education in the name of truth - not grades. Then the attitude would be carried to the upper level courses where learning would be foremost, the marks speaking for themselves. In this way, UPEI could claim to be one of the few educational centers that lives up to the name university.

Fortunately, UPEI due to her size is capable of accommodating such change. By the same token, UPEI is also wide open for trends that block the pursuit of truth. Right now, UPEI needs change not in degree - more of the same exercises can only condition and build a problem - but in kind: new exercises so to restore and maintain a level of respect and dignity for a university education. Oh yes, UPEI would then be different, but at least she would be true to herself. Sticking to the present course, a UPEI orientated on a computer may as well be a day nursery (an expensive one at that!) that begins the year with a group of cumbersome, uncoordinated children and ends with the same. But then again, a group of innocent children are very cute and adorable when they get together!

BUSINESS SOCIETY

The UPEI Business Society is proud to announce that Mr. Jack MacDonald, president of Standard Brands, has accepted the invitation to be the guest speaker at the 3rd Annual Business Society Businessmen's Dinner. Mr. MacDonald is a graduate of this institution and is spoken of quite highly in the business department here at UPEI and also in Charlottetown's business community. The executive of the Business Society is presently planning all details for the upcoming event which is to be held on Monday, March 12th. This get-together of business people from Charlottetown and the business students at UPEI is primarily designated to create a better form of relations between the two groups. It is an excellent opportunity for business students to meet Charlottetown's more important citizens and create a favorable liaison which will help in the future concerning possible summer or even full time jobs. The event has proven successful in the past and this year we expect it to be bigger and better. This is the first year the dinner will have a proven businessman speaking and it is hoped that he will be able to lend to us a few reasons and methods to becoming a success like himself.

There are many reasons why the students should make a conscious effort to attend this event and the biggest would have to be the connection one will make. Besides this the students will be receiving about a $9.00 meal for $6.00 and in addition, there will be a "free", please note, free, bar for about 45 minutes prior to the banquet. This reception will be sponsored by Standard Brands and just adds another star to the top-notch event. The dinner will be held either at the Cascade, Confederation Centre or Rodd Motor Inn and the menu and topic of discussion is also being decided upon. I guarantee that this year's topic will be most interesting because it is coming from the lips of a practical, down-to-earth businessman. For any student who attends this event will come the result of satisfaction and an evening well spent for only $6 or $7. For those who miss the banquet, then they are the big losers because the Business Society guarantees that the 1979 Businessmen's Dinner will be nothing less than a complete success.

Watch this column and posters in Kelley for further details.

My congratulations to Rick Tersteeg, Holly MacDonald and Fred Younker for their recent success in the Society's lottery draw. Three additional winners will be drawn for today.

See you next week.
