Youngsters On The Diamond

SCHOOL is out and little league and minor league ball should really catch it for the next two months.

Here in Charlottetown Randy Edwards is due any day to take over control of these enthusiastic young players. Randy spent a couple of summers here guiding the lads. That was back several years ago and he did a good job with the boys.

His work will start in earnest next week and Victoria Park should take on a busy atmosphere once these youngsters get rolling.

THE minor league system in the past few years in Charlottetown has done nobly and the play of young diamond stars in City League at present proves these lads were learning fast on the smaller diamonds. Right now many of the best players in George Francis's group are still in line to play midget, juvenile or junior ball.

Last season Charlie Ryan did a fine job with the Midget Abbies who went on to capture Maritime honors in convincing fashion. Even last year fellows like Carl McQuaid and Billy Weatherbie (on the champion midgets) were playing leading roles in the City Baseball League.

Impressive Graduates

THIS season we see more young graduates from minor ranks and all of them are conducting themselves most capably in older company. Already these players have played key roles in their clubs' victories and you can figure on them doing more of the same before a champion is named.

We like the way the City Baseball League managers are giving the younger fry an opportunity to show coaches are giving the younger fry an opportunity to show their talents. All players are getting into the ball games and this means much happier and contented young men.

We know that Randy will continue the good work that has been going on so splendidly. The talent is there and these little leaguers and minor leaguers are mighty anxious to make good impressions.

Parents should encourage their lads to participate in this baseball program. It's a worthwhile summer activity and the boys learn good sportsmanship to go along with baseball knowledge.

Tough Luck For Lee

IN this horse racing business, some fellows run into more than their share of tough luck.

A little over a month ago, Lee Taylor lost his great brood mare, Hettie Hoosier, in a highway accident. Hettie was the dam of that great pacer, Armond's Buddy. It was the Buddy that was named Prince Edward Island's horse of the year in 1962.

We phoned Lee that night after hearing about the accident and this most likeable horse owner was feeling pretty low about the whole thing.

A couple of weeks ago, Armond's Buddy was racing at Charlottetown Driving Park and was a hangup second to Park Rainbow in 2:07.4. It must have been encouraging to Lee to see his great pacer show such speed at this early stage of proceedings.

The Buddy came back last Saturday night in the feature pace and many were expecting him to show some more of that kind of speed. But Armond's Buddy never got a chance as he was involved in a serious accident on the backstretch in the last half of the first mile. Four horses and drivers were in that wild mixup but the Taylor-owned gelding was the only horse to suffer serious injury. In fact he was so badly hurt that it is now doubtful if Armond's Buddy will race again in this 1963 campaign.

You wouldn't want any owner to get this kind of a break but this fellow, Lee Taylor, is the last chap who deserves such hard luck. Everybody around the raceway is sorry indeed that Lee has had such misfortune with his speed.

We know we speak for every race fan when we wish a speedier-than-expected return to the race game of the gallant Armond's Buddy.

Keep Watching

DON'T take your eyes of those pennant races for long. Positions can change daily and a loss may throw the league leader into fourth place overnight.

Each loop is waging a horrid battle and there seems little hope at present of any one team running away from the rest of the pack.

It's a sizzler.

Lions Extend Streak; Crush All-Stars 13-2

Barry's Lions extended their victory streak to three games last night by crushing the first running National Park All-Stars 13-2 behind the 5-hit pitching of Art Ballem.

Ballem also had the hits well scattered, never allowing more than one bingle in any given frame. The veteran moundsman also allowed three walks while sending six down via the strike-out route.

The Lions on the other hand bombed loser Frank Bradley freely, getting to him for eleven hits, one of them a bases empty homer by Garry Gallant in the fourth inning.

Bradley also got shoddy support from his teammates, seven costly bobbles being committed. The Park hurler walked none and racked up one strikeout.

