President's Report

Following is the text of the President's report: "Today it is my privilege and pleasure to welcome you to this the 31st Annual Meeting of the Provincial Auxiliary of the Prince Edward Island Protestant Orphanage.

Supervisor Speaks

Mr. Clarence Mercer, supervisor, spoke briefly. He said that every school should meet the needs of the community and of the pupils who attend. While this school is primarily an academic institution, he thought that training should be given for the commercial world in which many will have to make a living.

Hon. Mr. Large congratulated the graduates and the prize winners. He said that parents have a duty to give their children proper facilities for education and the children have the duty to take advantage of these opportunities.

He explained the idea of the larger school unit and said that unit no. one has been established, including six or seven districts near Charlottetown. It has been a success and in all probability the system will spread throughout the Province.

He told of visiting high schools in Moncton and Port Elgin where a great amount of technical training is given. While this Province has not moved as fast as some others in this regard a remarkable advance has been made in Summerside in the teaching of shop-work and home economics.

Advancement in this type of training means the construction of new buildings and construction costs are high. He hoped that some Federal aid may be given in the near future.

The Students Council, through their president, Lorne Murphy, made a presentation to the school board that night of a cheque for $350.00.

Farewell Reception

On Wednesday, June 14, Kinkora Hall was the scene of a gathering of people from the surrounding districts who came to tender a farewell to Doctor G. J. Gallant who leaves shortly to take a post graduate course in Montreal, preparatory to assuming a new position. The meeting was called to order by the master of ceremonies, Mr. James P. Callaghan. The orchestra played a processional as Doctor Gallant, accompanied by Father McQuaid, entered the hall escorted by Mr. Albert Hammill. Mrs. Gallant was accompanied by Mrs. John R. McCabe and Mrs. Mary Sullivan. After a few introductory remarks, Mr. Callaghan called upon Mr. P. L. Morris who read an address expressing the feelings of all regarding the departure of Doctor Gallant, and their gratitude for his capable and generous services during the four and one-half years he practised in Kinkora. At the end of the address a presentation was made by Mr. Everett Francis, Freetown, to Doctor Gallant a Gladstone Bag, and to Mrs. Gallant a twin set of luggage, and a well-filled purse for both. Supporting the sentiments of appreciation and gratitude in the address, remarks were made by Rev. Francis McQuaid and by representatives from the various sections of Dr. Gallant's district. Mr. John R. McCabe spoke on behalf of Kinkora, Mrs. Elmer Gauthier represented the Freetown section, Mr. A. P. Ceretti voiced the appreciation of the people of Borden and vicinity, Mr. Alden P. Callaghan spoke for the Emerald and Newton districts, and Mr. Clifford Wright represented the Middleton section. These sincere and enthusiastic speeches clearly evidenced the high reputation Doctor Gallant has attained among the people by his devotedness to duty, his skill as a physician, and his loyalty as a friend.

Doctor Gallant replied in a fitting manner, expressing his gratitude to all for this demonstration of appreciation far beyond his most sanguine expectations. He expressed his regret to be leaving the people with whom he had worked these past four and one-half years, and thanked them for the patronage he had received during his period of practice in this area, assuring all that whenever he is within reach, he will be glad to come at the call of anyone to whom he may be of service. He commented suitably on the heartily endorsed fine tribute paid in the address to Mrs. Gallant as an "ideal Doctor's wife". At the close of his remarks the whole gathering joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

A delicious lunch was served to all present by the ladies of the district, and the remainder of the evening was very enjoyably spent in dancing to music supplied by George Chappelle and his Merry Islanders.

Following is the address read to Doctor and Mrs. Gallant: Dear Doctor and Mrs. Gallant: In the great realm of human associations, woven into the very warp and woof of the lives of all of us, there are many bonds which unite us more or less intimately with our fellow-man. Sometimes it is a family bond, an association in business, or some common interest that brings us close together in that beautiful relation we call friendship. But when our association with another is one which touches something very near and dear to us, yes, even the nearest and dearest,—our own lives and the lives of our loved ones,—there is a link far firmer than many others, and more painful in the severing. It is to express our regret to break such a bond with you, Dr. Gallant, and your wife and family, that we have assembled here tonight.

A little more than four years ago you came here to Kinkora, a stranger to most of us, but not for long. From the time that you have been enclosing a wide circle of friends bound by that strongest of ties, trust and confidence. Yours has been a life of service and devotion among us, and we feel that words offer but a lame tribute to that service so cheerfully given to all who sought it. It has been a wonderful consolation to all of us to know that night or day, fair weather or foul, we could call you to the bedside of the sick with the absolute assurance that nothing would be left undone on your part to relieve suffering and restore health wherever possible. Perhaps many times we may have seemed to take for granted the extra devotion and zeal you have shown in your work as a physician, but now with the prospect of loss looming before us, we are forced to a deeper realization of the benefits we have been enjoying, and tonight we wish to express something of our appreciation of one whom we have been justly proud to call "Our Doctor."

But it is not the doctor only that we are loathe to say farewell to you. In the life of the community you have fitted yourself so completely and so actively that every worthwhile project and community activity counted on your interest and support, and many times your leadership. In Church and School, in work and play we have had many happy associations with you, and always we have been able to look up to you as a real Christian gentleman and a true friend.

But we cannot feel that all the credit is due to you alone, for we believe that without the loyal assistance and cheerful companionship of Mrs. Gallant, your career would be dimmed considerably. To you then, Mrs. Gallant, whom we all regard as an ideal "Doctor's wife", we wish to acknowledge our indebtedness. We have appreciated your prudence and kindness in your contacts with the doctor's patients. We have enjoyed your pleasant company in many social activities. We have been inspired by your generous giving of your time and talents in the work of the community. It is therefore with a deep sense of loss that we consider your departure from among us.

However, in spite of our realization that we are about to lose both of you, we are happy to know, Doctor, that others have
