

In Search of the Green Financial Aid by Inge Dorsey

Well, I certainly hope everyone is funning and frolicking their way through the Winter Carnival. The biggest news on the financial aid scene is that we have moved from Main Building to the Robertson Library in the former Computer Centre. So now that we are more centrally located, drop on by.

If I can be of any assistance, drop by the office in the Library at the following times, or call 566-0647.

Monday 9 am - 1 pm

Tuesday & Thursday 10 am - 11 am

Wednesday 12 am - 1 pm

Friday 10 am - 1 pm

Have a good week!

McMaster Arts Programs Recommended Cut

HAMILTON - Degree programs in Humanities and Art History are recommended to be cut, reports a news release from McMaster University's Arts department, and early indications from the administration appear favourable.

The recommendations come from a review committee set up by the university's Vice-President Academic. Dr. Paul Walton, chairman of the Art History department at McMaster circulated the news release, stating he feels the proposal stems from McMaster's increasing focus on its technological and industrial research areas and away from the less concrete arts programs.

Presently, many Canadian universities are finding government and private industry funding much easier to acquire for scientific research programs than for arts programs where results are not as tangible.

McGill Fees Flip Flop

MONTREAL (CUP) — The McGill University student council recently voted by a slim margin to reverse a controversial position, and will now oppose all tuition fee increases.

The council's original position advocated a 300 percent tuition fee hike in Quebec over the next three years.

"We're (council) seen as being out to lunch on this issue. I think we should return from lunch," said council member Randy Flemmings, speaking in favour of the motion.

Despite assurance from council vice-president Ian Drodie that the council's position in favour of tuition increases is becoming accepted on campus, the council voted nine to eight in favour of the resolution.

Student Services Relocated

The Dept. of Student Services is now located in the Robertson Library — 1st floor (space previously occupied by Computer Centre). This is a temporary move due to renovations taking place in Main Bldg.
