QUEBEC, June 24.
A syndicate has been formed for the leasing of the Provincial Government Railway between Quebec and Ottawa, including the branch lines. The syndicate is understood to be composed of the Hon. T. McGreevy, M. P., Senator Rosaire Thibadeau, and Messrs. T. Tiffin, E. Hart and C. O. Perrault. The annual rental is stated to be over $200,000, and the lease is for ten years.

SPAIN.

MADRID, June 24.
A band of blackmailing brigands in Catalonia have been dispersed by the Gendarmes with six killed and several wounded.

UNITED STATES.

BOSTON, Mass., June 24.
Christine Cox, the murderer of Mrs. Hull at New York, was arrested here to-night. He is a copper-colored negro, who has been employed as a waiter for a year and a half in the neighborhood of the Hull residence. Cox appeared in Boston a week ago, and at a pawnbroker's shop disposed of a cameo set of jewelry, which the superintendent of pawnbrokers afterwards found. The pawnbroker furnished a description of the prisoner, and search revealed the fact that Cox, after getting rid of the jewelry, went to New York and remained there two or three days, and in the meantime made some alterations in the character and color of his clothing. Cox was discovered and suspected in the street here to-night by a newspaper reporter who had a description of him. The reporter accosted Cox, and the latter's ignorance of the city confirmed the former's suspicions. The reporter followed Cox till the latter entered a colored church and then informed the police, who were sent for, and Cox surrendered without resistance. Mrs. Hull's watch was found on him, and he was thoroughly identified. He was not reticent, and said, in answer to questions, that he had lived for a long time opposite Mrs. Hull's house, and at the time of the robbery entered through the lower window and went upstairs to her room. He said his purpose was robbery alone, and he did not intend to kill her. Officers from New York and also one of Mrs. Hull's boarders recognized Cox.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, June 24.
The Times says the dread of further trade complications in the north of England caused a depression in the home railway securities on Monday. These complications ramify so widely that their full development will be most serious, but hopes are entertained that they will be averted.
In the House of Lords, to-night, the Marquis of Salisbury, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, made a statement in regard to the Egyptian question similar to that made by Mr. Burke in the Commons to-day. He added that England and France advised the Khedive to abdicate in favor of Fevrik Pasha, and Germany, Austria and Italy supported that recommendation.

FRANCE.

LONDON, June 24.
A Paris despatch says Ferdinand de Lesseps, in a lecture at Amiens, the first sod of the Panama canal would be turned on January 1st, and that with 40,000 navvies, including some Chinese and 40,000 Brazilian negroes, the work would be completed in eight years.

A Paris despatch says that during a pilgrimage of 60,000 Poles to a miracle-working picture at Crenetokew, 15 pilgrims were killed in a thunder storm.

IRELAND.

LONDON, June 24.
The anti-landlord agitation in the west of Ireland lately has been causing apprehension. James Lowther, replying to a question in the commons, stated that the Government are fully alive to the necessity of dealing promptly with the matter. The Deputy Inspector General of Constabulary is on a special mission to the districts concerned to consult with the Magistrates and local constabulary and report what additional police will be required in order to insure full protection to all persons in the exercise of their legal rights, that considerable reinforcements are being drafted into the districts, and notice is given that in the events of any outrage the cost of these measures will be levied upon the district where it occurs.

TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 24.
The Grand Vizier has submitted to the Sultan a new programme of policy and requested a modification of the present ministry.

JAUMUCA, June 24.
Pending the result of the meeting of ambassadors in Constantinople, the Turks have prepared everything for war. Reinforcements, infantry and artillery, arrived at Volo in large bodies. Bashi Bazuks assembled at Albana, ready to march into Eperus and Thessaly.

Prof. Goldwin Smith on Canadian Parties.

