HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cary and son David, Toronto have arrived in Charlottetown to visit Mrs. Carey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reeves, Moreau Drive.

Mrs. Fred L. Crockett, Halifax, is a guest of Mrs. Harry Tidmarsh, 140 Pownal Street.

Mrs. William Harrison and Mrs. Freda Harrison of Montreal spent a few days on the Island. It was their first visit to the province and they were impressed by the hospitality extended and the beauty of the countryside.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dickieson and children David and Kevin returned by plane for Toronto after spending their vacation with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Dickieson, Malpeque, and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe MacDonald, York.

Mr. and Mrs Stanley Gamble and daughter, Sandra, returne to Cambridge, Mass., on Friday after a week's vacation in P.E.I. They visited relatives in Charlottetown and Clyde River.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Bruce, Montreal are vacationing with Mrs. Bruce's brother, Mr. Gordon Douglas of Vancouver, B.C., and Mrs Edgar Lannon, Boston, at the Douglas home in Georgetown.

Rev. S.R. Purchase, BA, BD, United Church minister in Newcastle, N.B., who has been spending the past few weeks with his wife and family at the Strickland cabins in Murray River, has returned to his home in Newcastle. He supplied for the past two Sundays the United Churches of the Murray Harbor, Murray River Charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill MacDonald and son, Randy, and Mr. and Mrs. Athol Jenkins with their daughter Nancy, all of Toronto, vacationed with their parents, Mr and Mrs. Roscoe MacDonald, York, and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Jenkins, Cross Roads.

Mr. and Mrs. David Madren left on Saturday for their home at Hamilton, Ont., after vacationing at Kensington.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Profitt were honored recently at their home at Burlington when their family tendered them a surprise party on the occasion of their 35th wedding anniversary. A table lamp was presented by their daughter, Irene, Mrs. Alvin Bernard, on behalf of the family. Refreshments included a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, and home made ice cream

Miss Carolyn Sullivan of Montague arrived on the Island from Toronto to attend the MacGregor-Boates wedding which took place recently at the bride's home, Graham's Road. Miss Sullivan was one of the bridesmaids.

Miss Irene Cotton, Oshawa, Ont., is spending the month of August visiting relatives and friends in Kensington, Clinton and New London.

Mrs. John MacGregor entertained at a buffet luncheon in honor of her daughter, Beverley Anne, following the wedding rehearsal, for the MacGregor-Boates wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blanchard and family enjoyed a pleasant family re-union at their home 163 Dorchester Street. The guests were the relatives of Mrs. Blanchard.

Many local residents will remember Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stokoe who moved from this city, more than ten years ago, to California. They left their home August 3 and have been visiting friends and relatives through the U.S.A., Ontario and N.B.. and Thursday they were in Charlottetown briefly, renewing acquaintances. Two of their children, Charles and Vera, accompanied them. Mr. Stokoe, who was manager of Mutual Life Assurance Co., is now associated with the New York Assurance Co. in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Monroe of Halifax and their children are visiting in Keppoch with Mrs. Monroe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F.M. Nash.

Mrs. J.M. Murley has returned from Montreal where she attended the wedding of Miss Esther Lee, formerly of Hong Kong and Charlottetown and Mr. Suey G. Lam of Sudbury, Ont., formerly of Hong Kong. Mrs. Murley was a guest at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hing Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Owen and family of Montreal, P.Q., are vacationing for three weeks at Keppoch.

Out of the province guests arriving for the Coles-Johnston wedding are: Mrs. Chester Edwards, Hopedale, Mass.; grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, Miss Fay Edwards and Alan Edwards, Fredericton, New Brunswick; Mrs. Gordon McMurtry, New Glasgow, Nova Scotia; Mr. T. Heath Johnstone, Montreal, Quebec; and Miss Barbara Williams, Bridgewater, Nova Scotia.

Miss Myrna Coles, whose marriage takes place this Saturday was the guest of honor at a shower given by Miss Louise MacNeill, and a community shower at her home in North Milton. She was also entertained by friends from the Division of Laboratories, where she is employed, at a shower at the home of Mrs. Lowell Harvey, Bunbury.

