

THE FAIR GOD. BOOK FIVE.

CHAPTER XI. (Continued.) The king took a signet from his wrist, and said to one of his councillors, "Let this be shown to the governor of that province. I require him to come here immediately, with all who were concerned with him at the time spoken of by Malinche."

The smile with which the monarch then turned to the Spaniard was lost upon him, for he continued, pitilessly as before: "The punishment of the governor is not enough. I accuse thee further. Thou traitorous king! Go with me to the temple, and now—this instant—I will show thee thy brother, with an army at call, waiting thy signal to attack us in the palace where so lately we received thy royal welcome."

The listener started from his seat. Upon his bewildered faculties flashed the remembrance of how carefully and with what solemn injunction he had looked his plans of war in the breasts of the members of his family, gathered about him on the alcobaca at Chapultepec. His faith in them forbade suspicion. Whence, then, the exposure? And to the dealer in mysteries Mystery answered, "The gods!"

"If his former faith in the divinity of the stranger came not back, now, at least, he knew him sustained by powers with which contention were folly. He sunk down again; his head dropped upon his struggling breast, and he was overcome."

And the stern Spaniard, as if moved by the sight, said in a softened voice: "I know not of thy religion; but there is a law of ours—a mercy of the dear Christ who hath us in His almighty keeping—by which every sin may be atoned by sacrifices, not of innocent victims, but of the sinner's self. In the world I come from, so much is the law esteemed, that kings greater than thou have laid down their crowns, the better to avail themselves of its salvation. Thou art an unbeliever, and I may do wrong—if so, I pray pardon of the Holy Ghost, that heathen me! I may do wrong, I say, but, infidel as thou art, if thou wilt obey the precept, thou shalt have the benefit of the privilege. I do not want war which would end in thy destruction and the ruin of the city and people; therefore I make thee a proposal. Hear me!"

The unhappy king raised his head, and listened eagerly. "Arise, and go with us to our quarters, and take up thy abode there. King shalt thou continue. Thy court can go with thee, and thou shalt govern from one palace as well as another. To make an end of speech"—and Cortes raised his hand tightly clenched—"to make an end of speech, finally and plainly, choose now; go with us or die! I have not brought these officers without a purpose."

All eyes centered on the pale face of the monarch, and the stillness of the waiting was painful and breathless. At last, from the depth of his tortured soul, up rose a spark of resentment. "Who ever heard of a great prince, like myself, voluntarily leaving his own palace to become a prisoner in the hands of a stranger? "Prisoner! Not so. Hear me again. Court, household and power, with full freedom for its exercise, and the treatment due a crowned prince—all these shalt thou have. So, in my master's name, I pledge thee."

"No, Malinche, press me not so hardily. Were I to consent to such a degradation, my people would not. Take one of my sons rather. This one"—and he laid his hand on Is's shoulder—"whom I love best, and have thought to make my successor. Take him as hostage, but spare me this infamy."

The debate continued; an hour passed. "Gentlemen, why waste words on this wretched barbarian?" exclaimed Leon, at last, half drawing his sword, while his face darkened with dreadful purpose. "We cannot recede now. In Christ's name, let us seize him, or plunge our swords in his body!"

The captains advanced, bearing their swords; Cortes retired a step, as if to make way for them. Brief time remained for decision. Trembling and confused, the monarch turned to Marina, and asked, "What did the tenle say?"

"As became a gentle woman, fearful lest death be done before her, she replied: "O king, I pray you make no further objection. If you yield, they will treat you kindly; if you refuse, they will kill you. Go with them I pray you."

Upon the advance of the captains, he stepped in front of the king; as they hesitated, either waiting Cortes' order or the answer to Marina's prayer, he knelt and clasped his father's knees, and cried tearfully: "Do not go, O king! Rather than endure such shame, let us die!"

Stupefied, almost distraught, the monarch seemed not to hear the heroic entreaty. His gaze was on the face of Cortes, now as impenetrable and iron-like as the armour on his breast. "The gods have abandoned me!" he cried despairingly. "I am lost! Malinche, I will go with you!" His head dropped and his hands fell nerveless on the chair.

