Festive Week Plans Rapidly Taking Shape

Plans for this year's Festive Week are rapidly rounding into shape, it was reported last evening. With three nights harness racing and the performace by the McNutty Family sponsored by the B. I. S., and other features to be added, it is expected that when the programme is finalized and released at a meeting of the Festive Week Committee to be held Friday evening at City Hall, it will be one packed with plenty of spectacle and good entertainment as well as lots of recreation and sport for those participating.

As in past years the committee in charge is attempting to promote community interest, brighten up the City and provide wholesome entertainment for a few days for young and old. A lot of effort will be put into the week by those promoting it. All that will be needed to make it successful will be general participation by the public.

Attended Conference Of School Inspectors

Mr. Gordon Rice, Supervisor of School Unit 1, returned this week from Edmonton, Alta., where he attended a conference of Canadian school superintendents and inspectors.

Held on the workshop plan, the conference took place in the University of Alberta where the delegates lived, ate and held their deliberations. It started May 19 and continued to June 5 under the C. E. A. Kellogg Project in education.

Mr. Rice was the only representative from this Province among the 70 people attending. This number included consultants and special speakers. It was a unique conference in that it was the first time such a one had been attempted on a Canadian scale with all the Provinces represented. Under present plans the workshops will be conducted each year for a period of five years.

Sydney Man Held In Quebec Killing

MONTREAL, (CP)—A coroner's jury Wednesday found Alexander McEachern, 23, of Sydney, N. S., criminally responsible for the death of Romeo Bradette, 25, of Jonquiere, Que., who died Tuesday following a single blow to the face.

Dr. Rosario Fontaine, provincial medico-legal expert, testified Bradette died of a skull fracture, probably suffered when his head hit the sidewalk in front of a downtown restaurant, after allegedly being hit by McEachern.

Witnesses testified they saw McEachern attack Bradette without provocation and "hit him in the mouth."

A crown prosecutor said McEachern will be arraigned today on a manslaughter charge.

John L. Kask To Head Fisheries Research Board

WASHINGTON, (CP)—John L. Kask, 47-year-old Canadian-born fisheries scientist, has resigned from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service to become permanent chairman of Canada's Fisheries Research Board.

Kask, a native of Red River, Alta., and a veteran of more than 26 years in the field of fisheries research and management, confirmed his new appointment Wednesday. He will leave for Ottawa July 7.

He is a graduate of the University of British Columbia and holds a masters degree from the Washington School of Fisheries, Seattle. On his appointment as assistant director of the U. S. fish and wildlife service last year, he was described as having a breadth of experience equalled only by a few in the entire fisheries field.

Kask is familiar with Canadian fisheries practices and research. He served on the scientific staff of the international halibut fisheries commission from 1929 to 1937 as research scientist and from 1938 to 1943 was assistant director of another Canadian - American joint body, the international sockeye salmon fisheries commission.

Later he became curator of aquatic biology at the California Academy of Sciences and in 1948 was selected to be chief biologist of the fisheries division of the food and agricultural organization of the United Nations.

His first post with the fish and wildlife service was assistant director of Pacific oceanic fishery investigations with headquarters in Honolulu. He was transferred to Washington as chief of the office of foreign activities shortly after and was named assistant director.

During the war he served as a captain and then as a major in the U.S. Army and for almost two years was with the natural resources section of the Allied forces during the early days of the Japanese occupation.

P. E. I. Art Society Monthly Meeting

Members of the Prince Edward Island Art Society met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Norah Longworth. The occasion was a special meeting to hear a detailed report from President Vic Runtz, the Society's delegate to the 1953 Maritime Art Association convention held recently at Acadia University, Wolfville, an account of which appeared earlier in this paper. Miss Frances Johnston, who also attended, as representative of the P.E.I. Arts and Crafts Guild, was a guest.

The passing of an eminent Island artist in the person of the late Mary Allison Doull was recorded with regret.

Letters of thanks from Prince of Wales College concerning the Society's art prize were read. The continuing progress of renovation work by the City and Province at the Harris Gallery was noted with satisfaction.

The annual exhibition of paintings by Island artists usually held each Spring is this year postponed to the Fall season. A notable opening for the exhibition in the bright new surroundings is anticipated.

Guests were delighted to see Miss Longworth's fine collection of dolls from many parts of the world, all in authetic native costume. The meeting came to a close with refreshments served by the hostess.

by its offer to help supervise prisoner repatriation but might have to reconsider its position if South Korean troops broke away from the UN command.

In Stockholm, the foreign office said Sweden was not backing away from the obligations it assumed, believing "factual conditions will be created for the neutral commissions to fulfill their tasks."

Expect Rhee To Back Down

How far 78-year-old South Korean President Syngman Rhee would carry his anti-truce campaign was the vital question. Rhee met Wednesday night with Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman-designate of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff. As the top U. S. military spokesman, Radford was the logical man to speak authoritatively to Rhee.