Following the rehearsal for the Coles-Johnston wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Johnston entertained at their home in Milton for the members of the wedding party.

TO BOYCOTT MEETING

ACCRA (Reuters) — The Ghana Legion will boycott next month's conference in Ottawa of the Commonwealth Ex-Services League in protest against South African participation, it was announced Friday. In a letter to the league secretary-general in London, the Ghana Legion said that apart from objections to South Africa's apartheid policy, the republic no longer is a member of the Commonwealth.

Winners Chosen For Toronto Trip

Six 4-H club members were chosen last week to attend the National conference in Toronto in November. They were part of the 26 girls who attended the Provincial club week Leadership course in Charlottetown recently.

The trip is sponsored by the Canadian Council on 4-H clubs and is planned to coincide with Toronto's Royal Winter Fair. They were judged on: leadership ability, clothes judging, public speaking, participation in discession groups, and a interview rating.

The winners of this competition, the highest honor a 4-H member can achieve, are: Glenda Kitson, Hampshire; Hilda Dixon, Clyde River; Gemma Dunn, Morell; Anne Walsh, Elliotvale; Audrey Kennedy, New Perth; and Gloria Herlily, Cornwall.

Mrs. Evelyn Cudmore, director of First Aid and Water Safety Services, and Mrs Mary Thompson, the provincial Nutritionist were the guest speakers at the course, which was conducted by Miss Theresa MacLeod, the director of Women's Services of the Women's Institute Branch, assisted by Miss Judy Coates and Mrs. Ann Shaw.

Don't Jumble Around With Scrambled Eggs

RECENTLY I was a weekend guest in a home where a different person cooked the breakfast eggs each day — usually scrambled. (I mean the eggs!) The results were utterly different.

The first day they were not fluffy, evidently not beaten enough. I discovered also that they were "scratched eggs", made by beating with a fork, then cooking in melted butter while "scratching" them up with a fork.

GOOFED AGAIN!

The second day the eggs were "watery" and stirred into small, tough fluffs or curds. Too much milk had been added and too high a heat had been used.

The third day, the eggs were perfect — fluffy in texture, appetizing in appearance.

Measurements are level

FLUFFY SCRAMBLED EGGS

9 large eggs
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1-3 cup milk
3 tbsp butter or margarine

Break eggs into quart bowl. Add salt, pepper and milk. Beat until frothy.

Meantime melt butter in 10" table-or-regular frypan. Do not brown. Pour in egg mixture and slow-stir 1 min., or just long enough to thicken without browning.

Then with big spoon, scoop it up in the pan, making big creamy flakes, continuing until all is cooked, yet tender and loose in texture.

Serves 6.

WESTERN SCRAMBLED EGGS

(for Brunch or dinner)

¼ cup small-chopped onion
1 small-chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
¼ cup hot water
1 recipe scrambled egg mixture (above)
1 tbsp. minced parsley or frozen chives
12 half-moon slices sauteed smoked salmon, or small crisp sausages, or crisp bacon; or a melange of all three

Combine first four ingredients in table-or-regular frypan. Slow-saute until water is evaporated and onion is yellow

Add scrambled egg mixture. Scramble as directed; heap in center of frypan.

Dust with parsley or chives; surround with the sauteed salmon or meat.

Sizzling French fries are the usual accompaniment.

TOMORROW'S DINNER

Cantaloupe Wedges
Western Scrambled Eggs with Salami-Saute at Table
Sizzling French Fries
Thick-Stewed Tomatoes
Tossed Green Salad with Pickled Beets
Blueberry Turnovers (from Bakery, or Frozen and Home-Baked)
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea
Milk

The Chef's tips on cooking EGGS

Mesdames: Cook eggs at the lowest possible degree of temperature to achieve coagulaton. When cooked too quickly, their food value is often impaired because the high temperature devitalizes part of the vitamins in which the egg is so rich and the protein is made indigestible.

When eggs are to be fried, poached or shirred, first break them in a saucer, one at a time, then slide them into the frying pan or shirring dish.

