PORT AND INDUSTRIAL PROMOTION GREATER SAINT JOHN, NEW BRUNSWICK

We are seeking the services of a man who has experience in selling, not just selling in the ordinary sense, but rather selling an idea. In this instance, selling the Port of Saint John and the Greater Saint John area to exporters, importers, and industrialists. The man we have in mind must be capable of making contacts at top levels of management where necessary. His duties will be three-fold, in the following order: 1. To promote business through a port which is available to shipping twelve months of the year - with facilities second to none on the continent for handling freight and passengers. 2. To develop plans to interest new industries in locating in what is considered to be the Industrial Centre of the Maritime Provinces, and to assist those already established here. 3. To act as Manager of the Board of Trade. Anyone applying must realize that he will be required to travel considerably, particularly with respect to the part of his work relating to port and industrial promotion. The salary will be in keeping with the qualifications of the person selected. Those applying should give complete information and supply a recent photo or snapshot. Apply to: Special Committee, P.O. Box 100, Saint John, N. B.

Test Drillings For Oil Continue In Nigeria After First Discovery

LAGOS, Nigeria, (Reuters) - Engineers and scientists are working their way through a hot, swampy tropical wilderness to see if Nigeria's first discovery of oil is sufficient to justify commercial production. Oil has rarely been sought with greater physical effort or in more exacting conditions of climate and country than in Nigeria where tropical rainstorms turn rough jungle roads into quagmires and native bearers often wade knee-deep through jungle swamps carrying equipment. Radio is the only means of communication with exploration parties who sometimes have to be supplied by landing craft on crocodile-infested inland waterways. Many of the engineers and drillers are from Holland and Britain. Americans soon will go to work on the project under special contract to increase the area of test drilling. First news of the strike was given by the Shell-Arcy Petroleum Development Company of Nigeria last November, after explorations dating from 1939. The company said encouraging showings of crude oil had been recovered from a deep test well in Calabar province in the southeastern coastal corner of the British colony. The quality of the oil so far recovered has been good, but according to an oil company spokesman here it may not be possible to reach any decision about commercial exploitation until at least next year.

Business Reports

MONTREAL, (CP) - Distillers-Seagrams Limited reports a slightly increased net profit for the six months ended Jan. 31. Net profit was up from $23,223,617 in 1952 to $23,895,448 U. S. funds.

LOW COUNTRY

About one-fourth of Holland is below sea level, the whole country averaging 37 feet above sea level.