Prof. Goldwin Smith has written a letter to a Montreal paper, in which he says:—

"In an editorial on the Ontario elections you very naturally remarked that people might wonder how an English Liberal like me could be found acting with the Conservatives in Canada; and you observed, by way of explanation, that the meaning of the party names in the two countries were not the same. This is true, but there is a little more to be said.

"You will remember that some years ago an attempt was made, under the auspices of Mr. Blake, to found a Liberal party, with an organ of its own, in opposition to the Gritty party and the Globe. That attempt, being made with less constancy than intelligence, failed; and there is now in Ontario no Liberal party, though there is Liberalism in an unorganized state. Mr. Brown never calls himself a Liberal, nor does his faithful representative, Mr. Mowatt; both eschew the name, the more carefully, perhaps, because it reminds them of the mutinous movement of Mr. Blake. They always call themselves Reformers, a designation the justice of which Mr. Mowatt's election committee has just been illustrating, by placarding the walls of Toronto with a promise that, if the citizens will return him to Parliament, he will spend a large sum of money among them on public buildings.

A Liberal, therefore, whether English or Canadian, if he wished to join a party would have no party to join. Among the Liberal-Conservatives, some of whom have been in other camps, he would find more men of Liberal mind than among their opponents, at least in this part of the Dominion. Enlist with the Grits he could not, without putting off his nature. I do not believe that there exists a party which more systematically crushes independence of thought and character. The religious basis of Grit Toryism is Calvinism, whereas that of Toryism in England is Anglicanism; but Liberalism is not more alien to those who cropped Prynne's ears than to those who burned Servitus.

Revolution in Panama.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE STATE KIDNAPPED.

A Panama despatch says that on the 7th inst., Gen. Rafael Aizpuz declared a provisional Government at Aspinwall. The revolutionists afterwards took possession of the cartel, where but slight resistance was made. Two persons were wounded, one, the sentinel on duty, fatally. Aizpuz is reported to have one hundred followers. The same evening, President Casorda was decoyed and kidnapped here, and placed on a hand-car, which started for Aspinwall. The hand-car collided with a train, and the persons on the former miraculously escaped. The parties walked to a station and were conveyed thence to Aspinwall, where they arrived next day. Casorda is now closely confined. Measures were at once taken here to prevent disorder and to resist the attempt to overthrow the constitutional Government. The Panama railroad has refused to convey national troops to Aspinwall. Aizpuz's forces marched to Gatun, seven miles from Aspinwall, and crossed the Chagres river to the native village. Three hundred Government troops are marching to give the insurgents battle. It is believed the revolution will be brief, as it lacks the sinews of war.

Colonel Pearson's name has become famous as that of the gallant commander who, with a small force, for eight long weeks, held a poorly fortified post in the heart of Zululand against enemies, whose numbers and bravery made the chances of his relief so small that his safety was long despaired of in England. He, however, succeeded in his self-appointed task, and, as the plan of the campaign was not his, the subsequent withdrawal from the position by the British army does not reflect any discredit upon Colonel Pearson's gallant action. Very little has been published concerning Col. Pearson's career. He was formerly in command of the 3rd (Buffs) regiment of infantry, and took part in the Ashantee war. He is one of the most successful of the British officers in Zululand, a fact probably owing to the experience gained on the West Coast. Since the relief of Ekowe little has been heard of him, owing, no doubt, to his being incapacitated for work by sickness, brought on by the hardships of his position in the heart of Zululand.

BISMARCK'S GRIM PLEASANTRY.—A Darmstadt paper is assured on trustworthy authority that the Prince of Bulgaria will appear before the Sultan in his Hessian uniform, not in a black frock coat and fez. Speaking of the Prince's tour among the various European Courts, Golos asserts that Prince Bismarck, when conferring lately with His Highness, remarked that the union of Bulgaria with Eastern Roumelia was, sooner or later, unavoidable. The Chancellor is credited with another saying, when consulted by Lieutenant Battenberg as to whether he should accept the proffered crown, "Certainly" quoth the Prince, "by all means; it will always be a pleasant reminiscence for you."