Shower Held For Bride-Elect

Pink and white streamers and white wedding bells decorated the living-room of Mr and Mrs. Fulton Warren, North River, when friends gathered to honor their daughter, Ruth, who will be married soon to James Allaby of Sussex, N.B.

Assisting the bride-elect were Beverley Butler, Edith Campbell Susan Willis and Sandra MacGregor, who presented the gifts; Lois and Irene MacKinley who opened them and read the verses, and Janet Matheson, Lorraine Ramsay and Glenda Kitson who arranged the gifts.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of the community.

GAINED MIGRANTS

Some 12,000 immigrants settled in South Africa in 1962 and more are being added at the rate of 2,500 a month.

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Year's First Harvest Is Safely Stowed Away

This afternoon gathered her family, relatives, and many an acquaintance and friend to the "Old Kirk" at the corner, to pay last respects to one, who until her final illness, had for years been a faithful attendant at its services, and an extremely capable worker in its various interests there. She was a woman, this, who possessed many admirable traits of heart and hand. Of Scottish lineage, and reared in an elder day, she always held her church and her Sundays in reverence. Generous by nature, she was ever thoughtful of others, of every creed and calling, And the less fortunate, and many another, will remember her kindness in the way of an encouraging word and smile, or help given, or some gift from her always hospitable home. A fine helpmeet to her husband, a good mother to her family, a loyal friend, all now mourn sadly her passing. We at Alderlea, sympathize with the bereaved, and also treasure nice memories of her kindness up through the years.

Tonight, we fancy, even the stars shine lonelily because James is away to the Fair.

"Someone should stay there overnight to see that all's well with the cattle" the younger farmer offered at the outset. And who better in their turn than James and Mack? Do they enjoy it? After a manner. And we would say, more this, than last year, because while our hay is not yet all safely gathered in, what remains on the fields is baled and in "stook."

This season saw none of it gathered unbaled. This is a new departure on these farms, reasons offered in its favor are that it saves labor in getting it out of mow or loft through the months of stabling, and also makes for easier feeding. So this our first harvest of the year, is about completed — Other harvests, we remember, we have already garnered to mind: the white peace of the jewelled winter-days; spring's returning wild geese on dark wings above the hills, and the robins' love trills; sun and shower, moon and star-light; treasure of dandelions, white of wild strawberry bloom, buttercups, violets.

"There's not the toil to the haying there once was" James commented of it.

"Though it's quite as busy. Busier I believe"

And what did we do with the hours of this week about gone? What after all is His will for us through our days? An old friend enclosed this clipping in her recent letter, which answers the thought this way:

"Just to be tender, just to be true,
Just to be glad the whole day through,
Just to be merciful, just to be mild,
Just to be trustful as a child,
Just to be gentle and kind, and sweet,
Just to be helpful with willing feet,
Just to be cheery when things go wrong,
Just to drive sadness away with a song,
Whether the hour is dark or bright,
Just to be loyal to God and right,
Just to believe that God knows best,
Just in His promises ever to rest —
Just to let love be our daily key,
That is His will for you and me."

Until Monday — —Diary — Good-night.....

MARY HAWORTH

Senseless Affair Follows Separation From Spouse

Dear Mary Haworth: I suppose my problem is old-hat to you, but please help me.

I am 30, have one child, a daughter 5, and have been separated from my husband for a year, because I felt there was no love in our marriage.

I won't go into details (as that isn't my problem), except to say that I talked with our pastor before I left my husband and he seemed to feel I was acting on mature reflection, with good reason.

About six months prior to leaving my husband I had returned to work in an office where I was employed before marriage. This time I have a different boss. He is 46, married, childless.

We fell in love from the start, I guess, though neither of us admitted it until four months later. I knew Dan was what I was looking for and he felt the same. From the start we both knew we wanted to marry. But we don't seem to be making any headway towards it and I have been miserable most of the time.

Somehow I can't bear sitting and waiting (like some kind of vulture) and pretending I don't mean any more to Dan than just a secretary. It was something beautiful to me, yet I can't feel that way when our love is hidden and sneaky.

