MYSTERY AND CRIME.

[From the New York Herald.]

A great metropolis must necessarily offer from time to time extraordinary cases of mystery and crime. New York is no exception to the general rule. On the contrary, its position as a central point of transit from Europe to every part of America, and the Islands of the Pacific, and to China and Japan and other Asiatic countries makes it the focus of all the wickedness of the world. Our own dangerous classes may at any time receive accessions from the cracksmen of London and the thugs of India. The daily arrival and departure of thousands of strangers renders the vigilance of the most efficient police comparatively useless. It is impossible for the police to "spot" every suspicious character who seeks in New York a fresh field of operations. A full record of the larcenies and burglaries and murders of the past six months in this city would be almost incredible. A long list of unexplainable disappearances during that period might be made out from the daily papers. The daylight robberies in Wall street alone would furnish a thrilling chapter in the history of crime. Hotels and fashionable boarding houses, if their inner life were exposed, would reveal pictures of iniquity no less startling than the most disgusting scenes of which crowded tenement houses are sometimes the theatre. Many a "skeleton in the house" might be discovered in recesses of the brown stone from mansions occupied by the families belonging preeminently to our "comfortable classes."

The sudden death of Mr. Spicer, of Eleventh Street, is still a mystery as profound and apparently as insoluble as that of the Burdell murder in Bond Street. The strange and unsatisfactory verdict of the Coroner's inquest in the Spicer case exonerated the druggist and the servant sent for the seidlitz powder, and perhaps strained a point to exonerate Mr. Spicer himself from the suspicion that he had committed suicide. But if there were a murder in the case the coroner's inquest failed to discover it, or at least to disclose it. The responsibilities of a coroner's jury are limited; but it really seems that in the Spicer case the jury confined itself so strictly within its legal limitations as to have left the public mind in a painful state of uncertainty respecting it. The family of the deceased should demand a full and searching investigation, if it be only to relieve certain of its members from the cloud of suspicion which now, justly or unjustly, rests upon them.

We might easily multiply instances of unravelled mystery afforded by the experience of the past few days in New York. But it will suffice to refer to only two other cases—the assault upon Mr. Edward Seaman, a merchant, who resides in West Twenty-seventh street, and who was found insensible at about one o'clock the other morning at the corner of Sixth avenue and Twenty-fifth street, having been attacked and severely beaten by several unknown rowdies, without apparent motive; and the probable murder of Mr. Charles Ellet, another merchant, who left after dinner on last Friday the hotel on Broadway where he boarded, having mentioned that he was going up town to receive a sum of four thousand dollars, and whose body was found on Saturday floating in the East river, bearing marks of robbery and violence. These two recent instances must be added to many which show that crime is fearfully on the increse in our midst, whether this lamentable fact be due to the defective education of the youth, who, as they grow up, swell our own vicious and dangerous classes, or to an unusual influx of 'ticket-of-leave men,' escaped convicts and professional villians from Great Britain and the European continent.

SINGULAR PRESENTIMENT OF DEATH.—Leonard Mailman, one of the crew of the schooner Vivace, of Gloucester, as we learn from the Cape Ann Advertiser, died very suddenly on Aug. 6th, while the vessel was at George's Banks He had been out of health for some time, and on Wednesday had an attack of bleeding of the lungs, from which he recovered and appeared as well as usual. On Thursday he had another attack ofbleeding, and while attempting to get into his berth, fell back into the arms of one of his shipmates and expired immediately. Previous to his making the trip, he had strong presentiments that he never should return alive. This he communicated to several of his friends, who endeavoured to laugh the matter off and get it off his mind; but it was of no avail. So strongly impressed was he of his approaching dissolution, that just before leaving for George's, he wrote a letter to his brother's wife, with imperative orders that it should not be opened until she saw him again. He was brought back a corpse, and on opening the letter it was found to contain full directions in reference to the disposal of his effects and other matters connected therewith.

At a certain college, the senior class was under examination for degrees. The professor of natural philosophy was badgering in optics, and the point under illustration was that, strictly and scientifically speaking, we see no objects, but their images depicted on the retina. In order to make the matter plainer, the professor asked the wag of the class:

'Mr. Jackson, did you ever actually see your father?'

'No, sir,' was the prompt reply.

'Please to explain why you never saw your father.'

'Because,' said Mr. Jackson, very gravely, 'he died before I was born, sir!'