The boy arose and turned to his conquerors, every feature convulsed with hate. "Thanks, good king, thanks," said Cortes, smiling. "Thou hast saved my soul a sin. I will be thy friend till death."

Thereupon he stepped forward and kissed the royal hand, which fell from his lips as if palsied—I will not say profaned—by the touch. And one, Leon, Leon, Lago, Avila, Alvarado and Sandoval approached and knelt on the dias, and in like manner saluted the fallen prince.

"Are you done, Malinche?" the victim asked when somewhat revived. "What I wish now, above all things," was the reply, spoken with rare pretence of feeling, "is to be assured, good king, that we are forgiven the pain we have caused thee, since, though of our doing, it was not of our will as much as of the ambition of some of thy own lords and chiefs. What I desire next is that thy goodness may not be without immediate results. I and my officers, thy son and these councillors are witnesses that thou didst consent to my proposal out of great love of peace and thy people. To secure the object—no noble beyond praise—the lords here in thy palace, and those of influence throughout the province must be convinced that thou dost go with me of thine own free will; not a prisoner, but as trusted guest returning the favor of our guests. How to do that best is in thy knowledge more than mine. Only what thy judgment approveth set about quickly. We wait thy orders."

"To, uncle," said Montezuma, his eyes dim with tears, "as you love me, be silent as to what has here taken place. I charge you that you tell it to no man while I live. Bid Maxtia come."

Summoning all his strength to meet the shrewd eyes of the chief, the monarch sat up with a show of cheerfulness. "Bring my palanquin," he said, after Maxtia's salutation; "and direct some of the elder lords to be ready to accompany me without arms or ceremony. As advised by Huitzil and these good uncles, I have resolved to go, and for a time abide with Malinche in the old palace. Send an officer with the workmen to prepare quarters for my use and that of the court. Publish my intention. Go quickly." Afterwards, from the palace issued a proclamation which no man unformed might look upon and say was not a funeral: in the palanquin, the dead, on his right and left the guard of honor, behind, the friends, a long train, speechless and sorrowing. The movement was quiet and solemn; three squares and as many bridges were passed, when from down a street a man came running with all speed. He gained the rear of the cortege and spoke a few hurried words there; a murmur arose, and spread, and grew into a furious outcry—a moment more and the cortege was dissolved in tumult. At the last corner was no longer doubtful; still Cortes held his men in check, for he knew, if blood were shed now, the common sense of the people would refuse the story he so relied upon—that the king's coming was voluntary.

"Can our guest," he asked of Sandoval, "be sleeping the while?" "Treachery, Senor."

"By God's love, captain, if it so turn out drive thy sword first of all things through him!"

While yet he spoke the curtains of the carriage were drawn aside; the carriers halted instantly, and of the concourse all the natives fell upon their knees and became ill, so that the voice of the monarch was distinctly heard. "The noise disturbs me," he said, in an ordinary tone. "Let the street be cleared."

The lords whom he addressed kept their faces to the ground. "What is the cause of the clamor?"

No one answered. A frown was gathering upon his face, when an Aztec sprang up and drew near him. He was dressed as a citizen of the lower class. By the side of the carriage he stopped and touched the pavement with his palm.

For Rickets, Marasmus, and all Wasting Disorders of Children Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is unequalled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing. In every case the improvement was marked."—J. M. Main, M. D., New York. Sold by all druggists, 50c and $1.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ABBOTT, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Castoria cures Colds, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion. Without injurious medication. THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 67 NASSAU STREET, N. Y.

THE treatment of many thousands of cases of these chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of women's troubles. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outcome of this experience. It is a most perfect specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, worn-out, run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "boarding house" keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening remedy, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and alluding nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded and skillfully prepared by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred ailments, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhoea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, female weakness, retroversion, retrocession, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with neural heat. As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, the system, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription" when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Peppermint (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrophulous humors from the system. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturer, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully guaranteed for many years. Large boxes (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00. For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, 603 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.
