Reciprocity Considered.

If the question of Reciprocity with the United States be within the sphere of practical politics,—and of this we may well entertain great doubt—it is a question to be calmly and carefully considered.

In any case, Mr. Kickham is to be congratulated upon having directed the attention of our Upper House to a subject worthy the consideration of its members.

When looking into the matter, the honorable gentlemen of the Upper House will, of course, first ask themselves: "Is there any hope that the old Reciprocity Treaty can be revived?"

On the other hand, suppose that we stand true to our Queen, hold fast to our British institutions, and continue in the fiscal policy of defence which we entered upon in 1879,—what will probably be the result?

But, it is said, we can obtain "Unrestricted Reciprocity." Can we? If we can, the Government and Congress of the United States must be quite destitute of principles of action.

Well, suppose that we are ready to "sell out to the States;" suppose that we are willing to turn traitor to Queen Victoria, and exchange our British Institutions for Republican Institutions, in order that we may obtain Unrestricted Free Trade with the United States—how will the people and posterity of Canada stand affected?

Notes and Comments. The international American conference adopted the report of the committee on customs union, which recommends that reciprocity treaties negotiated between the several republics of the American hemisphere, each making tariff concessions so that the peculiar products of them all may be introduced free into the others.

tion of United States' agriculture. Now the fertile prairies of the West yield abundantly, and there are great trans-continental railways to carry produce East and West to the commercial and manufacturing towns of the sea board.

In the city of Boston, for instance, choice beef had been selling at 7 and 7 1/2 cents per pound, while common to good is quoted at 4 to 4 1/2 cents. Would our farmers make much money by feeding beefs for the United States markets at such prices as these?

On the other hand, suppose that we stand true to our Queen, hold fast to our British institutions, and continue in the fiscal policy of defence which we entered upon in 1879,—what will probably be the result?

It will, perhaps, be urged that we are paying too much in duties upon iron, etc., for the development of our incalculable natural resources. Well, it cost a great deal in labor, and time, and money to clear away our forests and stump our land;

House of Assembly.

April 15. AFTERNOON SESSION. House went into committee to further consider the Bill respecting controverted elections. Progress was reported.

Mr. Montgomery asked the Commissioner of Public Lands if it was the intention of the Government to repair the wharf at Lot 14 the coming summer. He also asked if it was the intention of the Government to complete the opening of the new road from Spring Valley to Old Town Road, Lot 18, this coming summer.

Hon. Mr. Bentley replied that the engineer had inspected the wharf in question some time ago, and that steps had already been taken to have it repaired.

Mr. Sullivan asked the Commissioner of Public Works if it was the intention of the Government to complete the line of road leading from Byrne's Road, Lot 39, to Donnelly's Road, Lot 38, during the ensuing summer.

Hon. Mr. Bentley said that one of the roads enquired about was already under construction, and would be completed at as early a date as possible.

House went into committee for the further consideration of the Act respecting controverted elections, Mr. Forbes in the chair. Progress was reported, and the House adjourned.

Grand Show Day.

MESSRS. JAMES PATON & Co.'s store was the centre of attraction to-day—the occasion being their first show day this season. Among those who visited the premises in the afternoon was a representative of THE EXAMINER whose was courteously shown through their large establishment by the senior member of the firm.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Mark Wright Competition. SIR,—Referring to a letter in last night's EXAMINER, signed "Teacher," we wish to say for the information of the competitors for the prizes offered by us, that having received several hundred competition papers, we have not had sufficient time at our disposal, so far, to complete their examination.

Our circular, offering the prizes, did not limit the time for awarding the same, as that, of necessity, would depend to a great extent upon the number of competition papers to be examined. We hope some time in May to be able to inform the competitors as to the results.

Personal.

Wilkie Collins is said to have remarked a short time before his death:—"After more than thirty years study of the art, I consider Walter Scott the greatest of all novelists, and 'The Antiquary' is, I think, the most perfect of all novels."

Mrs. Cleveland has been elected president of the Welles College Association for a second term. She is luckier than Grover. Miss Tessie Fair, who is shortly to be married, will bring to her husband about $3,000,000. Tessie is to be congratulated on the prospect of getting her name changed.

The Halifax Herald announces the death of Mr. Hugh Hartsborne at the advanced age of 85 years. He was the oldest member of the Nova Scotia bar, having been admitted an attorney on the 24th July, 1827—nearly sixty three years ago.

Mr. T. L. Chappell has kindly shown us a very beautiful view of the Methodist Episcopal College at Aoyama, Tokio, Japan. The Rev. Benjamin Chappell, M. A., and the Rev. I. W. Wadman, M. A., are on the staff of instructors at this institution.

The French titles of the late Duc de Montpensier pass to his grandson, Prince Ferdinand d'Orleans, the younger son of the Comte de Paris, to whom he has left a large estate in France. The fortune of the Duc de Montpensier, including the estimated value of his estates in Italy, France and Spain, amounts to $35,000,000, of which it is understood that his son Don Antonio inherits $20,000,000.

The recent death of the unfortunate Viscountess Kingsland ended a life of strange vicissitudes. She was married in 1819 to Viscount Kingsland, the only representative of an old title. At his death she fell into the greatest poverty, and occupied a small room in a back street of Lambeth, with hardly any furniture.

House went into committee for the further consideration of the Act respecting controverted elections, Mr. Forbes in the chair. Progress was reported, and the House adjourned.
