THE CITY SCHOOLS.

Interest in our City Schools is well maintained. As a rule, they do not produce such good scholars as the better class of the country schools. But this is, we feel sure, owing rather to less favorable conditions for study than to less ability on the part of the scholars or their teachers. In the towns there are so many distractions which are unknown in the quietude of the country that scholars in the country have a great advantage in the prosecution of their studies. Boys and girls in the country, too, if we mistake not, take a much more serious view of life and its duties than boys and girls in the city, and are on that account inclined to work harder at their studies. However this may be, it is pleasing to note that, notwithstanding many discouragements, our teachers are prosecuting their noble work with energy, and that some improvements are apparent. Special credit is due Mr. Justice Fitzgerald and Mr. James for the supplementary lessons in history imparted by them. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, too and the members of the School Board are to be thanked for their kindly personal interest and countenance at the examinations. The boys and girls of to-day will be the men and women of to-morrow. We have had a long day of peace and prosperity. But rumors of war are in the air and changes of Government imminent. It may be that we are on the eve of a night in which the souls of our men and women will be tried. In every national emergency the best guarantee for the continued welfare and safety of the country lies in an intelligent and patriotic youth, such as we see in course of training in our city schools.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS!

The British people hope for a lower tariff, more trade with Canadians, and a preference of British goods as a result of Mr. Laurier's victory. The people of the United States rejoice in the prospect of Commercial Union, leading on to Annexation, or, at any rate, a reciprocity of trade in which there will be incidental discrimination against the manufactures of the Mother Country. Thousands of persons in Ontario and throughout the whole country confidently expect that the Remedial bill will be dropped and the National Schools of Manitoba as established by the Greenway Government, maintained, while everyone in Quebec expects Mr. Laurier to set in motion all the powers of the constitution, to the end that the minority in Manitoba shall be fully satisfied. All over Canada there are persons who expect, with equal reason, that Mr. Laurier will make a clean sweep of the Civil Service; that large additions will be made to the Provincial subsidies; that taxation will be considerably reduced; that public expenditures will be cut down, and an era of economy ushered in; that there will be an end to boodling and self-seeking, and that Canada will go on to prosper so rapidly that everyone in it will soon be rich. We shall quietly wait for the realization of these great expectations.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

—Among those who sent messages of congratulation to Mr. Laurier was Mr. Erastus Wiman of New York.

—The first effect of Liberal rule in Canada touched Fredericton in the shape of a telegram to John Palmer, an extensive leather manufaturer there, from a Toronto boot and shoe factory, cancelling a $3,000 order lately booked for the Toronto house. The reason given for this is the uncertainty of trade under the Liberal policy.

—A Toronto despatch reports that the result in Ontario is very disappointing to Sir Oliver Mowatt, who regards the way Western Ontario went as a direct slap at him. The reorganization of the Ontario Cabinet, necessitated by the withdrawal of Sir Oliver, will affect only three portfolios. Hon. A. S. Hardy will be Premier and Attorney-General; Hon. J. M. Gibson will be Minister of Crown Lands, and E. H. Bronson, of Ottawa, Provincial Secretary.

—Mr. Laurier's victory was celebrated by a banquet in Chicago. "Sir Oliver Mowat, Canada and the United States were toasted. Every mention of the friendly commercial relations which should exist between the two countries was cheered, and when Daniel Bergerin referred in eloquent terms to the era of prosperity that should follow commercial reciprocity the auditors expressed their approval by applause which lasted several minutes."

—The summing up of the results of the election of Tuesday is shown by the Star as follows:—

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Great Meeting at Boston.

(Special correspondence of The Examiner.)

Boston, June 24.—Boston is cool and very pleasant. Delegates from all parts are here, earnest to gain some new information for future work. Every state, territory and province is assigned a special portion of the immense and beautiful Tremont Temple. Canada is most conspicuous and eligibly situated, and P. E. Island delegates are well up to the front of the platform, about three seats back in the centre aisle. Among those who are representing the Island are Revs. J. F. Estey, D. Sutherland, W. J. Kirby and F. Whightman; from New Brunswick, the Revs. W. C. Mathews, A. Lucas, G. M. Young, and several laymen whose names are not known to your correspondent. The homes in which we are billeted, free, are amongst the best in the city and suburbs. The exercises of yesterday were occupied with preliminaries and the reports of committees, but the addresses and official reports were of the most enthusiastic nature. In the past three years wonderful increases are reported, showing a growth of nine schools every week day and eleven every Sabbath throughout the triennial.

