SPECTACLES.

Over twenty-five years I have been in the Spectacle business and during that time have fitted hundreds and hundreds of persons. Some had put off getting glasses so long that the stone in this ring you gave me is imitation. "Oh, like enough, I never was very strong in mineralogy."—Humoristic Blatter.

E. W. TAYLOR, City

Warning!

I wish to inform the public that several parties are travelling the country using my name and pretending to be selling Spectacles for me. Mr. C. H. White is the only traveller that I employ. He is competent to test eyes and fit Spectacles properly. If any others call and say they are selling for me please ask them to show their licence.

He Was a Good Lawyer.
"Good lawyer?" repeated the man who had been acquitted in answer to a question. "Well, I should say so. Ever since I heard him plead my case I've had such a good opinion of myself that I keep looking round to see if the wings are sprouting. And before that I thought I was guilty."—Chicago Post.

Emptying a Dormitory.
Watchman (breathlessly)—The boys' dormitory is on fire, and if they find it out they'll stop to save their footballs, bats and things and perish.
Boarding School Principal (quickly)—Notify the boys that all who are not down stairs in two minutes won't get any pie.—New York Weekly.

Not Guilty.
Danbury Brush—So your father has consented to our marriage, and after saying he'd never allow you to marry an artist? How did he come to change his mind?
Miss Postergirl—He hasn't changed his mind, but he has seen some of your pictures.—Up to Date.

In the Wings.
"How is this, count, they say the stone in this ring you gave me is imitation?"
"Oh, like enough, I never was very strong in mineralogy."—Humoristic Blatter.

A Slight Change.
First Broker—Market's mighty dull today.
Second Broker—Yes; no excitement at all. Let's go over to Ginsling's and play poker.—New York Weekly.

The Colonel's Sword.
"I'll never forget when first I drew this sword," the colonel said. Unhooked the weapon from the wall and brandished round his head.
"Twas at"—He paused, a silence reigned.
So deep that one might feel, While to the listener's inward ears Came clash of steel on steel.
"Twas at"—They saw fierce bursts of flame, Great gaps in every row, As leaving trails of death the lines Rushed madly on the foe.
"Twas at"—They heard the cannons roar, The shriek of shot and shell, They trembled as the hero plunged Into that awful hell.
"Twas at"—The carnage fiercer grew, Louder the battle din.
"Twas at," the colonel softly said, "A raffle down in Lyna."—New York Sunday World.

A Lighthouse Keeper's Complaint.
Lighthouse keepers do not seem to feel their lonely life. I once spent a week on Scotland lightship, near the entrance to New York harbor. The assistant keeper was in charge, and he was nearly stone deaf. He had not been ashore for three months, and even a newspaper came to him only by chance from time to time, when a pilot boat stopped by on her way out of the harbor. From sunrise until 9 o'clock at night he did little else but sit on a hatchway, smoking an old pipe and gazing reflectively at the great harbor receiving and dismissing its thousands of vessels. One day he asked me to use my influence to get him transferred to Cape Cod. I asked him why he wished the change.

"Well," said he very seriously, "I want a quieter station. It's too lively here. I want to be where there is less going on."—Lieutenant John M. Elliott in St. Nicholas.

Work by Artificial Light.
Many persons experience great fatigue in working and reading by artificial light. Some attention has been given to this subject, especially in view of reading and study, and the type, paper and illumination most favorable to comfort and health. White light is recommended for all artificial illumination. One should never read at a lower degree of light than ordinary daylight. Very low intensities cause eye strain and weakness, which may result in exceedingly severe and even dangerous mental and physical conditions. It is now an established fact that epilepsy is sometimes caused by eye strain. There are also many other maladies that are primarily caused and greatly aggravated by bad light while using the eyes. Some authorities recommend white paper. Others, notably experienced journalists, insist that straw colored paper and black ink are less taxing to the eyes than white paper.—New York Ledger.

Sometimes.
A well known humorist is fond of telling this story of his small daughter. At the dinner table one day there was a party of guests for whom he was doing his best in the way of entertainment. A lady turned to the little girl:
"Your father is a very funny man," said she.
"Yes," responded the child, "when we have company."—Pick Me Up.

William C. Ussery, M. D., of St. Louis, says that the best food for those suffering from typhoid fever is the banana.

When Hume fell in love, his friends became aware of the fact by his sporting a rose in his buttonhole.