The Lions jumped into a 5-1 lead in the first two innings and never looked back. Their most productive rally came in the bottom of the fifth when they pushed six runs across the plate on five hits and four Park errors.

Roy McGonnell, making his first appearance with the Lions since joining them from B I S Shamrocks, spearheaded the winners' attack with three hits in four appearances. Teammates Gary Gallant and Howie Murchison were both 2-for-4. No Park player garnered more than one hit.

Officials for the contest were: umpire, Frank Bell; base judges, Bud Lund, George Murphy.

Next league game is Tuesday, July 2nd, with Mariners hosting National Park.

Here are the league standings up to and including last night's contest.

Chisox Crush Yanks; Indians, Twins Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago White Sox pounced on Jim Bouton for 10 hits Thursday, beat New York Yankees 6-0 behind Ray Herbert and moved to within .008 points of the American League leaders.

Herbert spaced five hits in recordings his sixth shutout of the season and second against the Yankees. His record is now 8-4.

The triumph, in addition to moving the surging Sox into a virtual tie with the Yanks for the league's top spot, made them 5-1 for the season against the Yankees.

Al Luplow made a game-saving catch off Boston's Dick Williams to preserve Cleveland's 6-4 victory over the Red Sox, Minnesota blasted Detroit 10-6 and Washington beat Kansas City 4-2 in the only other day games.

Philadelphia Phillies were at Pittsburgh in the only night game scheduled in either league.

STARTED EARLY

The White Sox virtually wrapped it up as they raked Bouton for six hits and five runs in the first two innings. Floyd Robinson's two-run single was the big hit in the three-run first.

Tony Kubek got three of the five hits off Herbert, all singles. Bouton, promoted from bullpen duty early in the season, had won eight of his last nine decisions going into the game. He's now 10-3.

Luplow, inserted in the Cleveland line-up in a defensive maneuver, robbed Williams of a three-run homer with his spectacular grab. The Red Sox had two men on base and were trailing 6-3 in the eighth when Williams lashed a drive toward the right field bullpen, about 400 feet away.

Luplow made a long run to his right, made a dive for the ball and speared it as he tumbled over the five-foot bullpen wall. He disappeared behind the wall for a moment, then reappeared, widly waving his glove with the ball in it.

Red Sox Manager Johnny Pesky played the game under protest arguing the blast should have been a homer.

GROUNDER ELUDES WEIS

Chicago White Sox second baseman Al Weis reaches for ground ball hit by Mike Tresh of New York Yankees in fourth inning of game yesterday. Weis fumbled it and missed a possible double play, with Tony Kubek taking second as Tresh was retired at first. White Sox won, 6 to 0.

HUNTER'S CORNER

'Strawberry Run' Of Trout Should Be On Hand Soon

June has been on her good behaviour this past few days. Sometimes its hard to decide which is the worst... too much heat or too much cold.

The first brood of black ducks was reported a few days ago. A motorist had to stop his car at Bunbury a few mornings ago when a mother duck led her brood of 11 across the highway into Bus Jones's dam. The young were just a day or so old judging from their diminutive size. The teal duck I surprised on a Sunday a few weeks ago hatched her brood successfully. There were no bad eggs... just the ends of each egg at the nest site. The duck hatch is late this season and maybe that is all to the good.

Trout fishermen are working hard for what they are getting this season but the 'Strawberry Run' of sea trout should be either in, or on the verge of coming in, when this column appears in print. In the days when I spent most of my time on the streams and marshes the first fresh run sea trout hit Gurney's stream at Covehead about the 29th or 30th of June, give or take a couple of days. They didn't always stick pretty close to dams and hill ponds—so choosey this spring it's hard to figure out. Real top catches have not been the order of the day although some have been made. Water levels are high and cold this spring and early summer and it could be that they have more territory to roam about and abundance of food for the taking.

