MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION

The Pope's Recent Encyclical.

Manitoba Catholics to Do All in Their Power to Obtain a Full Measure of Justice.

QUEBEC, Jan. 10.—The Pope's encyclical concerning the Manitoba schools question is a lengthy document. His Holiness says that justice and reason demand that Catholic children should have, not only scientific instruction, but moral teaching in harmony with their religion, and hence they must have Catholic teachers and properly approved text books. These are the rights of the Manitoba Catholics. But they should make the best of what is given and do all in their power to obtain a full measure.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE AND MAIL

OTTAWA Jan 8.—Colonel Turner, United States Consul General, has returned from Connecticut. He says, provided the requisite permission is given by the British government, the Connecticut regiment will be here on the 24th of May to take part in the Queen's birthday celebration.

MONTRÉAL, Jan. 8.—A daring burglary was committed by three men at the residence of Miss Elizabeth Orkney early yesterday morning. Only two persons were in the house at the time, Miss Orkney, who sleeps on the second floor, and a hired man, who sleeps down stairs. The burglars were evidently familiar with the premises, as they immediately made their way to the room in which Miss Orkney, who is quite an elderly lady, was sleeping.
They did not take any pains not to disturb her, but lit the gas and set about ransacking the room. Miss Orkney was quickly aroused, but one of the intruders threatened her, and she was obliged to watch the depredatees without uttering a sound.
After having thoroughly overhauled things and securing $60 in cash and a large quantity of jewelry, including a gold watch, the whole valued at $300, they made off the way they had come.
The police have since arrested three men on suspicion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Bradstreet's on Saturday reported: The year opens with a tone of confidence pervading nearly all branches, with encouraging activity in the iron trade, a resumption of works by many thousands of industrial employees in the western glass industry, a largely reduced volume of business failures as compared with corresponding periods in preceding years, and a general outlook certainly not inferior to any previous year at this time.
Distributive trade has naturally been rather slow, pending stocktaking and the return of salesmen to the field. While the volume of distributive business is no larger, industrial activity is a special feature unconfined to any one section, especially noticeable in the west, the resumption after the holidays has been general and encouraging in the extreme. Sales of southern iron are large, Louisiana sugar crop returns have been very satisfactory, nine-tenths of the Florida orange crop was gathered before the frost, and cotton is steady. Wool has opened up actively at eastern markets, and lower prices for cotton goods have stimulated the demand. The wage reductions at New England cotton mills have been very generally accepted. The jewelry trade has been encouraged by the small number of failures in that line. Preparations for a large Alaska trade are making on the Pacific Coast, and need rains are reported in California. Prices have shown important changes, and steadiness is a leading feature.

CARE OF LAYING HENS.

One of the best articles we have seen on the subject of laying hens was written for Farm Poultry under the head: "Why Don't They Lay?" by John H. Robinson.

Passing over the most common rules and suggestions, the portion which seems most new and important was the explanation why hens stopped laying suddenly after laying a few eggs and when, according to the usual understanding of such things, they should continue until they finished the litter. It is shown that the highly bred hen is largely an artificial production the same as the modern dairy cow, and that the reproductive organs have been stimulated and developed far beyond their natural condition and that they are very sensitive to all changes. Any disturbing influence whether it relates to the food, comfort or contentment of the fowls is felt and shown most quickly by the organs which are developed the farthest from the natural state. There are many favorable conditions besides pedigree required to get a six months' old pullet to laying in cold weather, and if any one of these conditions is interfered with, e.g. production ceases when there is no change in the appearance of the fowl.
A cold storm, wet grounds in the yards, unpalatable food or even a change to new quarters equally comfortable will have a disturbing effect on the nervous system of the fowl and the development of eggs will cease. Pullets should be put into their winter quarters before it is time for them to begin to lay and then there will be no later change to disturb them.
Care and a constant study of their wants is worth more than any patent food.

One of our seven first prizes taken at the Provincial Exhibition was for the Sovereign Flavoring Extracts. They win on their merits.
