

ELLEN'S DIARY

Haying Is Interrupted As Mist Sweeps The Valley

"Come," the lord and master of the bantam - ladies, a handsome chap in a bespeckled coat, c rowed this morning, alerting, we supposed, all and sundry about "If you would get on with your haying, this is going to be the last day for it! You won't find a better."

James moved, flexed an arm and chuckled softly. "I reckon, Ellen, that's our cue. Yes, hear the clock strike," he said.

And we left with some reluctance that fairy - clime that is the Land of Dreams. Put the open book, for this was had been reading, face down on the seat there in the shade of... was it a wide-spread white birch tree? And faced the new day...

of shoulder and neat of waist, blue-eyed and pleasingly fair. The other was, naturally, brown of eye, and his dark curls had rings, the silken sheen of a raven's wing.

His arms were a dimpled and the very birds in the trees. But the dam, and the profusion of Queen Anne's Lace, blossoming strikingly down his heart, if you could credit them, were warm.

Some about mid-way in the boots, she was visiting relatives and friends at Kensington.

need, or a thread over which to carry a bride, though his was the silver tongue, and the smile was "twinkle!"

"From our pillow we could see ripples in the hay and a by an hour on the hill, fashioning there by the clean stiff breeze at the west."

"That wind will make hay," we said. A choice day, it proved to be. For the movings, for the raking of the season's hay, for the baling and saving by the sun, the hours spent away, ungraced for us by the sight of the purplish tangle of stretch along the dam, and the profusion of Queen Anne's Lace, blossoming strikingly down his heart, if you could credit them, were warm.

The afternoon was so hot, it brewed this," we said, watching the mist sweep the valley. "The afternoon was so hot, it brewed this," we said, watching the mist sweep the valley.

MR. AND MRS. LEIGH CRABBE

Double Ring Vows Pledged At Trinity United Church

Trinity United Church, Charlotte, was the setting for a beautiful double-ring ceremony in June, when Virginia A. Mackay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. MacKay, 35 Sidmouth Avenue, was united in marriage with Merion Leitch Crabbe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Crabbe of Millville. Rev. J.G.E. Ball officiated. The solemn, Mrs. Faith-Marie McKenna, at Danvers, officiated at the organ by Mr. Boynton F. Mugford. The altar was attractively decorated with baskets of honeysuckle and white lilies, and the guest pews were indicated by white satin bows and lily of the valley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in an original floor-length gown of imported shantung. The gown featured a jewel neckline and traditional lily of the valley, a crown of white roses, stephanotis, and ivy, and were cultured pearl earrings and pendant, a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor was Miss Joan Nelson, cousin of the bride, of Toronto. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Chandler of Halifax and Miss Gail Jenkin of Charlottetown. They were gowned identically in full - skirted, sleeveless, styled with rounded necklines, semi-fitted skirts, and chapel train. Her tiered veil of silk illusion was held in place by a coronet of illusion and pearls.

Attending the groom was Clark Johnson as best man, while the guests were ushered by Everett Johnston and Donald Nelson. The mother of the bride wore a gown and matching shawl of dresden blue, covering her. That was a flower - veiled home dress, her accessories were a navy and white, and she wore a corsage of white lilies.

Prior to their marriage, the bride and groom were entertained by friends and relatives on a number of occasions. Upon their return a community dinner was held at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Crabbe, Springvale, P. E. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Crabbe are residing at 10 Griffin Street in Charlottetown. Mr. Crabbe is employed as a sales representative of Hillside Motors Ltd., and Mrs. Crabbe by the firm of Messrs. J. Hennessy, Architect.

Blueberries Make Up A Classic Dessert Pie

WHEN blueberries are blue as the sky, then is the time to taste this essence of summer.

Some of us may have considered "blueberries" an ordinary fruit, because at this season we ordinarily buy them in baskets. But they must be imported and are as precious to the Islanders as their exotic fruits are to their mainland guests.

A big blueberry pie with a crumb crust edged with swirls of whipped cream and the grand finale of a gourmet dinner, who gets me in Honolulu.

People like pies, so we suggest this classic for your next four-dinner. Dessert: here it is. Measurements level: recipes for 6

David Beaton, cousin at the groom.

Miss Arlene Macdonald sang beautifully "The Wedding Prayer" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lighted tapers carried on either side of the wedding cake which was cut in traditional manner by the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Beaton are visiting relatives and friends at Kensington.