We cannot do better than give a few extracts from the report of the chairman of the executive, Mr. Jacobs. Amongst the deceased brethren, mention was made of Mr. Daniel Stewart, of Summerside, P. E. I. The growth is shown by the following extract:—

The totals are as follows, viz: For the United States: Schools 132,639, a gain of 9,466; Membership 12,286,600, a gain of 1,262,229. For Canada and Newfoundland: Schools 9,450, a gain of 1,205; Membership 746,575, a gain of 78,638. For all, Schools 142,089, a gain of 10,671; Membership 13,033,175, a gain of 1,340,868. The percentage of gain for the United States being 11 4, for Canada 11.7, for all 11 45."

The magnificent section on the International Sunday School Lesson, is too good to omit. It is as follows:—

The International Sunday School Lessons.—This convention has a most important work to do. It will choose a new Lesson Committee, who are to select the lessons which are to be studied during the closing years of this century and the first five years of the twentieth century. It is propable that changes will occur in the committee and it is almost certain that the plan will be continued. The agitation of the question, and the opposition to the plan has failed to remove it from the place it has long occupied in the minds and hearts of Sunday School workers. Even the urgent demand on a part of the few for a separate course for the Primary Department, has less support now than it had a year or two ago. The Lesson Committee appointed a special committee from its own members, to prepare such a list of lessons. They gave much time to the work, and talked and corresponed with leading Primary Class teachers in America and with the London members of Lesson Committee. Twelve series of lessons were submitted, and an optional primary course was finally selected and has been sent to London for their consideration, but it seems probable that few, if any will adopt the separate lessons. The result of the conferences and correspondence has been to improve and strengthen the work of the Lesson Committee, and to assure the continued study of both the Old and New Testament. If a better committee can be selected, choose them; if a better plan can be found, adopt it; if better selections can be made, we desire them; if better translations will produce better versions, we welcome them; if excavations and discoveries can aid us more clearly to understand the Book, continue them; but let us have the Book. Let us advance and train our teachers and explain and illustrate our teaching; but let us remember that it is the Word of God that we are to teach, and "the energy which lies in this Word, in the hands of a true teacher, having behind it splendor of character and a divine impulse, is like the energy from which the light sprung." The Lesson Committee has tried, in every way known to them, to learn the mind of the Sunday School world on this subject, and to do that which was best. After twenty four hours of trial and success they devoutly believe that the approving blessing of God has accompanied their work. The appointment of a new committee brings up once more Dr. Gibson's question asked at St. Louis in 1893: "Will the Old Book do for the new century?" If it will not do, what have we left? Are we to restudy the Bible, or are we to begin with something else? Are we to follow in old paths, aided by all the light that now shines, or forsake them for ways unknown, and follow the men "who are shap-eyed; along the low horizons of earth who walk by street lamps, and never steer by stars." What Old Testament prophecy has failed, what word of Jesus has lost its power? We must have one Universal Book, that reveals an universal Saviour, who is able and willing to save the last and lowest sinner of earth. "The text book of Christians—the Bible—is the only book at all worthy of universal adoption." The men who have prophesied against the Book have made failures, "the churches which have built away from Jesus Christ have vanished." "The prophets of Spencerism were not intrusted with the last words of wisdom," and we need not fear what the future may bring. There are philosophers and scholars and problems innumerable, but no one but Christ and His Church has ever grappled with sin and death, and no book but the Bible tells of death and immortality. Yes, the Bible will do for all the centuries. While it deals with the habits, manners and customs of the past, it points out clearly the sins and dangers of to-day, the perils of the future and the remedy with which to meet them. While the ancient writings of men on stone or brick, papyrus or parchment are valued principally as relics for our museums the Bible is for every age and clime, the voice of God speaking in language so simple that a child can understand it and with depths so profound that no human intellect can exhaust its meaning. If asked, shall we not study the evidence of its genuineness, we answer, most certainly. The history of its composition, its preservation, its translation from tongue to tongue into nearly three hundred languages and dialects, its marvelous circulation of more that two hundred million copies, all these are a powerful argument as to its divine origin. But there are other tests to be applied. As the woman "Sychar's lonely well" said to her neighbors concerning the Divine Lord and Savior, "Come, see a man that told me all the things that I ever did! Is not this the Christ?" So we may say, Come see a book that told me all the things that I ever did! Is not this the Bible? And we may add, it tells me all I think, and all I am, and all I may be. "As with the sun in the heavens, every ray tells of the hand that made it, so of the Bible, every part tells of the heart that inspired it."