HARD LUCK

This columnist has had a run of hard luck in some respects with trout this season. Twice conditions were ideal when I started out but just as I got ready for some action, even before I made the first cast the wind swung into the east and I, just as promptly, reeled in and called the outing off. I probably would have creeled some Kindergarten subjects but I wasn't interested in this class... the three quarter to one pound and a quarter babies are the ones I like to tangle with. It sometimes amazes me how thoroughly some trout fishermen cover a dam. Time and time again when constructing dams a spring has been opened up while dozing out "fill" for the dam enbankment or an immense spruce windfall, with a maze of roots draped over its butt, would be buried under ten feet of water. I'd make it a point to establish a landmark just to ascertain how soon some angler would find the spot. It wouldn't be long till the earth would be packed hard at this point. I once talked to a fisherman angling near such a windfall. He informed me that he had caught some hefty trout at this point but had also lost a lot of big ones. "I'd have them on for a minute or so" he informed me "and suddenly the line would be snagged up on something and I'd lose them". I told him to fight them clear of a certain point and indicated where the huge spruce was buried.

HAVE PAID OFF

Departmental Dams have paid off well this season and the top trout producer goes to Larkin's at Selkirk. Thousands of lovely pan trout have been taken there since the season opened. It's a long paddle.. a good two miles to an area above the railroad bridge... where a lot of trout appear to be congregated. They are present all over this body of water but on some days it seems like looking for a needle in a haystack to find them. Incidentally this is one dam that residents of the area predict wouldn't last a single season. Three other medium sized dams show signs of being heavily patronized by anglers this spring. Carragher's at Tyrone, Roseberry Twin Dam and the Brazil Dam at Johnston's River are the dams in question. Incidentally two of the aforementioned dams.. Brazil's and Roseberry No. 1.. were constructed under The Queens County Branch Fish and Game Association sponsorship four years ago. In fact Dr. Wen MacDonald may be considered the father of the present dam building sponsored by the Department of Industry and Natural Resources. It was he who started the ball rolling when he secured one thousand dollars from the Department concerned and earmarked for Queens County dam construction and issued the ultimatum to this columnist to "either put up or shut up". Four dams were built at a cost of slightly over seven hundred dollars. Brazil's, Shaw's, and the Roseberry Twins.

Doc and I do not agree on everything... far from it... but we do see eye to eye on this dam building program. The past two springs excessive flood conditions have given our dams the acid test but the majority have passed it safely.

Dodgers In Front; Down Rovers 6-1

Irv MacKinnon's Dodgers continued their onslaught on opposing teams last night at Memorial Field, walloping Rovers 6-1 for their fourth straight victory since last Saturday. The win also earned them sole possession of the league lead.

Lennie Ellsworth twirled a three-hitter for the victory and kept the Rovers off the scoresheet till the final inning. None of the hits figured in the lone tally but a walk to Rover shortstop Doiron and an error on Stan Rose's smash accounted for the run.

Ellsworth also walked 3 and fanned three over the nine innings.

Opposing pitchers Lyall Huggan and Peter Clark weren't so fortunate against the high-flying Dodgers, giving up a combined total of seven hits, the longest a bases-empty triple by Jack Kane. The Rovers were also shaky afield, committing a total of five errors.

STARTS ATTACK

Kane started the Dodgers on their way to the win in the second inning when he led off with a single. Roger MacLeod and Irv MacKinnon then followed him with back to back singles to account for a brace of runs.

Jack again got a rally going in the fourth with his leadoff triple. A walk to Roger MacLeod, a bobble and a sacrifice fly accounted for another three runs. The Dodgers final run came as a result of a hit batter and two more boots.

Coach Irv MacKinnon showed the way at the plate for the winners with two hits in three trips. Kane for 2 for 4. Hitting singles for the Rovers were Ian MacDonald, Cyril MacDonald and J. McInnis.

The next league game is Sunday with Fyers at Stars.

League standings are as follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Dodgers	4	2	.667
Flyers	3	2	.600
Stars	2	3	.400
Rovers	1	4	.200
