

University, Who Needs It?

University, who needs it? You do, everyone does.

If it is nothing else but an experience, it has accomplished a great deal. Besides the obvious benefits of a university degree in pursuing a career, there are more subtle benefits that are equally important. University life gives a person a great opportunity to interact with all types of people and this is an enjoyable learning experience. If you take the time and the little trouble it takes to get involved in your university, you can learn politics and the workings of a government through the Student Union or Senate; theatre, music, and entertainment in the various social committees, and discipline and mental exercising of the mind with the wide variety of courses offered.

Athletics can help whip one into shape, get into team spirit and competition and quite often provide a means of visiting other universities.

While you do all this you can really have a good time.

University parties are lots of fun too, don't forget.

UPEI can offer all this to you and I'd like to get more specific and say that the UPEI campus newspaper, the SUN, can offer all these things as well.

If you are interested in a career in journalism, reporting, or photography, the SUN is the place for you. If you like to write or help inform the campus (informing yourself at the same time), join the SUN staff. If you have radical tendencies, let them loose in the newspaper, or if you just have something to say, the newspaper is your vehicle of expression. Experience is not a necessity, just a willingness to learn.

In closing, I'd like to say think about it, think long and hard and then send in your university application and see you on the SUN!