In Tokyo, top UN command sources said they were looking on Rhee as a "calculated risk."

One source said "the UNC believes Rhee will drive the buggy to the edge of the cliff but never whip the horses a step further."

Meeting Of Cerebral Palsy Association

The monthly meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Association took place on Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A. Dr. A. A. MacVicar was guest speaker, and took for his topic "Mental Deficiency". He later discussed with members various problems of training and adopting the mentally deficient aad cerebral palsied child.

Dr. MacVicar outlined various types of mental deficiency with approximate mental age limit of each type and stated that the mentally deficient is the most difficult of all handicapped children to accept.

The speaker pointed out that parents and teachers very often make the mistake of pushing mentally dificient children beyond their mental capacity. He illustrated several cases which showed that when allowed to progress at their own rate, the child showed remarkable improvement.

Mrs. Stewart Pierce, who presided at the meeting, thanked Dr. MacVicar for the keen interest he was showing in the problem, and assured him that his advice would prove most useful in helping members to help themselves as well as the children.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held on July 18 at Tea Hill shore. It was felt that this would afford a means of a better understanding of each others type of handicap. 40 per cent of the cerebral palsied children are also mentally deficient.

The advisability of the Cerebral Palsy Parents Association and Parents Council For Retarded Children uniting was discussed, but a decision was not reached, at this meeting.

Eisenhower Makes Policy Speech As He Starts Tour

MINNEAPOLIS, (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday all the free nations of the world must stand together in "total defence" against communism. He declared the United States, even though the strongest nation on earth, "cannot make our own decisions, fight and stand as only we ourselves may choose."

"There is no such thing as partial unity. That is a contradiction in terms," Eisenhower said in a speech prepared for the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Defends Air Force Plans

The president also took occasion to defend his controversial cut in the Truman administration's air force budget, declaring his program will mean "fewer planes in theory, more planes in fact—more swiftly and less expensively."

In pointed words, Eisenhower declared that the insistence of his critics on "magic numbers"—an apparent reference to those insisting on a 143-wing air force—is "not reasonable."

Elaborates On Views

The president named no names in today's speech, his first on a five-state tour that will keep him away from Washington until Sunday night, but he elaborated some of the views he expressed after Senator Robert A. Taft's recent speech proposing that the U. S. "forget the United Nations" if current armistice talks in Korea fail to stop the fighting.

Taft later said he didn't mean the U. S. should "go it alone" but rather should form an alliance with Britain and other countries willing to fight communism in Asia actively.

Stresses Unity

Outlining what he called "our whole concept" of the conduct of world affairs, Eisenhower hammered on the theme that unity with allies of the free world is necessary the globe over.

He said:

"Total struggle—let us never forget it—calls for a total defence. As there is no weapon too small—no arena too remote—to be ignored, so there is no free nation too humble to be forgotten. All of us have learned—first from the onslaught of Nazi aggression, then from Communist aggression—that all free nations must stand together, or they shall fall separately."

And this "essential, indispensable unity," he declared, "means compromise."

The essence of the democratic process is compromise "within a clearly defined, clearly understood framework of principle," the president said.

Eisenhower set out this concept of indispensable unity as his reply to those who lean to what he called "The fortress theory" of defence.

Local Commissionaires Awarded Service Badges

Efficiency badges for five years meritorious service were presented to three local members of the Corps of Commissionaires by Major General W. B. Anderson, C.M.G., D.S.O., commandant of the New Brunswick and P. E. I. Division of the Corps.

Awarded the badges in a brief ceremony at the D.V.A. offices yesterday were Commissionaires Rex Kielly, Robert Dalziell and Percy Gregory.

General Anderson also inspected the Commissionaires on duty at H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte, Experimental Farm, Department of Transport, Maritime Central Aircraft Maintenance, D.V.A., Prince of Wales College and the Provincial Building. He said last night he was very pleased with the smart appearance and soldierly bearing of the men and he was happy to note they were on their toes and prepared with a keen salute. He said there are now 23 Commissionaires in this city and he was paying his first visit to them as commandant.

Gen. Anderson was in the Permanent Army all his adult life from the time of leaving Royal Military College until his retirement when he took up residence in New Brunswick. He was overseas in the First World War as A.Q.M.G. in charge of supplies for Canadian troops and after the war was on the Staff at Halifax Headquarters of Military District 6.

He is thoroughly in accord with the principle of the Corps as it is a splendid organization for providing work for veterans regardless of age, in fact older men are generally preferred. The work obtained for them ranges from traffic control to acting as special constables. At present there are over 250 veterans in the Division he commands and oddly enough on strength are 10 veteran of the South African campaign. At the same time he paid tribute to the great work on a purely voluntary basis by many who wish to aid the Corps. Among them he cited the example of Lieut. Col. F. B. Conrad who is the Deputy Commandant for this Province and who accompanied the general on his inspection yesterday. Also with them was the Division Adjutant Major W. A. Schofield of Lancaster, N. B.