"This is an age of matchless possibilities. Within the limits of the century, by cities exhumed, by monuments unveiled, by hieroglyphic characters deciphered, by Rosetta stones, Moabite stones, and Saloam stones that are crying out, by the unrest among all nations, and the manifest fulfilment of scripture prophecies and promises, the testimony to the inspiration and value of the Bible is being completed. "There is a mighty gulf between God's thoughts and man's thoughts, and the shores of that gulf are as far apart as Christ and self." Two things will distinguish those who are worthy to be classed as faithful Sunday School workers, profound reverence for the Word of God, and sincere, genuine attachment to the person of Jesus Christ."

It was earnestly requested that the report be printed in all papers of the continent, and the extracts above are worth reading and preserving.

Mrs. Moody, wife of a son of the great Evangelist, and a daughter of Major Whittle, the well known singing Evangelist who was killed in the railway accident of a few years ago, delights the audiences with her very beautiful and pathetic solos, and Mr. Stebbins also thrills us with his songs of salvation.

The topics of discussion to-day have been the Home School and the Lesson Committee, and the delegates have been delighted with the day's proceedings.

The Home School is what Dr. Duncan called an extension of or an addition to the Sabbath School idea. It is for the benefit of those who are unable to attend the Sabbath School, and will promise to read and study the Bible one half hour a week. The department is thoroughly organized and has a membership of many thousands in some parts. The address of Dr. Hallett was an able exposition of the ways and methods of working along these lines.

The Lesson Committee's report showed some wonderful work done by its members during the last six years. Affectionate reference was made to the deceased members who had given so much time and labor to this work. The address of Dr. Burrell will not soon be forgotten by those who listened to him as he addressed the committee on its work. He pleaded for the Bible pure and simple. The words of God which he believed to be inspired throughout the scriptures he said are true. "God breathed on the parchment and the deposit left was His own word of truth" He would breathe on the window glass in winter time and leave all shapes of beautiful forms and figures, so God breathed on the parchment Christ honored the Old Testament by quoting it so frequently and using it in the time of His own temptation. All through the book from Genesis to Revelation is a red trail of the blood of Jesus. The silence of Jesus is the greatest evidence of inspiration. If it was not inspired he must have known it and would not use it as he did. He did not believe that parts were dispensible and parts indispensible. The Bible is the materia medica for such souls and it was all indispensible. What must God think of us saying, "Lord this piece of the Bible is all right, but this is not required?" It would likely be as if he should go into a druggist and say, "I know some things are good for sick people, I have seen them tried, but these things are useless. The druggist would likely say, "I know my business and you don't, there's the door." The Bible is, as St. Augustine said, "Deep enough to drown an elephant and shallow enough for a lamb to wade through."

It is lovely and cool here, and the overcoat is needed after the evening service. One casuality was reported yesterday, and sadness came over the audience when it was announced that a delegate had been thrown from the electric cars and was dying of concussion of the brain.

The P. E. Island delegates are taking in all they can, and will have much to tell on their return home.

There was a wave of excitement amongst the Canadian delegates this morning as they asked one of another "what was the news of the election," and astonishment settled on every face. However, we do not know the full result, so we await news from home.

The convention is going forward very satisfactorily, and the city is captured by the delegates.

One of the greatest attractions of the convention is the presence of D. L. Moody. His addresses are anxiously looked for, and the Park Street Church to day at noon was crowded to the doors, and his address on the 91st Psalm was excellent. He dealt with the seven things promised to those who set their love on God:

(1) I will deliver him.
(2) I will answer him.
(3) I will be with him in trouble.
(4) I will honor him.
(5) I will satisfy him with long life.
(6) I will set him on high.
(7) I will show him my salvation.