I guess I know he truly loves me, otherwise he couldn't put up with my hatefulness. But if he loves me so much — the love of a lifetime, as he says — how can he continue his marriage?

I have given him an ultimatum: if he is still with his wife by August 1, just forget me. I have thought of all sorts of things I could do if he doesn't decide either way. Such as go back to my mother's to live, or back to my husband, to make my word stick. The trouble is I don't want to leave town and I couldn't go back to my husband as it wouldn't be fair to him.

I don't know what to do; or who is right, who is wrong. Except of course that the whole thing is wrong. But I don't feel I am taking Dan from his wife. I firmly believe if there is love in marriage, that can't happen.

V.J.

Dear V.J.: In condensing your letter to fit this space I've omitted much relevant detail. For example you say: "I am from divorced parents. Maybe I just need a tremendous amount of love and proof of it, not just promises. I know I have so much love to pour out, but I just can't when Dan is hurting me like this." Etc.

I am afraid the truth of the matter is, you have almost no love to give. If you had, you would have stayed with your marriage and made something worthwhile of it, or of yourself (in terms of character development and spiritual growth) even if you never attained heaven on earth in the alliance.

St. John of the Cross is credited with saying: "Where love is lacking, put love, and you will have love." The late Pope John XXIII demonstrated the truth of this saying to the world. He loved human beings with ardent interest, angelic kindness and with profound concern for their individual well being. And humanity, so little accustomed to such selfless devotion, loved him back with a great upsurging of delight.

Your lamentable experience, in leaving the frying pan for the fire in pursuit of love, indicates that you operate "strictly from hunger," as the phrase is.

By your own admission you react with rejection in relation to your husband, and with hatefulness in relation to your paramour, on finding that neither man is any better able to love than you are. Which surely means, as I said before, that neurotic incapacity to love is the kink in your personality that needs correcting.

You are going in circles, getting nowhere, so long as you try to make sense of your senseless involvement with your boss, who is a neurotic type in his own right. To get a line on what motivates Dan's romantic urge, and how little the "other woman" can expect from him, read Dr. Edmund Bergler's book "The revolt of the Middle-Aged Man" (A.A. Wyn, publishers). M.H.

MR. AND MRS. LOWELL R. COTTON

Lovely Floral Setting For Recent Marriage

Tyne Valley Presbyterian Church was the scene of an early summer wedding when Ester Marlene MacArthur became the bride of Lowell Raymond Cotton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald MacArthur, Tyne Valley and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cotton, Summerside.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Donald MacKay assisted by Rev. Peter J. Darch. Mrs. Robert Millar was organist and accompanied Mrs. James Milligan Jr. as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" before the bride entered the church and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Floral arrangements of apple blossoms, lilacs and potted plants decorated the church. The guests pews were marked with daffodils, lilies of the valley, and white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white net and lace over satin, featuring a fitted bodice with dropped waistline, long lily-point sleeves, and a scalloped neckline of rose patterned lace. Her shoulder-length, circular veil of nylon tulle was held in place by a nylon tulle rose decorated with pearl flowers. Her only jewellery was a pearl pendant, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and white satin streamers.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Maynard. She wore a street length dress of yellow organza over taffeta featuring a full skirt, fitted bodice, short sleeves and bateau neckline. Her headdress was a yellow pleated crownless picture hat. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and yellow mums.

The groom was attended by Donald MacKendrick. The ushers were Thane Barlow, and Gordon Phillips. As the bride left the church she was presented with a silver "Irish Good Luck" horseshoe by her little brother. Brian.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. MacArthur chose a light-blue linen sheath with pink and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Cotton chose powder blue lace over taffeta, with white accessories and a corsage of white mums, Mrs. Annie Cotton, grandmother of the groom, wore a royal blue dress and a corsage of white carnations.

The reception for 60 guests was held in Tyne Valley Hall. Margaret Phillips, cousin of the groom seated the head table's guests. The bride's table was decorated with tapers and centered with a wedding cake made and decorated by Mrs. Courtney Maynard, aunt of the bride.

Rev. J. Donald MacKay asked the blessing and Rev. Peter J. Darch proposed the toast to the bride and groom to which the groom responded.

