

Island Community Theatre to Present New Voices

Island audiences will have an opportunity to view the award-winning one-act plays from the 1986 "New Voices" Playwriting competition when the ICT Performance Group presents the three plays in an evening entitled "New Voices Onstage". The presentation will run for five nights, Oct. 28 through Nov. 1 with the curtain at 8 p.m. at the MacKenzie Theatre.

Announcement of the performance was made by Ron Irving, artistic director of ICT who added that his organization has been looking forward to producing these plays, particularly because of the public interest in the work generated by the competition.

J.J. Steinfield, who has been successful in a number of literary competitions over the last few years, is represented by "The Heirloom" directed by Mr. Irving, a play exploring the relationship between three people, two of whom share a haunting and horrifying past.

"Drinking The Ocean" is a strange comic offering by Davie Moses, who will be directing his own script. In order to relieve their fear and boredom, two men hiding in a motel room turn the place, and themselves, upside down.

Michael Hennessey, another previous winner for "The Trial of Minnie McGee", has written a poignant story about the growing friendship of two women each battling different afflictions in "Maggie Hannigan's War" which will be directed by Norman Osborne.

ICT instituted the New Voices Playwriting Competition four years ago to encourage the development of local plays. Last year seventeen new plays were entered in the competition, the highest number to date. Plans are presently underway for New Voices '87 which will solicit entries over the next three months. A brochure containing rules and general information on New Voices '87 is in preparation.

Business Society Notes

The Freshman rep has yet to be chosen. Anyone interested in the position, please contact the Business Society in Kelley building.

The Annual Golf Tournament was held at the Stanhope Golf & Country Club. The weather came through for us and at the end of the day, there was a three way tie for first among Kesti Eamantis, Mark MacLeod and Steven Birt, but Mark had the top overall score.

This year a bowling tournament was held at the Silverado Bowling Lanes. Bob O'Rourke grabbed top individual bowler. The team of Larry Docherty, Phil Muise, Bill Banks and Brian Howard won team honours. Top female was Jackie Coulson.

Our hockey season is underway and the Business Society Scouts did a good job of recruiting. The team looks sharp. Good luck, fellows!

The annual Business Executive Luncheon was held Oct. 20th in the Panther Lounge. A good crowd turned out to hear Larry Saunders of the Federal Business and Development Bank.
