

Sees No Justification For Newsprint Price Increase

QUEBEC (CP)—Emile Castonguay, president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, said in a statement Tuesday that, judging by the profit situation of Canadian newsprint mills, "there is no justification for increased newsprint prices at this time."

Mr. Castonguay, who is also general manager of the Quebec daily newspaper L'Action Catholique, was commenting on an announcement by the St. Lawrence Corporation of an increase of $5 a ton in the company's price, effective Nov. 1, 1955, making the price delivered at New York $131 a ton.

"My understanding is that the St. Lawrence Corporation has no Canadian customers," Mr. Castonguay's statement said. "It may well be that their announcement . . . is in the nature of flying a kite, to get a reaction."

His statement continued: "It would be unfair to say that all mills are in an identical position; there may always be an exception."

"However, broadly speaking, when there is action across a uniform front, it arouses a quite natural question of how much this action reflects the individual and how much the industry."

"The federal government, I understand, has already looked into the question of possible combining in respect to the manufacture of fine papers, and the manufacture of glass and rubber. We surmise that our American neighbors might well question the good judgment of the Canadian government equally investigating the motive if there is combined action on the newsprint front."

"Furthermore, it is about time that the provincial governments look at the way in which Canadian mills are discharging their trust to Canada in respect to our forests. A mad drive for export markets might well have far reaching effects in destroying Canada's natural heritage."

"Smaller publishers will have to pass on to the man in the street part of the increased costs at this time. This will be a matter of considerable irony in Canada where the man in the street is already being harassed with the cost of subsidized CBC television programs."

Georgetown Legion Auxiliary is Entertained

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Georgetown Branch, were guests of the Montague Auxiliary at an hilarious Halloween party in the Legion Hall last evening. The costumes were many and varied, ranging from the ridiculous to the original. The judges were Mrs. W. A. Paterson, Georgetown, Mrs. Milford Merry, Lockport, N. S., and Mrs. Emery MacNeill, Montague.

After considerable discussion the following were chosen as prize winners: Mrs. Charles Fraser, Georgetown, (Dude); Mrs. Dolphus Scully, Georgetown, (Senator); Mrs. Walter Solomon, Georgetown, (Lady); Mrs. John Gaudet, Montague, (Lady); Mrs. Beecher Hickox (Satan); Mrs. Allister Stewart, Georgetown, (Grandma); Mrs. Margaret MacKinnon, Montague, (Hobo); Mrs. Philip Boudreau, Georgetown, (Soldier).

A special feature of the program was the singing of a number of selections by Miss Florence MacDonald, two tap dance numbers by Master Ralph Fraser, and a tap dance duet by Florence and Ralph. Mrs. D. M. Mac-

Donald was piano accompanist. A singing contest was won by the group directed by Mrs. Scully in the singing of "Old Black Joe". A number of contests were presented by the program committee, Mrs. Neil Hooley, Mrs. Archie Hickey and Miss Florrie Beston.

Stunting Playboy Pilot Crashes Plane; 3 Killed

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—A speed-loving playboy, buzzing his plane over a crowded residential area, crashed Monday night into an apartment where a happy family was celebrating the christening of a baby.

The crash and searing explosion killed wealthy sportsman Joel Thorne, a longtime companion of speed and violence; an 18-year-old bride and the newly-baptized infant. Nine other persons were injured, seven critically.

Eighteen others were in the apartment building.

Thorne, en route to Las Vegas, Nev., crashed 12 minutes after takeoff from nearby Lockheed air terminal. The 40-year-old scion of a New York banking family flew so low over the neighborhood that scores of residents fled from their houses in alarm.

"The building shook and there was a big blast. I ran to the bedroom to get my baby. There was another blast and I ran to the street. There was so much smoke we couldn't breathe. My husband went back after the baby."

It was minutes later that Preston, his burned skin hanging in shreds, left the house screaming: "My baby! My baby!"

PLANE JUST OVERHAULED

Laurence Lightbody, a Civil Aeronautics Administration safety agent, said Thorne's plane may have come apart in the air. The CAA official discounted the possibility that he was stunting during the three times he buzzed the neighborhood.

However, after preliminary examination, CAA officials said the wreckage indicated a structural failure in the air from overstress, possibly from excessive speed or violent handling of the aircraft.

The single-engine plane had just been overhauled at the airport.

Despite the comment of the CAA official, Richard Armstrong, a long-time friend of Thorne's, told police:

"I kept telling him that he was going to kill himself and someone else with that crazy flying, but you couldn't tell him anything. He just didn't seem to care about his own life or anyone else's."

In the wreckage of the plane, searchers found Thorne's will. Divorced, he had a 13-year-old son.

KNOWN FOR STUNTING

The playboy, long known for his stunting in the air, on the highway and in Hollywood night clubs, was burned almost beyond recognition.

The dead besides Thorne: Sheryll Camille Preston, two months old. She had been baptized just hours before at St. Charles Roman Catholic church.

Mrs. Betty Wolf, a newlywed, who was alone in her apartment above the one in which the Christening party was held.

The severely injured were mostly at the party in the dining room of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Preston, the parents of the infant. The mother said:

A delightful evening of fellowship with the Charlottetown and Summerside members was highly enjoyed.

POTATO ODDITY—The Guardian office, Montague, yesterday received a potato oddity, a full-grown potato enclosing a piece of aluminum, a small portion of which was still protruding. The oddity found on the farm of Mr. Arnb MacFarlane, Whim Road East, and Mr. MacFarlane was hesitant to guess how a piece of aluminum might find its way to that particular section of his farm.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. John MacLeod, and two children, Debbie and Gordon, accompanied by Miss Isobel Fraser and Mr. Harold Hamblen of New Glasgow, N.S., spent the week end at Gunsey Cove, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glover.

In Praise Of Skink Noters

If a man can notice a skink, spot a fritillary and recognize a wood frog in fifty yards, he should be forgiven any small social blunder he may commit. That's what Newspaperman Gregory Clark says in The Standard this week, and in case any reader may not know what a skink or a fritillary is, he explains that too. A little backwoods philosophy.