Miss Rosemary Maynard cousin of bride, was in charge of the guest book. Among the guests present, were the six sisters of the groom's mother, Mrs. Cotton. For a honeymoon trip to Ottawa, Ontario, the bride chose a blue arnel suit with red and white accessories. Her corsage was a candy-striped carnation.

The young couple have taken up residence in Summerside where both are on the staff of Ideal Dairy Ltd. Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower in the Tyne Valley hall.

Household Hint

When washing spinach, add a little salt to the water, allow to soak for a few minutes and any foreign matter clinging to it will float to the surface.

Dampen the inside of the dustpan and broom bristles before sweeping to prevent dust from flying..

If guests leave coats on your bed, protect the spread with a plastic tablecloth which keeps the coats from picking up lint and protects the spread from soil.

To preserve the finish of wash-and-wear fabrics, avoid washing them in hot water. Use a cool or cold rinse to help eliminate wrinkles.

Soaking your new toothbrush in cold water for 24 hours before using will preserve the bristles for a longer time.

Economical Scatter Rugs Appeal To Homemakers

By ELEANOR ROSS

ONCE considered the hallmark of elegance in the home, wall to wall carpeting is fast being replaced by oak floors and area rugs.

Young home-owners, especially, are going in more and more for this combination and there are several reasons for this.

First of all, one budget consultant pointed out to her clients, carpeting may cost ten to 15 dollars per yard or more but good area rugs are often available for less. Another economical fact is that they can, of course, be rotated for longer wear.

CAN'T GO WITH YOU

Then, too, moving—unless the floor measurements are the same in the new abode — means that the carpeting is simply a white elephant as you find out that you can't take it with you.

The surest sign that area rugs are growing in popularity is that there is such a wide variety at every price level. It is interesting to note, too, that catalogue houses are buying many of them.

WHERE THE KIDS ARE

Area rugs are at their best in a household where there are youngsters and where there is plenty of traffic. This would mean worn areas in fixed carpeting, but area rugs can be shifted around. Those that become a little worn can be moved to another room or a less exposed location. Yes, rugs that rotate or reverse certainly do solve a lot of problems in many a household.

As for the rugs, well, the variety is endless. The rugs come in room-sized, hearth-sized, patterned, plushly solid, imported, domestic sizes, shapes. colors and or designs, and then some. So it is very easy to suit the budget, the type of interior and the homemaker. If there are spill stains or other accidents, these are easily handled if the floor is dressed with movable rugs.

The rug can be cleaned at home or sent to a rug cleaning establishment.

But what we like are the possibilities inherent in the wide variety of rugs available today. We have become a rug collector and so have many of our friends. This means that we often swap rugs and we report on "finds", on sales and auctions.

If you enjoy any type of rug, from the beautiful braided and hooked to Persian and Chinese and the lovely rugs from India the variety and the possibilities are endless for beautifying the home and giving the floors a change of costume and color from time to time.

NICE AND CLEAN

And if it's cleanliness you want in a floor, a hardwood floor comes through.

To look their gleaming best at all times, hardwood floors need only simple care. In busy households these should be swept with a dry mop or vacuumed daily, a chore requiring only a few minutes.

CLEAN FLOORS

Two or three times a year, the frequency depending upon the amount of traffic the floors receive, they should be cleaned and waxed. Don't scrub them with soap and water. Use a liquiwax base cleaner.

Water, particularly if used often, may raise the grain of the wood and cause a rough surface.

SURVIVED INVASION

The people of modern Wales are descendants of the "Ancient Britons"—the Celts who survived Roman, Saxon and Danish invasions.

A Mighty Achievement!

Critics in every major city in the world where "The Longest Day" has been presented as a road-show were simply overwhelmed by the magnitude and staggering impressiveness of Darryl F. Zanuck's brilliant achievement in capturing on the screen Cornelius Ryan's stirring account of the D-Day invasion. The National Board of Review selected this massive production as "The Best Picture of the Year" and many film critics included it in their "ten best" films of 1962. Their unstinted praise has been unanimous. Starting Monday at the North River Drive-In.
