as the Bing Crosby and Bob Hope.

Tournaments like the Thunderbird and the Buick Open are run by auto companies for promotion, the Masters by wealthy men who love golf, the Doral by real estate tycoon Alfred Kaskel who wants the world to know that he owns a hotel on Miami Beach called—surprise—the Doral.

Canadian pros on the PGA tour include Stan Leonard of Vancouver, George Knudson of Toronto and Al Johnston of Montreal.

Red Sox Defeat Baltimore Squad

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frank Malzone and Lee Thomas each slammed four hits and Dick Radatz limited Baltimore Orioles to one hit in six innings of relief work as Boston Red Sox belted the Orioles 7-5 in 12 innings Saturday.

Malzone and Thomas put their fourth hits together in a three-run 12th that got the job done for the Red Sox, Malzone getting things started with a lead-off double and Thomas eventually finishing off the rally with a three-run homer into the right field bleachers.

In other American League baseball action, Dean Chance and Los Angeles Angels defeated New York Yankees 6-3, Cleveland Indians downed Kansas City Athletics 4-1, Detroit Tigers stopped Minnesota Twins 7-4 and Chicago White Sox whipped Washington Senators 6-2.

In the National League, Frank Robinson hit two homers and Vada Pinson one as Cincinnati Reds beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-3, Chicago Cubs edged Milwaukee Braves 3-1 and New York Mets defeated San Francisco Giants 7-6.

Houston Astros blanked Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0 behind Dick Farrell's seven-hit pitching and home runs by Bob Aspromonte and Jim Wynn in a National League night game.

In another National League night game, first-place Los Angeles Dodgers erupted for six runs in the sixth inning to beat Phiadelphia Phillies 9-3. The victory was the Dodgers' fourth in a row.

CHANCE GETS HELP

Chance, who pitched four shutout against the Yankee last season, needed help this time and received ample batting support from a trio of Angel rookies — Jose Cardinal, Paul Schall and Costen Shockley. They chipped in with a total of six hits.

Fred Whitfield singled in the tie-breaking run in a three-run eighth-inning uprising that won it for the Indians. Ralph Terry got his second victory.

Hawks Blast Canadiens To Square Final Series

By JERRY GLADMAN

CHICAGO (CP)—Two third-period goals by explosive Bobby Hull Sunday night gave Chicago Black Hawks a 5-1 triumph over Montreal Canadiens and enabled the Hawks to tie their best-of-seven Stanley Cup series at two games apiece.

The win, before a crowd of more than 20,000, sends the clubs back to Montreal for a fifth game Tuesday night. The sixth match will be played here Thursday.

Red Hay, Fred Stanfield and Doug Jarrett accounted for the other Chicago goals.

Big Jean Beliveau scored the Canadiens' lone tally.

The three-goal outburst, within the last five minutes of the game, spoiled a standout defensive performance by Canadiens, especially when they were a man short.

PICKED UP NO 9 AND 10

The 27-year-old Hull, who had threatened to break lose from the opening whistle, picked up his 9th and 10th goals of the playoffs and his only two in this series.

The contest was close throughout and could have gone either way until hay fired the insurance marker at 15:20 of the final frame. Hull, who had opened the period with his first of the night, counted again at 18:48 and was followed one minute and nine seconds later by Jarrett's tally.

GLENN HALL

The goals were charged against Charlie Hodge, as a last - minute replacement for Gump Worsley, who injured his thigh in the pre-game warmup. Hodge stopped 23 shots, but could have been faulted on at least three of the goals.

Veteran goalie Glenn Hall proved the difference for the Hawks through the first two periods as he came up with several big saves, including hard shots from close in by Yvan Cournoyer and John Ferguson.

Hall stopped 25 shots.

Bill Goldsworthy led the Flyers attack with both goals.

Goldsworthy got the first goal of the game at 8:08 of the second period then followed through with another at 18:27 of the same period.

Both of his goals came while Lachine was shorthanded

Maroons only goal came off the stick of Richard Rose at 1:30 of the final period while the Flyers were a man short.

Maroons tried for the equalizer in the third period when all three minor penalties were given to Niagara Falls.

However, Bernard Parent in the Niagara Falls net was able to turn the Maroons back.

Warren Spahn Topples Giants

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Warren Spahn pitched hitless ball for 5 2-3 innings, but had to sweat out a San Francisco rally in the ninth before escaping with a 4-3 victory over the Giants and a split of the New York Mets National League doubleheader Sunday.

The Giants won the opener 5-0 behind Juan Marichal's five-hit pitching.

St. Louis at Cincinnati and Milwaukee at Chicago in the National League were postponed by rain. American League postponements were Boston at Baltimore; Minnesota at Detroit; Chicago at Washington; Kansas City at Cleveland.

Spahn held the Giants hitless until Orlando Cepeda singled with two out in the sixth. The 44-year-old lert-hander still had a shutout until the Giants scored twice in the eighth on a single by Jack Hiatt, Cap Peterson's double and Harvey Kuenn's single.

Mel Stottlemyre pitched a three-hitter and Mickey Mantle smashed a home run, giving New York Yankees a 1-0 victory and a sweep of their doubleheader with Los Angeles Angels.

YANKS WON FIRST

The Yankees won the first game 3-2 on Elston Howard's run-scoring double in the sixth inning and Pedro Ramos' clutch relief pitching. The victories snapped a four-game Yankee losing streak and were the first for the American League champions at home.

Stottlemyre, 2-1, allowed only doubles by Bob Rodgers in the fourth inning and Julio Gotay in the seventh and a single by Willie Smith in the ninth. He walked three and struck out seven.

The Yankees won the opener on Mantle's infield single, leading off the sixth, and Howard's double. Roger Maris and Tony Kubek homered for the Yankees, both off starter Marcelino Lopez, while Joe Adcock smashed a two-run Los Angeles homer in the first.

In Los Angeles Dick Stuart drove in four runs with a double and home run as Philadelphia Phillies conquered Don Drysdale for the ninth straight time and snapped Los Angeles Dodgers' four-game winning streak in a 6-4 National League victory.

WON FIRST GAME

Ray Herbert won his first National League game but needed ninth - inning relief help from Jack Baldschun after the Dodgers rapped him for 15 hits in the game. Baldschun came on with two on and two out and got Wes Parker on a foul pop.

Drysdale, 2-2, was shelled for eight hits and six runs in five innings.

Rookie Joe Morgan drove in the winning run with a bases-loaded single in the 11th inning as Houston Astros edged Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 in a National League game Sunday, in the first test of the tinted skylights at the $31,600,000 domed stadium.

There was no indication during the game that the glare problem previously plagning outfielders in the park still existed, now that the 5,496 skylights had been painted.

The Astros pushed across the winning run in the 11th after Roy Face took over as the Pirate pitcher.