OPINION IN MANITOBA.

Probable Return of Six Liberal-Conservatives.

A press correspondent at Winnipeg writes, June 25th:—

"Manitoba has four Tories safe; the other two are in doubt, with chances in both cases in favor of Conservatives. Nicholas Flood Davin, Conservative, has been elected in Regina by two votes. In Saskatchewan the election of Mr. Laurier is by no means certain. If what the western Conservatives now expect is realized, this will be the net result in Manitoba and the territories:

Manitoba, 6 Conservatives, 1 McCarthyite.

Northwest, two Conservatives, two Liberals.

This will change the figures considerably.

Hugh John Macdonald denies that he will resign his seat in Winnipeg. Mr. Macdonald leaves for Ottawa on Saturday.

The Norwester says editorially: "The Conservative government took their political lives in their hands, as it were, to do justice to a small Catholic minority and the result to-day is that they have been defeated at the polls. It is a significant fact in connection with this defeat, however, that they have been slaughtered by the French Catholics of Quebec, whose interests they were trying to serve. It is conclusively shown by the returns that the defeat of the conservative government is due to the Catholics of Quebec, the liberal majority in that province having increased from five in the last parliament to 31, or a gain of one half of all the conservative seats in Quebec. Ontario did not materially change in the contest and the other provinces not sufficiently to overthrow the government. The responsibility rests with Quebec The French Catholics of that province, with the basest ingratitude, have treacherously slain the friend that undertook to fight their battles for them."

The Free Press to-day says: "In Quebec it was a contest as to which leader would be honored with the last task of remedying the grievance here, and the Quebecers chose the one of their own faith and nationality to do so. That Mr. Laurier will proceed at once with this task no one will doubt. As a result, one of two things will happen: Mr. Greenway will act, or Parliament will have to deal with another remedial bill. The only difficulty will be the uncompromising attitude hitherto taken by the local government, but it will doubtless find some reason for receding from its position in favor of the commission to be appointed by Mr. Laurier. However the result may be attained, the people of Manitoba will hail with satisfaction the removal of an irritating and dangerous question from the political arena.

Movements and Intentions of the Government

Gossip at the Street Corners

The Atlantic Fast Line Tenders

Ottawa, June 27.

Among the Conservative members-elect in town there is a decidedly belligerent spirit. There is to be no sitting down bewailing Tuesday's temporary defeat. It will be a fight from the start. It is understood that communications have passed between the Premier and the Governor-General regarding the prospective resignation of the ministry. The latter is at Quebec, but has signified his willingness to return to Ottawa at Sir Charles' convenience.

The general impression is that Messrs. Angers and Desjardins will be re-appointed to the Senate.

Unquestionably the Government will be quite justified in filling all vacant seats.

Mr. Taillon accepts his defeat in a philosophic spirit. He puts it that as Quebec does not want him he is prepared to accept the verdict, and will neither seek a seat in the Senate or Commons.

It is now stated that in the incoming Ministry a French Canadian will be appointed to the portfolio of Railways and Canals. As the French Canadian influence is so strong in the new Ministry, it is felt that the Intercolonial administration should be in the hands of a Quebec man, particularly as the Intercolonial Railway runs through a great portion of Quebec.

It is said that Mr. Davies has aspirations for a portfolio, but it is thought that Mr. Tarte will be too strong for him.

Four members will be gazetted to-morrow. They are D. D. Rogers, of Frontenac; C. Beausoliel, of Berthier; A Dupont, of Bagot; M. E. Barnier, of St. Hyacinth.

John McDougall's appointment as Customs Commissioner will also be gazetted.

From present appearances the ministry will not be able to leave office, until the end of next week. The most important matter taken up at yesterday's Cabinet meeting was the Fast Line tenders. Quite a large number had been sent in, but singular to say, only one complies absolutely with the terms of the advertisement and specification. It is from the Allan Line. It is understood their figure is in the vicinity of £125,000 sterling. It was not definitely decided to accept this tender. But, under the circumstances the contract must be ratified by Parliament.