The affection sometimes manifested by children for animals generally repugnant to human beings is strikingly illustrated in the case of a little girl who resides in Troy. She has been frequently observed, after having obtained a piece of bread, to sit down a few feet from a large rat-hole under a neighbouring stoop, and, holding out a piece of the food, call, 'Here, yatty, yatty.' A large rat invariably creeps out at her call, and, without hesitation or fear, feeds from her hand. The affection existing between the animal and child has been frequently witnessed by the neighbours, who bear testimony to the truth of the strange circumstance.

A funny love story was related the other day to one of the police justices of Chicago. Miss Polly Chester complained that her neighbour over the way, a Mr. C. M. Goodale, had annoyed her beyond all endurance. They had once, she said, been intimate, but she had mittened him. He had taken the mean revenge of teaching half a dozen parrots to screech out in chorus, 'Homely Polly, homely Polly, Polly, lives across the street.' Everybody who passed the house looked up at her windows, and she was not disposed to endure it any longer. The sympathizing justice fined the brute twenty dollars and confiscated the parrots.

A New York editor tells this story of a wedding in that State:—'When all was arranged, and the minister called upon any one who objected to the marriage to 'speak now,' there came from the corner a husky note of protest. Of course, all eyes, astonished, turned in that direction, when a lean, hungry looking man, six feet high, emerged from the crowd, holding his handkerchief over his face, and blubbering. 'Why do you object?' asked the person. Case'-case, sir, I—I want'er for myself, I do.'

When Pipe's wife kicked him out of bed, he said, "Look here, now, you'd better not do that again; if you do, it will cause a coldness in the family."

An exchange tells of a man who stopped his paper on Saturday and died next day.

ALL CURES MADE EASY
BY
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

Bad Legs, Ulcerous Sores, Bad Breasts.

No description of wound, sore or ulcer can resist the healing properties of this excellent Ointment. The worst case readily assume a healthy appearance whenever this medical agent is applied; sound flesh springs up from the bottom o the wound, inflammation of the surrounding skin is arrested and a complete and permanent cure quickly follow the use of the ointment.

Piles, Fistulas, and Internal Inflammation

These disressing and weakening diseases may with certainty be cured by the sufferers themselves, if they will use Holloway's intment, and closely attend to the printed instructions. It should be well rubbed upon the neighboring parts, when all obnoxious matter will be removed. A poultice of bread and water may sometimes be applied at bed time with advantage; the most scrupulous cleanliness must be observed. If those who read this paragraph will bring it under the notice of such of their acquaintances whom it may oncern, they will render a service that will never be forgotten, as a cure is certain.

Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia.

Nothing has the power of reducing inflammationand subduing pain in these complaints in the same degree as Holloway's cooling Ointment and purifying Pills. When used simultaneously they drive all inflammation and depravities from the system, subdue and remove all enlargement of the joints, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and uncontracted A cure may always beeffected, even under the worst circumstance, if the use of these medicines be perseverent p

Eruptions, Scald Head, Ringworm, and other Skin Diseases.

After fomentation with warm water, the utmost relief and speediest cure can be readily obtained in all complaints affecting the skin and joints, y the simultaneous use of the Ointment and Pills, But it must be remembered that nearly all skin diseases indicate the depravity of the blood and derangement of the liver and stomach consequently in many cases, time is required to purify the blood, which will be effected by a judicious use of the Pills. The general health will readily be improved, although the eruption may be driven out more freely than before, and which should be promoted; perseverance is necessary.

On the appearance of any of these maladies the Ointment should be well rubbed at least three times a day upon the neck and upper part of the chest, so as to penetrate to the glands, as salt is forced into meat: this course will at once remove inflammation and ulceration. The worst cases will yield to this treatment by following the printed directions.

Scrofula or King's Evil and Swelling of the Glands.

This class of cases may be cured by Holloway's purifying Pills and Ointment, as their double action of purifying the blood and strengthening the system renders them more affable than any other remedy for all complaints of a scrofulo nature. As the blood is impure, liver, stomach and bowels being much deranged, require purifying medicine to bring about a cure.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:—

Bad Legs	Chilblains	Fistulas	Skin-diseases
Bad Breasts	Chiego-foot	Gout	Sore-nipples
Burns	Chapped Hands	Glandular	Sore-throats
Bunions	Corns (Softs)	swellings	Scurvy
Bites of Moschetoes a	Cancers	Lumbago	Sore-heds
Contracted and	Piles	Tumors
Sand-flies	Stiff Joints	Rheumatism	Ulcers
Coco-bay	Elephantiasis	Scalds Yaws	Wounds
